to 48.8, the widest break in this composite since September 13, last.

Dealings were fast in the foremon as large blocks of recent favorites changed hands on the downside. The pace slowed later, but transfers totalled 1,881,120, the largest volume for any session since December 29.

Inspiring heavy offerings, brokers said, was the thought of international complications that might come in the wake of an imminent insurrectionist victory in the Spanish war.

BOSTON, Jan. 23—(AP)—(USDA)—
Fine territory wools were quoted very firmly today on the Boston market. Sales at the close of last week took further sizeable amounts out of the market. The bulk of the demand was on original fine territory wools, which brought 69 to 70 cents scoured basis for good French combing lengths and 67 to 68 cents scoured basis for average to short French combing lengths. Some three-eights blood territory wool was included in recent sales at 60 to 62 cents scoured basis for combing and 67 to 69 scoured basis for clothing lengths.

Santy Tractional gains were wiped away and replaced with small net losses at the close.

Snow blanketing much of the winter wheat belt, with prospect of more, also had a bearish effect on grains. Ordinarily signs of increasing international tension would be bullish on wheat but there were no outstanding Political developments.

Wheat closed ¼-½ lower than Saturday, May and July 69 down 1½.

Security Jitters

CHICAGO, Jan. 22-(AP)-International nervousness that hit the securities markets today had a depressing effect on wheat prices. Early fractional gains were that the message he was carrying has been stolen. He mumbles about seeing a young woman bending over his coat in the hospital. . . . The next day, Dr. Andrews tells of a new patient—"a perfect giant of a fellow, a Dutchman" named Jan Yan Westrheene—who was slightly injured when bringing his yacht and Matresser's private harbor the register on Matresser's private harbor the research sing about their world experiences.

"You have the reputation, Lord fatresser," Van Westrheene said, of being a great traveler."

"Then my reputation belies me," he said solemnly, "to meet her lady-ship, your mother."

He crossed the floor towards the door—a huge, impressive figure who say in fine comes over. Leave the low hens as they are bound to come out again from the wood."

"I shoot the hares and rabbits—seemed somehow or other to dwarf all the contents of the room. On the threshold be turned and bowed again. The footman who had been summoned closed the door. Mattersser's private harbor the resear remained for several moments silent, listening to his firm footsteps upon the hard oak stairs. He turned to Yates.
