

Fear Russian Relation Rift

Delay in Naming American Ambassador to Soviet Causes Comment

By CHARLES P. NUTTER
WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 (AP)—President Roosevelt's continued delay in appointing a new ambassador to Moscow has created an impression in diplomatic circles here that American relations with Russia may have arrived at the same state of chilly doubt as those with Germany.

(Neither the United States nor Germany has an ambassador at each other's capital—and the same situation holds true with regard to the United States and Russia.)

President Roosevelt has allowed the Moscow post to stand vacant since Ambassador Joseph E. Davies was transferred to Brussels in June. He said this week he did not know when he would appoint a new envoy.

The Kremlin meanwhile has let it be known that Ambassador Alexander A. Troyanovsky, who had gone home on leave, would not return to Washington. There are indications his successor will not be named until Roosevelt has acted.

New Instrument

The actual state of American relations with the Soviet and with Germany, while nominally normal, is nevertheless ambiguous. The absence of envoys, if evidence of displeasure or disapproval, is a new instrument in diplomacy, the principal merit of which is that it is easier to retract steps taken than if an open break occurred.

The rift with Germany came openly and dramatically following the recent outburst of anti-Jewish measures there. Reasons for Soviet-American coolness, if it exists, are more obscure and involved.

Levy Ties in Budget, Audit

Reconciling Both Budget and Audit Done First in 40 Years

The 1939 tax levy, announced here Wednesday, for the first time in 40 years attempts to tie in and reconcile both the biennial budget and the state department's audit of the general fund, the state tax commission announced Thursday.

This was done, the tax commissioner said, so the legislature would have before it a more complete picture of the state finances, proposed budgets and tax levy setups.

The 1939 levy also sets out for the first time various millages and other amounts for higher education both inside and outside the six per cent limitation provision. While the World War veterans' state aid commission one-half mill levy is eliminated for the year 1939 it was projected for 1940.

Total Levy Reconciled

The total tax levy within the six per cent limitation is reconciled with the estimated budget figures for the coming biennium of $13,575,502.43 and is also reconciled with the secretary of state's audit of the general fund as of June 30, 1938.

The levy shows estimated expenses to which the state will be subject of $8,152,379.30 for 1939 both inside and outside the six per cent limitation. Of the total, $6,902,093.29 is inside and $1,250,286.01 outside the limitation provision.

$200,000 Unspent

Unexpended balances were estimated at $200,000 for the year 1939 or $400,000 for the biennium. Estimated receipts from miscellaneous sources such as corporation and insurance fees, inheritance taxes and other smaller items aside from income taxes were fixed at $1,900,000 for the year or $3,800,000 for the biennium.

Income taxes for 1939 were es-

Mott will speak daily, except Saturday, at 10 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. until December 8, when Rev. Headrick will take over the evening services.

Mills Resigns Position

WOODBURN—Paul Mills, for many years manager of the Woodburn office of the Spaulding Lumber company, has submitted his resignation which took effect Thursday, December 1. Mills will operate a shingle mill near Tillamook but will make his home here where he is also city treasurer.

His former position will be taken by C. V. Culp of Eugene.

Estimated at $5,352,011.07, which is applicable to reduce property taxes. Of this amount, $4,101,725.06 is used inside the six per cent limitation and $1,250,286.01 outside the limitation.

The two mill elementary school tax of $1,801,441.43 is retained by the counties. This is the only property tax apportioned to the counties in the levy.

Adequate Defense Is Asked by Mott

Congressman Says United States Should Mind Own Business

"Americanism" was defined by Congressman James W. Mott as "an understanding of and a reverence for the American system of government and a determination to preserve it," in an address at the Americanism night meeting of Salem Elks lodge Thursday night. Members of four veterans' organizations were guests of the lodge.

Taking cognizance of the menace to democracy in the totalitarian systems, Congressman Mott said the only thing the United States could do, in his opinion, was to "mind our own business and see that they do not encroach on our rights." To this end, he advocated making this nation impregnable through adequate military defenses.

In tracing the advent of the American system, the speaker declared that the Revolutionary war was not so much a protest against injustices, which were not so severe as those in some countries today, but a struggle for the ideal of self-government.

The program included numbers by the Elks' orchestra and solos by Gordon Finlay and Glen Burright. Announcement was made of the annual Elks' Memorial service Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at which Earl Snell, secretary of state, will be the speaker, and of the Elks' charity show next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights.

Pension Meet Tonight

WOODBURN—The Woodburn Townsend club will hold their regular meeting Friday night, December 2, in the auditorium of the Lincoln grade school. Important business is to be transacted and a large attendance is desired.
