

Single Term Proposal Hit

GOP Solon's Amendment Preventing Re-election of President, Loses

WASHINGTON, July 6. (AP)—A senate committee squelched today a republican proposal for a constitutional amendment which would prevent any president from running for re-election. Senator Wiley (R-Wis) offered the amendment which would simply bar anyone who has served as president or vice-president from filling those offices again. It was turned down by the senate judiciary committee, 19 to 2, receiving only the votes of its author and of Senator Van Nuys (D-Ind) who has engaged in many controversies with the administration. The committee divided 7 to 7, however, on a proposal advanced by Senator Burke (D-Neb) for an amendment limiting a president to a single, six-year term. A tie vote means defeat. Nevertheless, it was decided to send both amendments to the senate for its consideration.

Not Applicable to FR Although some senators took the view beforehand that a vote for the Burke amendment might be interpreted as an indirect expression of disapproval of a third term for Mr. Roosevelt, Burke explained that if it were adopted and Mr. Roosevelt reelected, the president could serve six more years instead of four after his present term.

But the attention was attracted to the third term question by the arrival during the day of Paul V. McNutt, American high commissioner to the Philippines and Indiana's presidential hope. The tall, white haired Hoosier democrat called on President Roosevelt and told reporters afterward that he saw no reason why his friends should stop their McNutt-for-president efforts.

Since McNutt has said repeatedly that he was for a third term for the president, it is inferred that he desired it, the inference seemed to be that he did not

Senate Locked On Neutrality

Borah Advises Disregard of Europe's Reaction in Making Revision

WASHINGTON, July 6. (AP)—Senator Borah (R-Idaho) fired the opening shot of a momentous senate fight over neutrality today with a bluntly phrased warning that congress should disregard the reactions of the "democracies" and "dictatorships" of Europe in considering revision of the law.

Asserting that there was little to choose between the foreign policies of the totalitarian and democratic nations, Borah urged that the traditional American policy of neutrality be maintained. He has opposed administration efforts to repeal the arms embargo of the present neutrality law.

Asks "American Policy" "Our policy is an American policy," Borah said, reading from a prepared statement to a hushed senate. "It should be maintained for the interests of no foreign nation, for or in favor of no foreign government, but the best interests of the American people and against all of the isms and schemes which would seek to destroy it."

Borah cited statements in the French press complaining that the action of the house last Saturday in amending the administration neutrality bill to retain

Banks Say Power Market Developing Rapidly in Talk With Ickes

PORTLAND, Ore., July 6. (AP)—The bulk of Bonneville dam's electrical power output will be contracted within the next six months, Acting Administrator Frank A. Banks said today.

Returning from Washington conferences with Interior Secretary Ickes, the federal power commission and the national power policy board, Banks said agreements would be negotiated with private utilities, public utility districts and municipalities.

The program will bring the first revenue for the $62,000,000 already spent for the huge navigation and power enterprise. Mart Held Growling Ickes was advised by Banks, chief engineer of Grand Coulee dam, the northwest power market was growing rapidly and would take the output of the first four units before army engineers could install the fifth and sixth.
