Any one of these dyed-in-thewool partisans may be right. For this department that game is the hardest to get an angle on of any this season. It's as unpredictable as a woman, any woman-including Mabel. I've seen Oregon State in action thrice during the season, against Idaho, WSC and Stanford, I've seen Oregon go four times, against Ucla, USC, Idaho and Washington. Perhaps I should alter those statements somewhat, for against Idaho the Beavers weren't in action none whatsoever and didn't move too sumptuously against WSC, while Oregon didn't go anywhere against USC. The Oregon team that beat Ucla, Idaho and Washington could beat the Oregon State team that looked so pitiful against Idaho. But so could have Podunk prep, The Oregon State team that beat Stanford could beat the Oregon team that played USC, but so could have Catawaba college. The Oregon State team that beat Stanford would play the Oregon team that beat Ucla or Washington a whale of a ball game. That is probably the way it will be. The winner? See ya tomorrow on that score. And I do mean score.

The armory sock papas really staged a wow of a card Wednesday night. If that batch of bouts didn't satisfy the sourcest of local fistic "sourpeez," they'd better move their blood thirsty appetites to the Japanese front.

Buddy Peterson, the Independence clouter, gained more prestige out of his draw with the walloping chocolate drop from Seattle than he ever has in bouts he has won by clean knockouts here. Buddy, in coming back from being clunked cold at the bell in the opening canto, to outpunch Watson and gain a draw decision, completely won the esteem of local fistic followers. A gamer fight has never been fought that Buddy's. Through the second, third, fourth and fifth tical bid for Rose Bowl considerarounds Buddy couldn't have told tion. you his own name. As the sixth was about to open he told his handlers to quit lying to him when Gonzaga Departs they were attempting to convince him it was the sixth round coming up and he still had a chance to win. He thought it was the second.

As far as I was concerned it was Buddy's fight from the third round on. But the terrific lacing squad left by train today for Sunhe took in the first two rounds day's game against Loyola at Los couldn't be laughed off. The way Watson hooked lefts into Buddy's head was a caution. In calling the bout a draw Referee Frisco Edwards probably did right. His decision, the way I saw it, merely revolved around the comparative scoring, with six of the eight rounds being won by Peterson, but Watson's knockdowns gaining him enough points to merit a draw.

Both boys can fight. A rematch, which isn't likely for at least a month because Peterson is booked to show in Tacoma and Seattle, should be a sellout here.

300,000 Fans Brave Snow and Storm; Cornell Is

Ivy League Winner

By JUDSON BAILEY NEW YORK, Nov. 24.-(AP)-Football's express, hurtling toward the end of the line, made a Thanksgiving flagstop today and two new conference champions climbed aboard.

Cornell's big Reds squeezed into the Ivy league berth through a Northwest conference loop scoreless tie with Pennsylvania heads will have one major change and Tennessee continued its undefeated Southeastern conference campaign with a 46 to 0 rout of Kentucky. Southern California's Trojans overwhelmed the Uclans of the University of California at Los Angeles to gain a share in the Pacific Coast conference laurels and reinforce its chances of becoming the western representative in the Rose Bowl.

Not the big football terminal it once was, the holiday nevertheless packed about 300,000 passengers for the express, with 70,000 packing Franklin field at Philadelphia for the Ivy league feature and another 60,000 turning out for the Pacific coast spectacle.

Throughout the east and south these football die-hards took as much of a peating as the Thanksgiving turkey and more than their favorite football teams.

Snows in Alabama It snowed as far south as Birmingham, Ala., where Alabama closed its season with a 7 to 0 triumph over Vanderbilt, and games between Duquesne and Niagara at Pittsburgh and Marshall front the session includes draw, and W. Va. Wesleyan at Huntington, W. Va., had to be called off.

Stirring the Big Six stew into a new design, Nebraska beat Kansas State 14-7 and Missouri topped its old rival Kansas 13-7. This moved Nebraska and Missouri into a tie for third.

The big news from the southwest was Dana Bible's Texas team nosing out Texas A. & M. 7 to 6 for its first conference victory of the season. Arkansas and Tulsa battled to a 6-6 draw.

In the west Montana whipped Arizona 7-0, New Mexico overpowered Colorado State 27-7, Denver outscored Colorado 19-12 and Idaho stopped Utah 16-0.
