Criminal Cases

Are Postponed

Press of Trial Matters

Pending Is Given as Delay Reason

All criminal cases in circuit court here were continued through the July term because of the "unusual stress of trial matters pending" in an order issued yesterday by Judge L. H. McMahan.

The grand jury met again yesterday but postponed to this morning its scheduled wrap-up of its affairs. Reports are due before noon dealing with between 18 and 20 cases which the jury has had under investigation. It is understood

The present grand jury, which has served continuously since June, 1938, is not to be continued to the new term of court.

Methodist Pastor

Is Due Next Week

Rev. Milligan to Depart Monday for new Post in Bellingham

Rev. J. C. Harrison, who will replace Rev. James E. Milligan as pastor of the First Methodist church here, will move to Salem Wednesday or Thursday of next week from Portland where he has resided the past 12 years.

Rev. Harrison has been superintendent of the Portland district for the past seven years and previous to that was pastor of the Centenary Methodist church in Portland for five years. Originally from the south, Rev. Harrison has been in the west over 20 years. During that time he and Rev. Milligan have been personal friends. "A good builder" is the way Rev. Milligan characterizes his successor. While pastor of the Centenary Methodist church, he was responsible for the erection of the educational temple there.

Before coming to Oregon Rev. Harrison was pastor at the Garden Street Methodist church in Bellingham, Wash., the church to which Rev. Milligan goes. He was also at one time district superintendent of the Olympic district in Washington.

Rev. Milligan, who has been pastor here for over four years, will leave Monday for Bellingham.

Research Planned

For Oyster Uplift

State Fish Commission, State College to Aid Beds' Rehabilitation

Governor Charles A. Sprague yesterday announced a joint research project for the rehabilitation of the Yaquina bay oyster industry.

The Oregon state fish commission and Oregon State college will cooperate in the project. The Lincoln county court also will be asked to assist.

Purposes of the project will be to study conditions in the Yaquina oyster area of Lincoln county, consider scientific factors and give attention to the practical methods in the growing of native oysters.

Prof. Dimick in Charge

Professor R. E. Dimick, head of the department of fish and game management, will be in charge. A graduate assistant will be stationed at Yaquina bay who will be supplied with the men and equipment needed to conduct the survey. The cost of the project will be $3000, for the year beginning July 1, to be shared by the participating agencies.

Governor Sprague initiated the plan after vetoing a bill of the last legislature which would have turned the state owned Yaquina oyster beds over to the Lincoln county court for administration.

PUD Vote Costs

Filing Necessary

Expenses incurred in campaigns for and against the formation of people's utility districts must be reported the same as other campaign expenses, Attorney General VanWinkle held here Thursday.

In cases where the campaigns involve a proposed district within one county, the expenditures must be reported to the county clerk. Where more than one county are involved the expenditures must be reported to the secretary of state. The opinion was requested by C. E. Stricklin, secretary of the state hydroelectric commission.

Governor Refuses

July 3 Holiday

Governor Charles A. Sprague will not proclaim Monday, July 3, a legal holiday in Oregon, as suggested in a telegram received at the executive department Thursday from County Judge David Graham of Malheur county.

Graham's telegram said the governor of Idaho had proclaimed July 3 a legal holiday and that similar action on the part of Oregon's governor would be appreciated.

Reports received here indicated that Governor Culbert Olson of California also had proclaimed July 3 a legal holiday.

Only persons over 70 years of age and beginners are required to submit to an examination.

Snell said the two Portland offices of the motor vehicle operators division would remain open until 8 p. m., up to July 2.
