

Capital Gives King Farewell

President Guest of King at British Embassy Banquet

icans to supplement the formal greetings of official Washington with roasting and unrestrained applause.

And that triumph was peculiarly Elizabeth's. Her prettiness—something the camera does not disclose—her ready and unaffected graciousness, and her ability to come smiling out of the rigors of such a routine as had been arranged for them, won abundant admiration wherever they went.

Official Washington got a new picture of the king at a quiet, informal White House tea which was arranged to acquaint him with what the administration is endeavoring to do to solve the nation's social and economic problems.

King Meets Chiefs of New Deal

There he met several cabinet officers and the chiefs of the various new deal agencies. Ten or a dozen of them Mrs. Roosevelt called aside for a little chat with his majesty, to answer his questions and even volunteer information on the particular doings of particular alphabetic combinations.

Those who talked with the British sovereign reported that he already had an extensive knowledge of what is going on here, that he was eager to know more, and that he asked many questions—not just formal face-saving questions, but questions which cut to the heart of the subject of discussion, whether it was relief, unemployment compensation or housing. He stuck up, too, for the country over which he reigns.

"England," one of the guests quoted him as saying, "is much more liberal with reference to social welfare measures than people generally recognize."

The tea offered a refreshing interval for a day spent scurrying from one official place to another, a day in which their majesties greeted their British subjects residents here, met the members of congress and indulged in two occasions of touching solemnity.

These were:

At Mount Vernon, where a modern George of England placed a great red, white and blue wreath upon the tomb of George Washington, who many years ago chased an older George's redcoats out of a moment at the Canadian cross, erected by the dominion government in honor of Americans who died fighting under the maple leaf.

held at 8:30 p.m. in the Methodist church, followed by the alumni association business meeting presided over by John L. Gary of West Linn, president.

Graduating classes of five and ten year intervals dating back from the current year are traditionally most active in holding reunions at commencement time.

These included the classes of '34, '35, '36, '37 and '38. The '34 class, the "silver jubilee" class of 1889, graduated just 50 years ago. William T. Rigby of Salem, is president of this class, which also included Prof. James T. Matthews. Both of these men are expected to have a part in the banquet program. Spokesmen for other classes include Prof. Hermann C. E. Miss Lella Johnson, '32; Robert C. Notson, '34; Don Grant, '35; Claude Cook, '34. Special speakers will include Miss Harriet Long, state librarian, who is to be awarded an honorary degree, and Governor Sprague who with Mrs. Sprague will be special guests.

The trustees of the university meeting are expected to consider plans for some additional improvements on the campus, with a new science hall probably the next major unit on the program. A man's dormitory is another future project which may receive consideration. There also will be some discussion of the university's centennial in 1942.

Rum Body to Add No new Beverage

PORTLAND, June 9.—(AP)—The state liquor control commission informed wholesalers today that because of pending changes in personnel no new brands of liquor would be listed for sale in Oregon stores at this time.

The commission followed applications for listing of new and additional brands. The board pointed out listings involve considerable expense and "no demand from the public for the addition of any new brands" had been received.

Arthur K. McMahon, chairman of the commission, has resigned and is awaiting appointment of his successor.

Multnomah, Ore., captured the sweepstake prize and the president's cup in the division representing cities outside of Portland at Portland's 81st annual rose festival floral parade Friday. The float, carrying a queen and three princesses, was one of the scores of entries which took several hours to pass the reviewers' stand at Multnomah field before winding through the city streets.—(AP Photo).

House Balks Tries To Ease Pensions

Bill to Set up Maximum Aged Contributions not Amended

WASHINGTON, June 9.—(AP)—The house, following up its crushing defeat of the Townsend pension plan, beat back repeated attempts today to make it easier for states to dip into the federal treasury for their needy aged.

The democratic leadership was in complete control through a long day of reading administration-approved changes in the social security law.

And, despite 17 tries, not a single pencil mark was made on the proposed amendment which specifies that federal contributions toward old age assistance shall not exceed $20 per person per month, and that whatever a state gets it must match dollar for dollar. The present federal maximum is $15 and the matching basis is the same.

The house gave tentative approval, among other things, to:

Creation of an old age survivor insurance trust fund.

Bringing into the old age pension system about 1,100,000 additional persons, including seamen, bank employes and employed persons aged 65 and over.

Increasing the federal contribution for dependent children's benefits from $1 for every $2 provided by states to flat dollar for dollar.

Sailor Is Freed Of Death Charge

SAN DIEGO, Calif., June 9.—(AP)—William Bouldin, 24, of Lullington, Tex., sailor aboard the USS Rigel, today was freed of murder charges in connection with the alleged abortion-death of his sweetheart, Wilma Rhodes Anderson, 16.

