

Benedictine Convention in June

Mt. Angel Gets Signal Honor

Is Second Western College to Entertain National Association

MT. ANGEL—The 22nd annual convention of the National Benedictine Educational Association will meet at Mt. Angel college June 25 to 30. It was announced by Rev. Eugene Medved, president of the institution. This is the first time Mt. Angel has been chosen by the convening educators. St. Martin's college of Lacey, Wash., where the convention was held in 1937 is the only other western college selected to be host.

Twenty-five Benedictine institutions of learning throughout the United States are members of the association which was organized July 8, 1918, at the Archabbey of St. Vincent, Latrobe, Pa., to promote the cause of Catholic education. The annual gathering brings Benedictine educators together from all over the United States to discuss problems and methods of education. The association also drafts plans for the solution of outstanding problems and prepares important questions of special educational interest for proposal to the General chapter for discussion and consideration.

Association Officers
Officers of the association are: President, Rt. Rev. Alcibiades Deutsch, OSB, of St. John's abbey, Collegeville, Minn., and abbot, president of the American Cassinese congregation; vice president, Rt. Rev. Vincent Taylor, OSB, Belmont abbey, Belmont, N.C.; secretary-treasurer, Rt. Rev. Lambert Burton, OSB, St. Martin's abbey, Lacey, Wash. Last year the convention was held at Collegeville, Minn., and Rev. Marc Schmid, OSB, was sent as the delegate from Mt. Angel college.
