Salem Cameraman Films Ski Scenes

Dr. Hill Adds Shots Made at Timberline Lodge to Oregon Views

Dr. Hill, nationally known motion picture producer of Salem, photographs ski scenes at Timberline lodge the past weekend. The Salem dentist brought a party of six, three movie cameras and a galaxy of floodlights to the lodge to start a new film in color of Oregon's recreational wonders.

The film will include skiing, ski jumping, golf, mountaineering, horseback riding, dancing and other scenes of recreationists at Mount Hood, fishing in streams and lakes near Timberline lodge, the Mount Hood loop highway and the Columbia river highway.

Groups to View Picture He gave a preview showing last Sunday night of his previous pictures at the lodge, and thanked the guests for their co-operation in the new film. Nearly 100 persons were shown in his indoor scenes shot at the lodge, and numerous others in his outdoor films made at Pucci's glide below the lodge.

The film will be available for free showings to ski clubs and other organizations.

Mrs. Hill and their daughter, Charlotte, who have modeled for his pictures in all principal resorts of the nation, appeared in ski clothes in many of the scenes.

Club No. 6 Tonight — Central Temperance club No. 6 will meet at 8 p.m. Friday at the courthouse.

To Alter Home — L. A. Bond yesterday procured a building permit to alter and repair a dwelling at 1940 South High, $100.

Ships Crash in Fog Near Gate

With a huge hole punched in her side, the intercoastal freighter Virginia had to be assisted back to a drydock in San Francisco after a collision with an oil tanker, Solana, 12 miles from the Golden Gate. Size of the hole may be noted by the crew members standing inside the twisted plates. For a time it was feared the ship would sink. It had a crew of 41.—AP Telegram.

Criminal Cases Are Weeded out

Number on Trial Docket Cut From 10 to Three by Various Reasons

Criminal case developments have cut trial dates on the circuit court docket from 10 to three, Court Clerk Harlan Judd reported yesterday. Only one, State vs. Anderson, is slated for trial this month, February 27. The case of State vs. McKinney, set for today, has been postponed because John Steelhammer, defense attorney, is busy at the legislative session. That of State vs. Pool, set for today, may not be tried; it was indicated yesterday Pool would change his plea. Continuance has been asked in the case of State vs. Allen, set for February 20.

Juryless Trials Requested Trials without a jury have been requested in the cases of State vs. Haley, set for February 21; and State vs. Beecroft, set for February 24. The case of State vs. Murphy is pending on a plea of former jeopardy while that of State vs. Singleton, set for February 28 probably will be dismissed because the defendant has taken care of his justice court sentence and waived appeal.

Jersey Cattlemen Set Spring Show

Dates Will Be Arranged to Give 4H Clubs Chance to Compete

Directors of the Oregon Jersey cattle club, meeting in Salem Thursday, voted to change dates for the spring Jersey show so they will not interfere with the 4-H summer school thus giving clubsters a chance to participate in the spring competition. Definitive dates will be set at the next meeting. They also agreed to have all spring shows served by the same judge, clubs to share the expenses. Plans were completed for a radio broadcast in behalf of the state club over KOAC at 7:15 o'clock tonight. W. C. Leth, Dallas, secretary, will represent the Jersey group, as Rex Ross, Mt. Angel, president, will be in eastern Oregon. Ross was named chairman of a committee to represent Oregon in publication, with 19 other western states, of a New Jersey directory. The directors voted to start an outline now for the county clubs' annual contest for the state achievement award, and also for the Jersey Bulletin award, with Howard Burch, Oregon City, chairman of the committee. The group discussed some changes in classifications in the state fair Jersey show, and will ask the fair board to consider these changes. Essential changes proposed are a junior calf classification; setting of dairy group, and senior yearlings; and changes in judging of production classes.

Savings Made in Items on Budget

Appropriations of the joint ways and means committee for the current legislative session now aggregate approximately $4,662,754.43 as against recommendations in the state budget amounting to $4,920,668.92. The savings resulting from reductions in the appropriations recommended by the state budget total $257,914.49. Members of the ways and means committee explained that all of the appropriations approved up to this time were tentative and may be changed before the bills finally are reported out. At a meeting here Wednesday afternoon the committee decided to allow increases in salaries of state institution heads only upon recommendation of the subcommittee in charge of investigating the institution budgets.

School Buildings' Thefts Charged 4

Four 14-year old Salem boys will be taken into juvenile court at 10 o'clock Saturday morning for a hearing on charges they have been involved in petty thefts from five local school buildings.

Ballet Practice Over Exuberance Gets 2nd Victim

The "Big Foot Ballet," one of the acts on the Salem Lions club's forthcoming stage show, "Hit It Up," proved too strenuous yesterday for Jack Pitnam, member of the cast, and he landed in a doctor's office for attention to a dislocated hip. He suffered the mishap while the cast of nine local businessmen was practicing the act in the chamber of commerce auditorium.

Another member of the cast, Dr. W. B. Snodgrass, landed on the casualty list with a wrenched back last week but has recovered and is back in the rehearsal line-up.

Demas was taken into custody by city police Tuesday but later released.

Civil Rights Hearing Held

Discriminations Against Negro Race Voiced in Speaking for Bill

Objections to alleged discrimination against negroes and other minority races were voiced at a hearing Wednesday night before the state senate's judiciary committee on the civil rights bill. The measure, introduced by Sen. Harry M. Kenin, guarantees to all persons full enjoyment of civil rights in public places.

More than 300 persons including a large delegation of Portland negroes, attended the hearing. Irvin M. Flowers, negro, declared that he served in the World War but upon his return to Portland was refused a dish of ice cream by a restaurant owner.

"This refusal came," Flowers said, "before I had discarded my uniform." Hotel's Refusal Cited Isadore Maney, a negro mail clerk for 28 years, said that upon a recent visit to Bend he was refused hotel accommodations.

Other persons who spoke in favor of the bill were Edgar Williams, president of the national association for the advancement of colored people; Mrs. John Lewis, of the Portland YWCA; Nettie Rankin Bolland, representing the Portland high school teachers' association, and Irvin Goodman, Portland attorney. Mrs. Lewis charged that delegates to a national negro convention in Portland a few years ago had been refused hotel accommodations and were forced to sleep in Pullman cars in the railroad yards.

Hotels Friendly, Claim Denial that the hotel operators were unfriendly to the negroes was made by Earl McInnes, manager of the Multnomah hotel and president of the Oregon Hotel association. "Records show that the hotels of Portland are the largest employers of negro labor in the state," McInnes said. He added
