

Vazakas Tells Of Greek City

Thessalonica Is Pictured to Lions by Savant of Willamette

Thessalonica, home of Alexander the Great, was described from historical and physical standpoints by Dr. A. A. Vazakas, Willamette university languages professor, in an address before the Salem-Lions club yesterday noon. He first made his acquaintance with the ancient city on the Aegean sea when he went there to assist a scholar in compiling a dictionary in 10 different languages, he said.

City Near Sea

The city extends back from the sea in the shape of a great amphitheatre with sloping terraces on which may be seen examples of Greek, Roman, Byzantine and Turkish architecture, the speaker explained. Styles of construction changed with succeeding invasions.

Among the great events for which Thessalonica was the scene was the visit in the first century after Christ by the apostle Paul, to whose subsequently written letter to the Thessalonians Dr. Vazakas attributed the spread of Christianity throughout the world. The little city nearly 300 years later sent emissaries to Bohemia and Moravia where the religious teachings developed in the form that gave John Wesley his inspirations as founder of the Methodist belief, the speaker added.

Alice Swings but not Racquets

Emile Coleman and Alice Marble

Blonde Alice Marble is still in there swinging—but now it's notes and not the tennis racquet. Miss Marble, who has held several U. S. crowns, was surprised by the photographer as she rehearsed in New York for her singing debut at a New York hotel. Orchestra leader Emile Coleman is her accompanist.

Tips Are Offered On Purchase of Goods for Home

INDEPENDENCE—Mrs. Azalea Sager, state home economics leader of the extension division from OSC, spoke at the Parent-Teachers' association meeting Monday afternoon at the training school on "Consumers' Education."

She spoke especially on furs, blankets, labels, hosiery and silk materials. She urged members of the association to attend the state homemakers' convention in Corvallis in February.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne MacGowan sang duet numbers, accompanied by Mrs. M. J. Butler. Mrs. Orley Brown, president, appointed Mrs. Howard Bennett as membership chairman. Mrs. W. F. McBee, principal of the training school, invited all to attend the children's Christmas program to be held next Friday afternoon.

Hostesses for the tea hour were Mrs. Joe Oberson, Mrs. D. Pomeroy and Mrs. Howard Bennett.

Public Library's New Books Listed

Fiction and Non-Fiction Added to Shelves in Recent Purchases

The Salem public library has received a copy of the "Book of Record of the Time Capsule" published by the Westinghouse Electric company and given to a limited number of libraries and museums for preservation. The book is a guide to the time capsule which is buried on the site of New York's world fair.

Recent additions to the library include Edman's "Philosopher's Holiday," the entertaining memoirs of a Columbia university professor of philosophy. "Frontiers of Enchantment" by Leigh is the story of the experiences in Africa of an artist who accompanied Carl Akeley on his last expedition. Lonsberry's "Let's Set the Table" is a practical and well-illustrated guide to table arrangements. A much discussed book is Neuberger's "Our Promised Land" which stresses the possibilities and resources of the Pacific northwest and describes the effect on this country of the influx of dust bowl refugees. Biographies include a life of Emily Dickinson, "This Was a Poet" by Wheeler, "An Autobiography" by Singer, and "Edison's Open Door" by Tate.

New fiction includes "Wisdom's Gate" by Barnes, "All This and Heaven Too" by Field, "Christmas Gift" by Hancock, "Journey of Taplopa" by Nathan and "Baker's Dozen" by Norris.

The work of a local author has been added to the library by the gift of "The Sage of Exeter" by Father Buck.

Strike Leader

Here is the man leading that general French strike in which 5,000,000 persons "passively" stopped work in protest to Premier Edouard Daladier's economic decrees. He is Leon Jouhaux, head of the General Confederation of Labor.

Club Attendance Almost Perfect

SILVERTON—J. O. Gross, president of the Lions club, points with pride to the near perfect attendance (only one member missing) at the Tuesday night meeting, when Dr. P. A. Loar spoke on roads and road improvement.

Dr. Loar pictured in interesting fashion the growth of good roads in the county and especially about Silverton and also talked on the proposed changes in the Silverton-Salem route.

The club, to which a charter was granted last month, is looking forward to active participation in city betterment. The Lions meet each Tuesday night at the Silverton grille. A home talent program will feature the next meeting.

Fireplace Wrong Dumping Site for Old Car Battery

JEFFERSON — The W. J. Looney family experienced quite a scare a few days ago at their home just south of town, when they placed an old car battery in the fireplace, thinking it would burn out the flue.

To their amazement, the battery exploded, throwing acid on some of the furniture near by, and filling the room with fumes and smoke. Fortunately no one was sitting in front of the fireplace at the time.
