

Perennial Weeds Theme Leaflets

Control of Annuals Is Also Under Study at Oregon Experiment Station

OREGON STATE COLLEGE—Some extension publications just issued are the first in a series of illustrated leaflets dealing with the worst perennial weeds in this state. The ones issued so far deal with Canada thistle, white top, morning glory, quackgrass, leafy spurge, Russian knapweed and the plantain. Each contains an excellent drawing of the adult plant, its root system and an enlarged seed or seed cluster. A history of each weed in Oregon is given, its relation to the Oregon seed law, and the latest methods of control. These little leaflets make an excellent supplement to the larger weed control bulletin issued by the extension service last year.

Weed control is not all confined to work with perennial weeds. L. E. Harris, research man in the farm crops department, points out. The loss from annual weeds over a period of years is probably greater than from perennial weeds, though they are ordinarily much easier controlled—weed for weed, that is.

Control Annual Weeds. One of the hardest places to control annual weeds is in fall planted grain. When winters are unusually mild annual weeds sometimes get such a start in fall grain that if allowed to grow they will materially reduce grain yields. Harris has been carrying on extensive experiments with the use of chemicals to control these annual weeds in grain.

Most of such weeds have broad leaves when young which makes them more susceptible to the action of chemicals than the grain

Grangers' News

LEBANON—Frank Steen of Crowfoot grange and chairman of the Pomona agricultural committee and his brother, John Steen, attended the meeting at Albany city hall Monday where they were joined by members of nine other granges meeting for discussion of projects for rodent control, expansion of grass seed nurseries, weed control, fertilizer grass plots, farm tours and encouragement of 4H club work.

J. R. Beck of OSC and Floyd Mullen, county agent, assisted in the arrangement of the program.

SILVERTON—Handy ideas for use around the farm will be featured at the Friday night meeting of the Silverton grange, according to Mrs. L. McClure, lecturer. Mrs. McClure will ask every other man at the meeting to tell of some easily made contrivance or labor-saving device. Mrs. McClure reports she hopes everyone will bring note book and paper.

Other members will also be presented during the lecturer's hour.

DAYTON—Instead of the regular meeting of the Dayton-Webfoot grange Saturday night the members will join in the Pomona grange at McMinnville Friday, when a pie social will be held.

RICKREAL—The grange will meet Friday night for their regular meeting and a patriotic program. A large crowd is expected as this is county visiting of the granges.

RICKREAL—Five tables of "500" were in play at the grange card party Saturday night. High score went to Mrs. Lillie Larkin and Forrest Pence.

TALBOT—The Ankeny Home Economics club sponsored a card party in the grange hall Wednesday night. Five tables of "500" one of Pedro and Chinese checkers were in play during the evening. High scores were won by Mrs. Rex Hartley and Carl Miller.

Refreshments were served to all, under the supervision of Mrs. S. Van Staavern, Mrs. Lawrence McKee and Mrs. Fay Morrison.

PLEASANTDALE—The regular annual men's night of the Pleasantdale community club will be held at the school Friday night. The program will be by local talent. A pie social will be a special feature.

KPs Fete Tonight

The suit was tried here Monday and Tuesday before Judge Earl C. Latourette of Oregon City. The case went to the jury around 4 p.m. Tuesday and they reported the verdict around 11 p.m. Tuesday.

Samuel F. Lane Dies in Portland

AUMSVILLE—Samuel Forest Lane, who was born April 2, 1897, at Agency, Missouri, died February 21 at the veterans' hospital in Portland. He lived in Kansas before coming west. He was a veteran of the World war and a member of post No. 53, Station.

Survivors are his widow, Ida Lane; one daughter, Rosella; three sons, Raymond, Forest, Billy, all of Aumsville; four brothers, Lester Lane of Faithville, Milton, Ted of St. Joseph, Mo., Frank of Cherry Grove, Ore.; two sisters, Zola Ashley, St. Joseph, Mo., and Eulah Douglas of Holton, Kansas.

Funeral services were held at the Holman and Lutz funeral home in Portland Thursday. Interment will be in the Lincoln Memorial cemetery there.

Woodburn Folks Home From Fair With Good Report

WOODBURN—Dr. and Mrs. Gerald Smith returned home Wednesday from San Francisco, where they spent three days at the fair after he finished a two weeks course at the Post Graduate and Poly Clinic hospital. He said although the fair is only 70 per cent completed, there is still plenty to see of interest to everybody. He says the fair in San Francisco is better than the recent one at Chicago.

Oregon has a nice exhibit including one showing agates and one showing wild life; also a reproduction in a form of an animated picture that looks almost real showing a beach scene. Dr. and Mrs. Gerald Smith attended the opening day on which the attendance was over 100,000 people. There was ample room for parking cars which cost 50 cents. Admission to the fair was 50 cents and a round trip on the bridge was 50 cents.

"Doc" stated that Corrigan was there with his crate as well as the new clipper ships of the Pan-American Airways. Although there is parking space for 16,000 autos, a trolley to the ferry for five cents and a ferry to Treasure Island for 10 cents with the 60 cents admission makes the expense of the trip equal to anybody's pocketbook.

RETURNED TO HOSPITAL. UNIONVALE—E. M. Alderman, prominent farmer, who had been critically ill and convalescing at the McMinnville hospital until he returned home Tuesday, Wednesday morning suffered an attack of asthma and at once returned to the hospital.
