Program for Crescendo Concert Announced

June Hope West, appearing as solo dancer at the high school on Thursday afternoon at the first concert in the Crescendo club series at 12:50 o'clock, will dance the following program: "The Mask," music by Varley, is a toe ballet suggesting artful coquetry in the French manner. "Hayti," music by Maurice, is a dance from the same group. "Al postures with interest centered in the hands, in "The Scarf," with music by Henry Hadley the grace of the French ballet is displayed creating interpretive figures with the use of five yards of scarf. She will dance a tap on toe dance and a hint lay for the next group.

"Padora," with music by Tschickowsky tells the story of gods giving the Grecian Princess Pandora a box containing all the blessings of life, how she was charged never to open it and how she could not resist the temptation. She slipped off the cover only to find all the blessings escaped except hope.

"Russian Rhapsody," includes music arranged by Krasnoselsky and gives characteristic steps from various parts of Russia, North Russia, Caucasus (Leszinka), Tartar, Samaritana and South Russia. Portraits of the oppression of the peasantry, their struggle to break their bonds and their freedom is depicted.

"I just wanted to compliment you on your new dress. I have a tablecloth of the same material."

Housewares make mighty acceptable gifts for the general manager and cook of the household. Making these small gadgets only a part of her Christmas is understood, they should be put in the stocking, hung on the tree or perhaps used in place of holly to decorate the top of her larger present.

A wooden spoon, many of which are found at the housewares store, will look excellent stuck in the bowl that ties the Christmas package. Wooden spoons are an indispensable part of the equipment in many homes. Women who become familiar with the feel of wood will find that it's a great comfort in mixing delicate materials.

There are slotted spoons, solid spoons with wide bowls, long narrow spoons and wooden forks for mixing. Select a variety as a nice gift. Then there's another handy gadget for kitchen use and one that makes an excellent gift. It's an ice cream scoop to use for serving frozen desserts of course, but better and often, to use in serving potatoes, rice, spinach, squash and other compact vegetables.

Molds of wood make forming butter pats a simple matter. Many women like to add this bit of style to their menus. A set of nested ladies of chrome makes another good gift. Some have square-ends so every bit of the liquid can be scooped from the kettle, some have lips to use in pouring, some are of oval shape for convenience.

Thermometers for the kitchen should not be forgotten when gifts are being purchased for the kitchen. There are great thermometers that will simplify meat roasting. They indicate just when the meat is done. The candy thermometers are practical for women who like to make sweets, and there is a choice in prices of these handy gadgets.

A new coffee maker that automatically switches off the electricity as the water enters the upper chamber, is an innovation in beverage makers and a practical one for the housewife's gift.

Drop Cookies Easy To Make

A peanut drop cookie is a good thing to have around the house these cold days when an appetite comes with Jack Frost. This cookie is inexpensive, filling and attractive. Simple to make, too.

PEANUT DROP COOKIES

1 cup sifted flour
1 teaspoon double-acting baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 teaspoons grated lemon rind
6 tablespoons butter or other shortening
1/2 cup sugar
1 egg, well beaten

Wheat Surprise

Whole wheat cereal makes an other interesting dish to serve at a family meal.

COOKED CEREAL USED IN DESSERT

Stir raisins into cooked cereal before cold and set. Place in a baking pan and add sugar, salt and cinnamon. Scald the milk and pour over the mixture, stirring well. Beat eggs, add put in vanilla to taste. Bake in a moderate oven until brown, about 45 minutes, and serve eight.

Today's Menu

Stew will be the meal's attraction.

Cranberry salad
Mexican stew
Broccoli-cheese sauce
Baked pears
Gingerbread

MEXICAN BEEF STEW

2 pounds beef
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons lard
1/2 cup chili sauce
1 medium-sized onion
Molded corn meal mush
Salt and pepper
Have beef neck, shank, or chuck cut into one to two inch cubes. Dredge these in flour and brown well in hot lard. Add chili sauce, sliced onion, salt and pepper and enough hot water to cover. Cover the kettle tightly and simmer until done, about two hours. Slice corn meal mush and brown in hot lard. To serve, place meat cubes in center of platter with corn meal mush arranged around them. Thicken the liquid with flour smoothed in cold water and serve separately.

