HAPPY KITCHEN

where you'll find less work and more fun

Less work—more fun

"EFFICIENCY," said Aesop 4,000 years ago, "is coaxing a cat across the room instead of pulling him by the tail."

If you've been taking hours to bake the morning biscuits and fry the dinner chicken, and wind up feeling as though every kitchen in the world ought to be at the bottom of the South Atlantic—we have a most pleasant surprise in store for you. For intriguing, delicious foods can be "coaxed" together in hours less time than you ever imagined. There are all sorts of little time-savers and wife-savers on your pantry-shelves, in the spice-cans in your cabinet, in scraps that you've always thrown away.

And these efficiencies are so simple, practical and easy! That's why we've planned our cooking school—just to show them to you. We know you'll enjoy every minute of the cooking school, and we urge you not to miss a single second. Come as our guest.

Love of Music May Be Cultivated Early

By GEORGINA BREMNER

The love of music is inherent in most of us and many children will develop an appetite for fine music if, instead of being forced to listen to prescribed music, enduring singable melodies are played to them. From the time a child is conscious of the voice of his mother, he will absorb the quiet beauty of the old lullabies, "Sweet and Low," "Sleep, Baby Sleep"; even the old folk tune, "Go Tell Aunt Rhodie." It will not be long before he will be swaying to the rhythm of the tune and even attempting to sing.

In the day before the phonograph and radio, a music-loving mother would sing and play to her child the simple melodies she had learned. Who does not remember the snatches of Verdi's incomparable melodies, the German "lieder" and bits of operas popular at the turn of the century? In this era of radio and high fidelity recordings, a child has a wealth of good music to absorb. With a little judicious study of the radio schedules one can turn the dial to many fine programs during the day. There is a wealth of music available in the excellent recordings played over many stations.

Music, as in any of the arts, brings out the finer instincts of man. Constant association with fine music broadens the taste and resources of the child, thereby building a foundation for a mature cultural life. John Ruskin has written, "The most beautiful things in the world, although they may seem its most useless, in reality may be the most essential."

In connection one of the purposes of the music room of the Salem Public Library is to make accessible to children books and records essential to an understanding of music.
