Sunshine Mining Advances to 111/4 at Treasury Silver Price

NEW YORK, Jan. 3-(AP)-The stock market today started the new year with a post-holiday headache. Early weakness of aircrafts touched off selling in other departments and, despite a show of resistance put up by rails and specialties, closing losses running to 2 or more points were widely distributed.

While business prospects continued to prop market sentiment, many traders inclined to stand aside pending delivery of the presidential message to congress

Cash Aircraft Profit Speculative forces cashed profits in the recently buoyant aircrafts as doubts arose as to just how far the government would go in its rearmament program. Sunshine Mining responded to the maintenance of the treasury's domestic silver purchase price by an advance of 1% at 11%.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off .3 of a point at 52.9. Transfers totalled 1,152,880 shares against 1,400,-010 last Friday.

Tacoman Hurt in Freak Accident

TACOMA, Jan. 3-(AP)-Mrs. Ruth M. Fuson, 50, was fighting for her life in a Tacoma hospital and C. F. Hurd, 39, was being held in the city jail on open charges tonight as the result of what police described as one of the most unusual traffic accidents on record here.

Officer William Cordell said Mrs. Fuson's right leg was severed below the knee and carried susprise to friends and relatives nearly 100 feet when she was struck by the rear bumper of Hurd's automobile. Cordell said Anderson, who teaches in North Hurd was intoxicated and was driving on the wrong side of the street when the accident occurred.

Buying Price on Turks Ranges 22 to 25 Cents

PORTLAND, Jan. 3-(AP)-There was a carryover on the turkey market today because producers bringing in supplies prior to the new year holiday overfilled the demand. Buying prices were generally 22 and 23 cents a popund for hens.

Alex Conant had sandy hair, pale furtively over the rim. "Lisbeth's in New York. She's there permanently with a new personality and a flair for giving unusual parties."

Constance lowered her eyes. Did she mean Lisbeth Shelley, Gordon's divorced wife? Would they meet again, she and Gordon, when she, Constance, was his wife?

Casually Gordon said, Really? She was such a quiet little person when I knew her." He thought, where Van always stops." Irene laughed. "She isn't a quiet little person anymore! You see her everywhere. Her father died. Did you know and Lisbeth is going frantically through her inheritance. She asked about you."

Alex Conant had earnly hair, pale blue eyes without spirit, and a weak mouth usually twisted into an easy smile. He was tall and large. Like Gordon, his white suit accentuated the deep tan of his face.

When Constance reached them, Gordon went to her and put his arm through hers.

The next day, before she went to Gordon, Constance drove to the Howard home. In a bright smock with a broad hat over her brown hair, Nina Howard was pulling weeds from her beloved flowers.

Seeing Constance, she straightened and smiled. "I can't offer you a dirty hand. But how are you? You know?"
