MUSIC Oldest Couple Celebrate Together

The concert season, though relinquishing headlines temporarily to student recitals, is not yet over in Salem, for there is to be a program of unusual interest on Thursday of this week, presented by a group of local singers, The Salem Civic chorus, under the able direction of Prof. E. W. Hobson. The concert will be given in the American Lutheran church at 8:15 o'clock.

Although the group of excellent singers has been practicing regularly for a year, this is the first appearance in concert, and it is with a great deal of interest that music lovers are anticipating the program. The singing group, now numbering fourteen voices, is made up of the personnel of the Salem Madrigal chorus and the Civic Male chorus which enjoyed several years of popularity under Prof. Hobson's direction. Several additional singers have been added to the group.

The program will include all concert numbers. Several important names in musical circles of Salem are included among the soloists, Josephine Albert Spaulding will sing several groups including two numbers by a Salem composer. Mary Schultz Duncan will play the violin accompaniment to Deans Taylor's "Mayday Carol," sung by the chorus. The two-piano team of Emory S. Hobson and Jean Hobson Rich, which appeared in concert this winter, is on the program with several numbers. Mrs. J. A. Sholseth and Miss Ruth Bedford are also listed as vocal soloists for the concert. Miss Bedford is accompanist for the chorus.

The concert, featuring Salem's best voices, excellent soloists and a wide variety of selection in numbers should prove one of the finest concerts of the year.