Olives Flavor, Garnish Salads in Winter

Color for the buffet supper is most easily delegated to the salad. Holiday influence is seen in the use of olives. Some use green olives and crisp strips of pitted pepper in a blood red aspic of lemon gelatine and best juice. If desired, onion accent may be introduced through the addition of a bit of onion juice to taste.

Ripe olives in pitted form give a sophisticated note to the most homespun salad and are easily prepared. A hand operated cherry pitter with a plunger removes the pit easily. Place the stem end of the fruit under the plunger.

For other salads thinly sliced pitted ripe olives fill a decorative need. Serve in individual molds or in quart ring mold form. As the dressing to be served separately, prepare mayonnaise by adding a small amount of horseradish.

Soup Takes Tapioca As Thickening

Tapioca is used to thicken this soup mixture that includes onion, cheese and parsley.

Meat Platter Makes Attractive Meal

Cold cooked corned beef, sliced and arranged with relishes on a cold platter, is a favorite for Sunday night suppers with many housewives. Perhaps horseradish sauce is served as a sauce with cold corned beef because this makes a good sandwich combination. Perhaps tiny pimiento cups filled with horseradish cream can be arranged on the cold meat platter; or a cornucopia made by rolling a slice of corned beef may be filled with horseradish cream for a decorative note as well as a pleasant taste combination.

Drop Cookies Easy To Make

A peanut drop cookie is a good thing to have around the house these cold days when an appetite comes with Jack Frost. This cookie is inexpensive, filling and attractive. Simple to make, too.

8 OZ. NET
EQUALS 1 LB

GIVES YOU FULL WEIGHT AND FULL FLAVOR

On every package of Tree Tea, the weight of the tea in the package is plainly stated. A pound package means 16 ounces; 1/2 pound—8 ounces; and 1/4 pound—4 ounces.

Remember that Tree Tea is the finest tea you can buy at any price. The Orange Pekoe contains the rich flavor of Darjeeling; the Green is the full-flavored first crop of green tea.

Showy Dishes Interesting To Guests

Company comes these days, and it's a good idea to make the ladies among them sit up and take notice of your culinary skill. The quickest way to win admiration, and often the easiest, is to know a few simple but showy tricks. Any sister-in-law will take the news back home of your excellence if you spring a few of these gastronomic pictures on her.

Melted peppermint patties are poured over the breakfast grapefruit for color and flavor. Dates are stuffed with cottage cheese and chives for a luncheon salad.

Cubed egg plant alternated with sliced tomato, and topped with crumbs bakes to make a showy luncheon dish or supper vegetable.

Some of these fancy cereals we see in the market are crispbread to the breaking point and sprinkled along with chopped parsley over the top of the soup plate just before its taken to the table.

A Brazil nut is wrapped in bacon and broiled to serve as an appetizer. Ripe bananas, sliced in a casserole with cranberries are sweetened and baked until done to make dessert or vegetable.

Frankfurters sliced very thin and mixed with potato salad makes a main dish for luncheon. Or if you like, buy large thin slices of pressed meat of any kind at the grocer's, fry them quickly on one side, this causes the meat to curl up making an excellent container for salad. Experiment a bit, you'll find it a good idea once you've got the system of making the meat curl. Leave rind on the outside.

Tiny pearl onions make good garnishes for meat platters or for canapés. Tomato juice and orange blend to make an excellent drink.

On every package of Tree Tea, the weight of the tea in the package is plainly stated. A pound package means 16 ounces; 1/2 pound—8 ounces; and 1/4 pound—4 ounces.
