While the big legislative tangles remain to be untwisted, the picture of the session is clearing and another week will bring decision on several of the major problems. The proposal is certain to be vigorously fought Oregon retaining an unsavory memory of its $12,000,000 venture into irrigation district projects. Bondholders were generously washed out by the time of the Explosions Occur Aboard great depression and were generally glad to settle on refinancing plans worked out through RFC which paid only 14 to 25 cents on the dollar. The state guaranteed the interest for the initial years and issued bonds to do it, bonds which will not be paid off for nearly 20 more years.

Some Legislation on Subject Certain The session is certain to enact some PUD legislation because the present law is admittedly unworkable and the agitation for public ownership in some quarters is too authority to wait two more years before being able to deal with upstate PUD districts. Prevailing legislative sentiment is to safeguard PUD district setups with rigid restriction on the amount of bonds issued, the manner of their issuance and the use of the taxing power by the utility districts. Governor Martin's budget left out some items the legislature will provide for but some slashes have en made on routine items to keep the aggregate appropriations within the budget total.

The $22,000,000 relief requests recommended by the outgoing administration-are the only major unsolved problems before the ways and means committee. The committee has been holding back its recommendation on the relief matter to see what the legislature proposd to do in the way of extra taxes. Two Accidents Gusty Chinook Measures Due Are Reported Breeze Causes Hit-Run Cases

Two alleged hit-and-run accidents, one in Salem and the other on the Salem-Dallas highway in Polk county, engaged the attention of Salem city and state police Saturday night. Arrests were made in each case.

The more spectacular accident occurred on the Salem-Dallas road, a short distance east of the Independence junction, when an automobile in which Lloyd Yocum of Dallas was a passenger was involved in a collision with a truck which, state police said, did not stop. Yocum was brought to the Salem Deaconess hospital where it was reported that his injuries, which included a head in-

Republicans Keeping on Hand for Ballots on . Important Issues

Attendance, Also Liberal Bloc Revival Topics for 2 Conclaves

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 .- (AP)-Jittery over the showing of republicans in the new congress, house democrats have called two meetings for next week to talk things over and see what can be done about consolidating their forces.

Republicans, still far outnumbered despite their gains at the polls last November, have been doing a better job of keeping their members on the house floor, particularly at times when important votes were coming up. Democratic leaders have been worrying a bit about that. Consequently, they have arranged for a conference of all house democrats Tuesday. Speaker Bankhead said it would not be a formal caucus and that "we are just going to talk the situation over." Absent Demos Could Have Reversed Result

One barb sticking in the sides of the democrats is the 159 to 122 vote by which the house decided to lop 17,203,000 from an appropriation for the Tennessee valley authority and halt part of its dam construction program.

Democrats who failed to show up for the vote could have reversed the result. In contrast to democratic absences, republican party supporters were handy all the time the independent offices appropriation bill, which includes TVA funds, was in the amendment

The other democratic meeting, said only "new dealers" were being asked and that the purpose of the parley seemed to be to take some preliminary steps toward setting up an informal or-
