Religious Census To Be Made Here

Foursquare Gospel Church Seeks to Find Number of Unaffiliated

Six thousand or more doorbells will be rung in the city of Salem during the next few weeks in a city-wide survey to be conducted by workers of the Foursquare Gospel church, 19th and Breyman streets, to ascertain the religious affiliations and preferences of the city. The survey is being organized and conducted under the direction of Rev. Upliss O. Davis, who with Mrs. Davis is holding a series of "personal evangelism" meetings in the Foursquare church. The aim, according to Rev. Stewart G. Billings, local pastor, is to visit every Salem home and to contact all those who are not attending church at the present time. Results to be available "It is not our desire to influence religious opinions, but simply to determine the number of people who are not actively attending church," Rev. Billings states. The statistics obtained through the survey will be released to the local chamber of commerce and to the various churches of the city if desired. The workers of the church are being organized into groups of two each, under the banner of "Gospel Legionnaires."

Rev. and Mrs. Davis are also conducting a course of religious education for Sunday school teachers and workers, as well as young people's leadership classes. These classes are open to all who desire to attend, as are the special young people's services to be conducted on Friday nights.

"I am a fireman and fire a stationary boiler. If I come under this bill put it through, I would like to get some of the easy dough."

The bill was introduced by Sen. Dorothy McCullough Lee, Multnomah, and was approved by both houses without serious opposition. Governor Sprague wrote the North Bend man that the bill applied only to members of fire departments and he would not be eligible for benefits under the bill.

Youth Hostel Move Started

Field Worker Tells About Outdoor Activity Plan at Salem Meets

The Youth Hostel movement was off to a flying start here yesterday, with Nancy Reasoner, district six field worker, explaining by movies and by voice its nature to representatives of some 20 Salem civic club and public organizations.

A meeting at 5 p. m. today, at the chamber of commerce, will bring forth a local chairman and committee to sponsor the movement, it is hoped.

Starting some 30 years ago in Europe, the Youth Hostel movement is of recent origin in the US, but already 184 hostels have sprung up in the eight regions into which the nation is divided, with 10,000 pass holders registered last year.

Designed to promote outdoor activity principally among the youth of the world, the Youth Hostel movement interests itself primarily in bicycling, hiking, skiing, etc.

Northwest Held Best
Miss Reasoner, who believes the northwest territory will lead the country in hosteling, is talking before a number of organizations while here yesterday and today. She said it was the hope of the organization to give Salem the honor of a figure eight trail that would include coastal points, Portland, the Cascades and Eugene. Secondary roads a day will be used as much as possible.

Sponsorship for the movement is generally sought in college communities, and it is believed the Salem hostel will be established on the Willamette campus, probably at a fraternity house.

Hostelers usually allow $1 a day when "hosteling" according to Miss Reasoner. This covers food, the standard 25-cent overnight fee charged by all hostels, and with economy includes such extras as theaters, museums and concerts.

Junior High Visited
Yesterday Miss Reasoner spoke before an assembly at Leslie Junior high, to the club representatives at the Argo and to a YMCA group last night. Today she is billed for a 9:30 talk to the WPA recreation class, a 12:50 address to the Salem high school assembly, the 5 o'clock meeting with club representatives, and a 6:30 talk to the Active club.

A sponsoring committee will be chosen for Salem today, similar to the Portland committee that is composed of Dexter Keezer, president of Reed college; A. R. Watsch; G. H. Obersteuffer, Boy Scout executive; and Prof. Charles Bostford, physical education head at Reed.

Interested in the movement in Salem are the Boy Scouts, CYO, Campfire Girls, Chemeketas, Kiwanis, Lions, Rotary, junior chamber of commerce, YMCA, YWCA, 20-30, Salem high, Leslie Junior high, the Salem PTA, national youth administration, WPA recreation class, the AAUW, Willamette university, Salvation Army, as well as the City of Salem.

Slogan of movement is: "To help all, especially young people, to a greater knowledge, understanding and love of the world by providing for them Youth Hostels and by assisting them in their travel both here and abroad over bicycle trails, foot paths and by-ways."

Legion Observes 20th Anniversary

Capital Post Joins With Nationwide Veterans in Program Here

The American Legion's 20th birthday was celebrated by Capital Post No. 9 of Salem with a program presented by the Legion Auxiliary following regular meetings of both organizations Monday night at the Fraternal temple.

A tribute to the legion was voiced by Mrs. E. T. Andresen, president of the auxiliary unit, who presented a birthday cake with 20 candles to Commander Brasler C. Small of the post.

Program Diversified
Other numbers on the program included tap dancing by Gloria Meyers, vocal solos by Gladys McIntyre Thomas and readings by Mrs. Leon Brown. A "feed" and dancing followed.

At the post meeting, Carl R. Moser of Portland, department adjutant, reported that Legionnaires from all parts of Oregon were already making plans to attend the department convention here in August. He also mentioned the visit of the national vice-commander to Portland April 15, with the two-day department service officers' school also opening that day.

Sheriff, Deputy Led Merry Chase

Wanted on a charge of assault and battery, G. C. Broussard, 24, late yesterday afternoon led officers a half-mile chase across fields and through brush before he was captured, Sheriff A. C. Burk reported. The charge was preferred by Broussard's wife.

Sheriff Burk and Deputy B. G. Honeycutt were waiting for Broussard when he returned to his home in the Swegle district from a visit to neighbors but on a ruse he entered the kitchen and fled through an open window. Warning shots in the air failed to stop him as he headed for a nearby creek. Broussard took to the brush after wading into the stream and finding the water up to his neck. The officers caught up with him a few minutes later.

Eastern Marion Asks Road Work

Petitioners Ask Connecting of Upper Ends of two Mountain Routes

Construction of a 1 1/2-mile road linking the upper ends of the Abilqua and Crooked Finger roads was urged upon the county court yesterday afternoon in a petition signed by E. W. Coulson, Scotts Mills, and 203 others and presented by M. M. Magee of that community. Many Silverton, Mt. Angel and Scotts Mills business men were listed among the signers.

Loop Drive Is Cited
The proposed road would save residents of the three communities many miles of travel on trips into the hill country and would offer a loop drive between Silverton and Scotts Mills. Magee said. Proponents of the road also pointed out, he said, that at least 20 families could settle on lands through which the new road would run.

The road requested would connect the end of the graveled Abilqua road with Crooked Finger road at the end of what is known as Weidemann road.