Motion to dismiss charges was made in municipal court by Deputy District Attorney William Mahedy on the grounds of insufficient evidence.

Bouldin was released to go back to his ship, but he will act as one of the state's principal witnesses against George and Frank Parchen, under grand jury indictment on charges of murder, abortion and conspiracy to obstruct justice.

George Parchen, chiropractor, pleaded not guilty before Superior Judge Gordon Thompson on all three counts and his trial was set for June 26.

The arraignment of Frank Parchen, brought here from Eugene, Ore., was delayed for him to confer with his attorney.

"Seeing Eye" Dog Is Given Degree

NEWARK, N. J., June 9.—(AP)—Newark university conferred the honorary degree of "doctor of canine fidelity" on a dog tonight.

The recipient was "Bonzo," shepherd dog which for the four years of his master's college course escorted Joseph Melillo, 22, to every class. Melillo was graduated with high honors.

Calling the dog a "partner" in Melillo's success, Dr. Frank Kingston, university president, conferred the degree on the "seeing-eye" dog "for those qualities of faithfulness and devotion which have made you a familiar and inspiring figure."

Presentation was at the alumni homecoming ceremonies.

Oddities in the News

WARSAW, June 9.—(AP)—A new "pig puzzle" which appeared in great numbers in the city of Katowice has resulted in a formal protest by the German consul there, the newspaper Wiciezor Warszawski said today.

The puzzle consists of four cards, each showing the head of a pig. The trick is to "find a fifth pig." A certain arrangement of the four cards reveals the face of Adolf Hitler.

The Polish government took immediate steps to stop the sale in Katowice, but the puzzle now is appearing in Warsaw.

Wiciezor Warszawski reports that quantities of the puzzles were smuggled into German Silesia from Polish Silesia.

ROME, N. Y., June 9.—(AP)—A 19-year-old farm girl revealed, Police Captain Patrick J. Smith declared today, that she set fire to her father's barn because she "was tired dressing as a man and working on the farm."

Capt. Smith said the girl was Rose Simon, daughter of John Simon, whose barn and cattle were destroyed in a fire last night.

The police captain said the girl made a statement saying that she had not been allowed to go to a moving picture show in 10 years, had been dressed as a man, her hair cut man fashion, and that she had done a man's work on the home farm since she was taken from the seventh grade of a Rome public school.

Capt. Smith said the girl would be arraigned in court tomorrow on a charge yet to be determined.

UO Student Dies Of Crash Injury

CHEYENNE, Wyo., June 9.—(AP)—C. O. Winkquist, 26, University of Oregon student crushed under an automobile near here this week, died tonight.

Mrs. Edwin E. Brockman, 57, Eugene, driver of the car, remained in critical condition. John Bryant, 22, South Freeport, Me., was recovering from injuries, and Chickery J. Ziady, 25, Lawrence, Mass., was able to leave the hospital today.

The four were hurt when the car turned over after a front tire blew out. Mrs. Brockman and the three men, all University of Oregon students, were en route to New England.

Winkquist's home is Worcester, Mass.

Two spectators fainted during the parade.

The First National bank of Portland won sweepstakes honors in the commercial division. The Portland Kiwanis club was sweepstakes winner in the non-commercial class. The Pasadena Tournament of Roses entry won first for cities outside Oregon. Awards to cities outside of Portland included the President's cup to the Multnomah Community club, a first to the Oregon City Breakfast club; second to the Astoria Regatta association, and third to the Newberg Berrians.

The Salem Cherrians won first prize for the smallest community band. In high school bands, Vancouver, Wash., was first, Washington high school, Portland, second, and Longview, Wash., third.

Other results include:

Marching units—Adult organizations, University post American Legion, Seattle, first; junior organizations, Clatskanie Junior drum corps, first; Washougal, Wash., drum corps, second; The Dalles and Oregon City drum corps, tied for third.

King Interested In CCC Training

WASHINGTON, June 9.—(AP)—King George, on his visit to the CCC camp at Fort Hunt today, expressed great interest in the military phase of the CCC.

"What do you think of the military value of the corps?" Lieut. Col. H. M. Pendleton, USA, district commander of the CCC, quoted his majesty as inquiring.

"The CCC serves no military purpose, whatever, your majesty," Colonel Pendleton replied.

"But don't you think that the discipline developed as a result of the necessary control and the improvement in the health of the men will be a great advantage in case of a military emergency?" the king asked.

Pendleton agreed, and King George said he was "particularly interested" in that feature of the CCC.

Chungking Bomb Damage Is Small

CHUNGKING, China, June 9.—(AP)—Japanese warplanes roared in waves over Chungking tonight dropping scores of heavy bombs which caused little damage because they fell in areas already devastated by previous attacks.

