

Tax Structure Is Faulty, Lions Told

Intangibles Tax Unfair to Small Stockholder Rep. Farrell Avers

Labeling the present intangibles tax unfair to widows and small stockholders, Rep. Robert S. Farrell, jr., member of the house tax and revenue committee from Multnomah county, declared before the Lions club yesterday noon that changes should be made in the Oregon tax structure. Disclaiming any desire to speak for Governor Sprague, Farrell opined that the governor, with the majority of the committee, view the situation in a similar light.

Outlining highlights of progress made by the legislature in attempt to arrive at a feasible solution to the revenue dilemma, Farrell referred to HB 25, the measure to suspend the present intangibles tax. This he said would not exempt delinquent taxpayers under the present law, nor would it do away with the machinery for resuming collections at a later date.

His Proposed Act
Farrell referred to H. B. 50 as a copy of the Wisconsin plan with fixed credit features which he labeled "too drastic on the small income people." He also announced his opposition to taking the needed additional revenue from property owners because the property taxpayers now carry more than their share.

"When you consider that it is going to take four to five million dollars to meet the old age problem," he said, "the job is too big to be solved in the income field alone." Farrell confessed that the committee had not yet arrived at a solution. He stated, however, that committees of both house and senate were working overtime in order to reach an agreement within a few days.

'Inherits' Needle From Mother

Mrs. Mary Tozzo of New York City is shown holding a needle, which she claimed passed from her body to that of her baby before the child was born. The needle was removed from the child's back. Physicians are puzzled, but admit the possibility. The fact the eye of the needle pointed inward, instead of outward, was considered to substantiate the theory offered by the mother.—AP Telemat.

Sensible Solution Seen
The speaker closed with a tribute to the present membership of the legislature. "The feet of your legislators are on the ground and I have confidence that they will arrive at a sensible solution to the present day problems in Oregon."

It was announced that a reception will be given at the Blind school for Bill Root, director of the Lion's charity show "Hit It Up" to be given February 21, and 22.

The following committees were announced by Lion President Al Ramsyer: Sports, Harold Pruitt, W. B. Ashby, Bill Dunsmoor, and W. R. Newmyer; Dr. Lloyd Hockett added to the education committee; welcome committee, A. C. Burk, Paul Acton, Percy Blundell, Dr. Estill Brunk and Eugene Grabenhorst.

Red Cross Office Chile Aid Center

Local Chapter Will Accept Voluntary Gifts for Quake Area Relief

The Marion county chapter of the American Red Cross has been instructed by national headquarters that the increasing needs developing out of the recent Chilean disaster makes it advisable for local chapters to accept voluntary contributions from those people in their communities who desire to assist directly in the emergency still existing.

Money, Medicine Already Sent
It is announced that money, medical supplies and tents for shelter have already been sent in large quantities from the American Red Cross to the Chilean Red Cross for distribution to the earthquake victims. The American Red Cross has also sent disaster workers to assist the Chilean Red Cross in the difficult task of rehabilitation.

The local Red Cross chapter will make no campaign for funds, but will be glad to accept any voluntary contributions which community members would like to have forwarded to the stricken area.

to interfere with the free speech of others.
If forms of direct or indirect coercion are the path to war, we had better prepare to protect ourselves more vigorously against civil strife.
To sum up:
Ideas are spread by force. The concept that they should be spread by itself is an idea. The concept that they should be spread by free discussion and reason is a contrary and therefore hostile idea that may yet have to defend itself in arms—since no one can reason with a tank. And the spreading of ideas by economic sanctions—i. e. force—has already too deeply penetrated this democracy.

"Edison Day" Is Turned Down Here

Governor Charles A. Sprague, in a letter to Governor Harry A. Moore of New Jersey, declined to issue a proclamation in behalf of appropriate public observance of the birthday anniversary of Thomas A. Edison on February 11.
Governor Sprague said he had been reluctant to issue proclamations except when a matter of particular importance was involved.

Marion, Polk FSA Aids 258 Families

Some Receive Farm Loans, Others Get Inventory, Budget Advice

Farm and home inventories, budgets and accounts are helping over 258 Marion and Polk county farm families chart their course to greater security through the rehabilitation program of the farm security administration T. R. Hobart, FSA supervisor, Salem, reports.

Each family receiving an FSA loan for necessary livestock, farm equipment, household goods or other operating items agrees to keep careful records to guide its enterprise and place the farm on a business-like basis. This forms the basis for placing in effect practical farming and home plans that will insure maximum returns for the year's operations.

Starting out with a complete inventory of land, equipment, livestock, feed, seed and household goods quickly reveals what operating goods will be needed for the year, determines the farm and home plans and provide for an accurate check of these facilities at the end of each year.
