Wool in Boston

BOSTON, Jan. 10.—(AP)—(USDA)—
Mills and topmakers today were showing a continued interest in wool on the Boston market. Quotations were very firm at the advanced price levels obtained toward the close of last week. Fine territory wools in original bags were quoted at 68 to 69 cents, accured basis, for good French combing length, and at 66 to 67 cents, accured basis, for average to short French combing lengths.

On Hop Loans

Newhouse Warns Growers to Get Applications in by January 15

Oregon hop growers, with loans on 22,731 bales, lead the coast states in-number of bales on which federal commodity credit corporation loans have been made, M. J. Newhouse, secretary-manager of the Pacific coast hop stabilization corporation said yesterday. In all, advances have been sought on 36,-242 bales of 1938 hops, with the maximum bales under the $2,300,000 loan to be 50,000 bales.

Newhouse warned producers who have not yet applied for advances that all papers pertaining thereto must be completed and in the hands of the stabilization corporation in time to submit to the Portland office of the commodity credit corporation not later than January 31. To be sure of getting advances, growers should make application by January 15.

Applications may be filed at the Salem office of the corporation at 710 First National Bank building. Advances on the 1938 crop are being made by the commodity credit corporation at the rate of 23 cents a pound for prime grade hops, 21 cents on medium grade and 19 cents on common grade, or net advances to the growers 20 cents, 18 cents and 16 cents on the respective grades.

Under the provisions of the loan the grower is permitted to sell his hops at any time up to June 1, 1939 at which time they pass under the full control of the corporation.

Market Takes Stronger Turn

Some Buyers Nibble While Others Await Outcome Relief Battle

NEW YORK, Jan. 10-(AP)-After having lost virtually all of its pre-Christmas upturn, the stock market today took a midturn on the rallying side.

The weak aircrafts of the preceding session led the revival on hopes the president's national defense message, due tomorrow or next day, would bring the rearmament theme more strongly into the speculative limelight. Gains ran to 2 or more points at the best, but these were substantially reduced at the close as traders cashed profits.

Dealings were slowest for any 5-hour day since Dec. 9. Transfers totalled 713150 shares against 1,099,630 yesterday. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks retained a ret advance of .1 of a point at 52.

While some buyers appeared to be in a nibbling mood, most inclined to a do-nothing policy pending outcome of the relief spending battle in congress.

ing to say when between you were! He smiled and drew her into his only ashes of love. . . . arms and kissed her and held her Her heart in panic, Constance quite a long time. She was trembarms and kissed her and held her

After a while he said, "You don't yet. . . .

"I don't love him, Terry! Today sorry for him . . . "

He smiled again. "You don't have university, we took a ride on a night cry. "Terry! Terry!" to tell me or—or you can tell me such as this. We didn't say anything And the only people who were not some other time. Because, you see, to tell me or-or you can tell me how warm his lips were when he lissed me finally. I thought he'd they stopped still and waited and never get around to kissing me and loped...

Terry pressed his foot on the local three way was you over for Avis not say any of those things. He

He saw her the moment he tepped from the porch. His heart seemed to stop. And never had he tood so still because at first he won Constance?"

He saw her the moment he dren teased him about her...

He smiled when he stopped before her "Hello. You called me? How are "Mello. You called me? How are won Constance?"

Smiling, her flecked eyes glisten-Smiling, her flecked eyes glisten-ing, she broke away from him a little and looked around. Along the moonlit street, lights were on in only