For an hour and a half the attacking craft dumped heavy demolition and incendiary bombs in the heart of the city and in outlying suburbs. The number of casualties could not be learned immediately.

Chinese reported their anti-aircraft guns brought down two Japanese planes and that possibly others were downed by pursuit planes which engaged the attackers.

Wrong Time, Place Picked by Driver

It cost Lester Wright 30 days' freedom and $100 when he drove up to the state police patrol office on East State street late Thursday night to complain that someone had attempted to take his car from him at Turner. The officer on duty arrested him and yesterday forenoon he pleaded guilty in justice court to a charge of drunken driving.

Worker on Highway Dies As Freak Mishap Result

PRINEVILLE, June 9.—(AP)—The whirling flywheel of a rock crusher caught and hurled a crowbar, killing Alred Hawkward, Eugene, on an Ochoo highway surfacing project 12 miles east of here last night.

Hawkward was attempting to remove the crowbar from the machinery when the accident occurred.

First Flier Flies First Time in 10 Year Long Period

DAYTON, O., June 9.—(AP)—Orville Wright, co-inventor of the airplane, for the first time in approximately 10 years, took an airplane ride today.

The trip was made in the DC-4 Douglas 42 passenger land plane, which was at Wright field for inspection by air corps officers.

Wright, due to an injury received in a plane crash in 1908 has not been flying in recent years.

Anti-Propaganda Campaign Starts

Britain Wishes to Offset Nazi "Encirclement" Plan Charges

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, June 9.—(AP)—Measures toward Germany by both Prime Minister Chamberlain and Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax were described by sources close to the government tonight as the beginning of a vigorous British counter-propaganda campaign to offset Nazi charges of "encirclement."

The purpose of statements by the prime minister and foreign secretary in parliament yesterday that Britain was willing to discuss Germany's claims for economic "living room" was not immediately clear and gave rise in some quarters to suspicion that the government might be turning back toward its discarded policy of appeasement.

Official sources, however, were quick to deny any shift from what they called the new policy of "peace by resistance."

The parliamentary correspondent of Reuters, British news agency, which has close connections with the government, also said flatly that the intention of the statements was "to answer encirclement propaganda."

(Nazi, including Reichsfuehrer Hitler himself, have charged that British-French pledges to help Rumania, Poland and Greece defend their independence, a Turkish-British mutual aid agreement and efforts of London and Paris to bring soviet Russia into their front constituted an attempt to encircle Germany. The Nazi charges allege economic as well as political encirclement.)

Governor Praises 4-H Club Program

CORVALLIS, June 9.—(AP)—Governor Charles A. Sprague, rushing to Corvallis after the Rose Festival parade in Portland today, told 200 4-H clubbers that their organization supplied a program for well-rounded development of youths during important habit-forming years.

The 4-H club members are attending the annual summer session at Oregon State college.

The governor praised the achievement of Billy Anderson, 12, who won the sweepstakes prize at the Portland rose show. The lad later presented Mrs. Sprague with a bouquet of roses gathered from his Corvallis gardens.

It was announced that the Benton county poultry consumption demonstration team of Hildegard Schoeller and Geraldine Delancy of Corvallis, had won the state title and qualified for the world poultry congress in Cleveland next month. The Portland team of Mary Louise Armstrong and Pat Benetau finished second.

Klan to Pick out New High Wizard

ATLANTA, June 9.—(AP)—Delegates and officials of the Ku Klux Klan from 30 states debated today election of a new imperial wizard.

Meeting in "kionvocation" in a hotel, the klanmen discussed names of two possible candidates for the post now held by Dr. Hiram W. Evans. They are J. T. Baskin of Richmond, Va., and A. Colecott of Atlanta. Both have denied seeking the office.

Authoritative sources said Dr. Evans—chief of the klan's "invisible empire" since November 1932—would not seek re-election for a fifth term.

Informed sources said discussion centered principally on the program of the klan for the next two years, including probable attempts to expand and "rebuild" the organization.

School Petitions Are All in Order

Petitions of the four candidates entered in the Salem school directorship race have been checked and found to have the required number of signatures. County Clerk U. G. Boyer announced yesterday. Signatures of 69 qualified voters were necessary.

With but two days remaining for filing of nominating petitions, it appeared that Roy Harland, Donald A. Young and Directors W. F. Neptune and E. A. Bradfield would be the only contestants for the two school board positions to be filled at the June 19 election.

Chamber Winds up For Year Monday

Home town speakers will wind up the Salem chamber of commerce weekly luncheon season Monday noon, when Dr. William C. Jones speaks on "Our National Destiny."

Jones is professor of economics and business administration at Willamette university.

