

ASSOCIATED PRESS

PICTURE NEWS

AND ON THE LEFT you'll find the "punch line" for Leo Gorrey, 21, eldest of the "Dead End" kids, who demonstrated for his bride-to-be, Kay Marvis, 17-year-old film dancer, how he hopes to be boss after the wedding. The couple planned a plane trip to Yuma, Ariz., for civil and church ceremonies.

POTENTIAL MESSENGER OF DEATH, a bi-motored Dornier bomber Type DO-17 skims through air near Berlin. Superiority of Reich military planes over U. S. war planes was recent ly cited by Charles A. Lindbergh in urging a home military committee to provide for greater aviation research facilities. Lindbergh also asked for emphasis on quality rather than quantity in plane program

FRANK DISCUSSION about nation's financial structure followed meeting of Industrialist Owen Young (left) and Jerome Frank, newly-elected chairman of the Securities and Exchange commission, at monopoly hearing in Washington, D. C.

FORTRESS IN MAKING

MORE HISTORY will be made on Puerto Rico. Uncle Sam's tropical isle on which above old fort, El Morro, commander San Juan harbor, was built in 1585. Some $30,000,000 is to be spent to convert island into Atlantic defense outpost.

NEW PREMIER of Australia is Robert G. Menzies (above), 44, who recently said that the Australian government plans soon to establish legations in Washington and Tokyo.

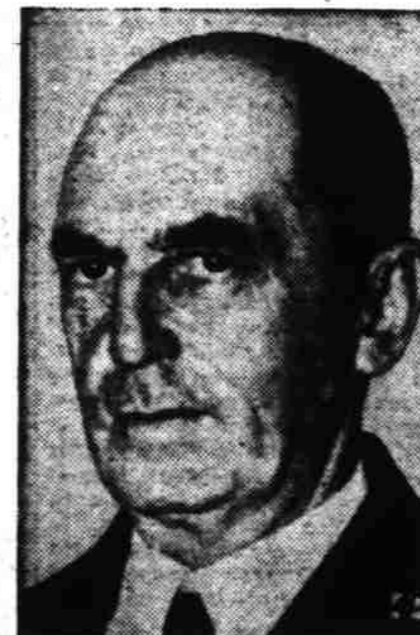

CALLED THE BEAUTY QUEEN AMONG DAMS, the 280-foot-high Parker dam on the Colorado river, 135 miles below Boulder dam, is shown above in a recent view. Two-thirds of its height is submerged. Parker is the diversion dam for the 242-mile aqueduct built to carry one billion gallons of water a day for the domestic needs of Los Angeles and 13 nearby cities.

FATHER AND SON both got the best wishes of Torch Stinger Libby Holman when "Day in the Sun" opened on Broadway with Miss Holman's new husband, Ralph Holmes (left), and his father, Taylor Holmes, in the cast. Critics were none too enthusiastic about the show. Miss Holman was the widow of Smith Reynolds, tobacco heir, who died of a bullet wound in 1932.

CAMPUS CLOSEUP at Louisiana State Normal shows how Mildred Black dodges sun glare. She's wearing a new type sun glass made by David Scott of the same college. The specs not much as a camera lens shade does, shutting off glare.

NAMED Puerto Rico governor, Admiral Wm. D. Leahy (above) will aid defense plans. He'll succeed Blanton Winship.

VISIT to Puerto Rico was among first official acts of Brig. Gen. George Marshall after choice as chief of staff.

TO SEE THE SHE-SHELLS on the Schuylkill river, it's necessary to visit the stream when members of the Philadelphia Club's fishing club begin workouts. With shell are, left to right: Mary Frier, Betty Flavin, Betty Greeley, Ruth Adams.

BUT IT WON'T WRITE that letter—this automatic device for stamping and mailing. Coins to cover postage are inserted, dials are turned to indicate stamp value, and machine prints meter stamp mark. "Malleomat" had its premiere in N. Y.

HOOF TO SPARE has this cell born on the J. Lemmet Farm near Chesapeake Beach, Md., a fact which greatly interests Lemmet's 16-year-old grandson, J. L. Frost. Both the cow's forefeet are double-footed like this one.

APPLE A DAY! Well, if all the days of E. Dehnert were counted, the apple piling would amount enormously. He celebrated his 100th birthday April 23 at Dunsmuir, Victoria, Australia, but he won't predict how much longer he'll live.

IN THE SHADOW of a "flying fortress" Brig. Gen. George Marshall (left), who succeeds Gen. Hahn Craig as chief of staff, discusses with Maj. Gen. Deane Hennessey the defense plans that'll make Puerto Rico the "Hawaii of the Atlantic."