May and June will be socially marked by several large ceremonies with university couples and popular Salem maids being married. Each week announcements and wedding plans are revealed and brides-elect are the center of much entertaining.

The Calvary Baptist church was the setting for an impressive wedding ceremony last night when Miss Marjorie Pickens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Pickens, became the bride of Mr. John Marvin Ritchie, son of Mrs. J. W. Ritchie. Rev. Arno Q. Weniger performed the ceremony at 8 o'clock in the presence of members of the families and a large group of friends.

Preceding the service Mr. Wesley Ritchie sang "O Promise Me" and "Because" and Miss Doris Schunke played the accompaniments and wedding marches. The altar was banked with baskets of roses, snapdragons, iris, and delphinium. On either side were candelabra holding white tapers.

The bride who entered on the arm of her father wore a picturesque gown of white marquisette, fashioned with train, long sleeves full to the elbow and extremely full skirt. Ruching outlined the square neckline and the bodice was tight fitting. Her full length tulle veil fell from a coronet of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of Cecil Brunner roses, gardenias and lilies-of-the-valley.

By MAXINE BUREN
Each week or so this column is devoted to some phase of musical life of Salem—yet not once has a line been given to one of Salem's very worthy musical organizations, the Willamette University Band.

The band will end its third year of activity under the direction of Ralph S. Nohlgren on Friday night when it appears in concert at Waller hall. The music of a band produces a thrill like no other organization can muster. The sight of marching bandmen, colorful costumes and the exciting sound of drum and horn is always present when a good band is playing. And bands all over the country are again taking their place among the producers of good music. Martial airs are again being played by good musicians.

The Willamette University band has much talent to show, several exceptional soloists are among the members, and the director has done an excellent job of organizing and training his players. In these three short years he's built the band from practically nothing, to an important place in campus affairs. Three years are short—building a musical organization takes time.

One feature alone worth the price of admission will be the playing of a part of the symphony "Wheel of Life." Aside (Continued on page 11)
