Jobless Law's Status Is Up

Holman Provides Guessing Game for Speculators on Politics

(Continued from page 1) are Ralph H. Campbell, commission attorney, and Ralph E. Moody; and it is believed that if their version of the case, backed up by Attorney General Van Winkle's opinion, is not sustained, they will at least obtain a "stay of execution" until the legislature can amend one law or the other in such manner as may be necessary. The great guessing game in Oregon politics at present is the date of Rufus Holman's resignation as state treasurer. If he resigns before January 9, Governor Martin will name his successor, and if he resigns on or after that date the choice will fall to Governor-elect Charles A. Sprague.

Regardless of gossip, neither the governor nor the governorelect has let fall any intimation as to whom he would appoint in case the duty fell to him. It is wholly possible that Holman has not picked the date for resignation and neither "appointer" has picked a possible appointee.

There is going to be tremendous, unprecedented pressure for new sources of revenue, both for the state and for counties and cities, in the impending legislative session and the seams of the present system may rip some-where, with the best bet somewhere in the neighborhood of the gasoline and automotive 1:.x setup. It is expected that the counter-pressure against any actual diversion of gasoline tax money will prevail, with its greater use on county roads and some use on non-highway streets, in the doubtful column. An interim committee's report on this question may appear before the session opens. Whether uch use would reduce the amount of federal appropriations is an importent factor.

But aside from this, the fact that Oregon automobiles, paying enly a $5 flat license fee, are not on the tax rolls is also certain to receive some attention There will be an effort to put them on, thus adding several million dollars to the assessment rolls and reducing the millage.

There is a bit of politics being played in Salem city affairs present. One aspect is the threat of a "committee on committees" to take the appointive power away from Mayor-elect W. day, the next wash day. Chadwick. This threat may not develop into actuality; much depends upon what assurances e mayor may give the bloc that is toying with the idea.

On Monday night the matter of licensing some 19 beer sales establishments faces a showdown. The aforesaid bloc objects to beer sale in these places in the residence districts, not on the basis of opposition to beer sale as such, but because children patronize these places to buy candy and ice cream and are brought into contact with drinkwhen they do so. The group will probably not object to package sale licenses for the same establishments.

Alimony Row out For Yule Holiday

CHICAGO, Dec. 17-(A)-Twenty-nine of the 31 prisoners in Alimony Row left their cells in the county jail today in an annual mass liberation for the Christmas season.

Judge Robert C. O'Connell and Phillip J. Finnegan accepted the word of the released men that they would try to make alimony payments. Rejecting the plea of John Hart, whose wife said he had paid only $10 in three and a half years, Judge O'Connell remarked, "You don't deserve a

Dyer Freedom Is Denied by Court

Attorneys Say That Case of Klamath Woman to Go to Martin

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore., Dec. 7-(A)-Defeated in a motion to obtain a writ of habeas corpus, attorneys for Mrs. Ollie Dr , 40, charged at Pineville, Mo., with murder of her mother in 1933, said today they would carry their fight to Governor Martin, who will hold an extradition hearing soon Dismissing the petition for the writ, Circuit Judge Edwin B. Ashurst ordered Mrs. Dyer placed in the custody of the sheriff on a fugitive complaint. She was arrested when her husband, Jack. already returned to Missouri, said his arrest on a minor charge that his wife had killed her mother, Mary Sullivan.

Dyer claimed the mother's death was made to appear to have been caused by an accidental fall from a hayloft. The habeas corpus action was based on the ground that the charges were only the result of a statement by the husband, who said Mrs. Sullivan was bludgeoned.

Judge Ashurst refused to allow testimony purporting to show that the husband's statement was the product of malice.