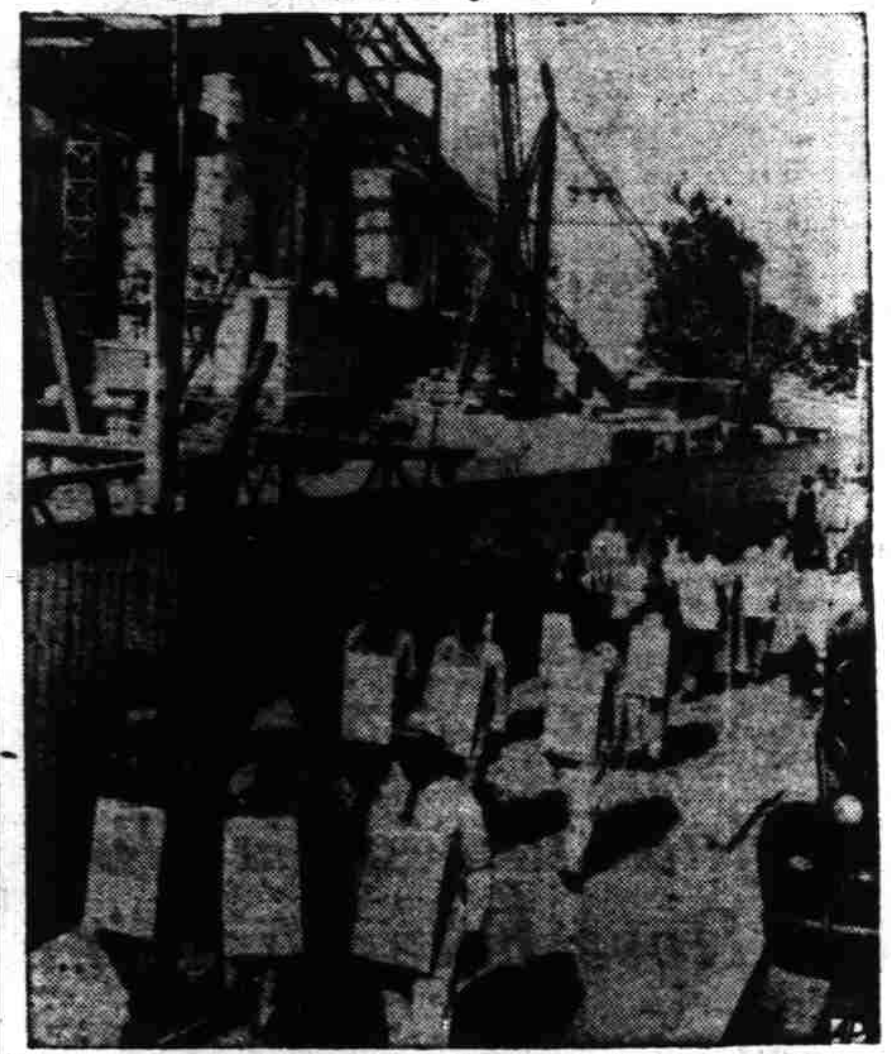

In fact, it looks like Willamette U day at the chamber Monday for President Bruce Baxter will introduce Jones.

Royal Pair Enjoy Parade

King George VI enjoyed a laugh, and President Roosevelt smiled as they rode from the railroad station to the capitol. Queen Elizabeth also enjoyed the welcome as she rode with Mrs. Roosevelt (lower picture). Back to camera is Captain Daniel Callaghan, naval aide to the president. Some 400,000 cheered the royal couple along the two-mile drive.

New Art Gallery Is Picketed

Workers on the new national art gallery in Washington, DC, laid down their tools and picked up "On Strike" signs when picket lines were thrown around upwards of 100 construction projects in the capital area by striking building laborers' locals demanding increased wages. These pickets are parading near the new art gallery.

Elaine Barrie too Busy to See John

CHICAGO, June 9.—(AP)—Elaine Barrie spent seven hours here today but did not visit her estranged husband, John Barrymore.

She told reporters as she arrived by plane from the west coast that she was sorry to hear of the illness of Barrymore, who recently suffered a heart ailment, but said business prohibited her from seeing him. She sued the veteran actor for divorce on May 11 in Los Angeles.

Miss Barrie later left by plane for New York, where she said she would visit her grandmother who is ill.

Barrymore, appearing here in a play in which Miss Barrie had a leading role until they separated, spent the day sleeping in his hotel apartment.

Bids Are Called to Pave 4-Lane Highway Entrance

The Pacific highway entrance into Salem from the north will be graded and paved to a width of four lanes under specifications on which bids will be received by the state highway commission here June 22.

Resurfacing also is included in the project.
