Rev. Weston of Salem Is Superintendent of Area Again

TURNER—Delegates and ministers convened at the Assemblies of God district council on the Turner Memorial campground Wednesday, and heard their district superintendent, Charles G. Weston, report an amazing growth through the past year.

He reported a 53 per cent increase in home missionary offerings and a 12 per cent increase in foreign missionary offerings over the preceding year. Twenty six new Sunday schools and 19 new churches were established in rented quarters while eight congregations had built new churches—Hermiston, Eagle Point, Prairie City, Embler, Aloha, Cottage Grove, Reedsport and Port Orford. The Cottage Grove church is an interesting example of remodeling, a large down-town office building being purchased and remodeled. Rev. Weston also reported that seven congregations were now either in process of building or were expanding their present plant. The churches named were Hebo, Hood River, La Grande, Astoria, Coquille, Salem and Roseburg.

Rev. Charles G. Weston, pastor of the Salem Evangelistic Tabernacle on Ferry street, has been re-elected district superintendent of the Oregon district council of the Assemblies of God. Also re-elected was Rev. Atwood Foster of Cottage Grove, district secretary.

Leeches Testify at Bridges' Hearing

John Lewis Leech, former Los Angeles painter and an ex-communist, is shown with his wife, Mary, and their four-month-old daughter, Martha Jane, in San Francisco, shortly after Leech, a government witness against Harry Bridges at the latter's deportation hearing, said the west coast labor leader was elected to the national central committee of the communist party in 1936. Mrs. Leech corroborated his testimony, holding the baby on her lap as she occupied the witness chair.

Lane County's new Library on Wheels, Stops Here for Local People to See

Salem residents were given an opportunity to view the latest in traveling libraries yesterday when the Lane county "bookmobile" stopped here on its way to Eugene where it will become a part of the county library system.

Designed and built in the WPA cabinet shop in Portland, the truck was sponsored by the state library association. It will carry about 1000 books throughout Lane county on a regular schedule, touching at rural points where public library service is not available.

The bookmobile, driven by Miss Gladys M. Everett, state director of the professional and service projects of the WPA, and Miss Cora Anderson, state supervisor of the projects, was taken to the hospital in which Miss Harriett Long is recovering from a broken leg so that she might view it. Miss Long, head of the state library association, has been one of the ardent backers of the project.

The cabin is 22 feet long and 7 feet 8 inches wide. The inside is equipped with shelves to hold the 1000 books and has ample drawer and desk space for librarians working in the car. The inside is finished with plywood, painted white, while the outside is green with yellow lettering.

Another truck of the same design is being built for use in Clackamas county and will be completed about September 1.

former resident of this vicinity. Mr. Morgan owned a prune orchard in Rosedale hills near Salem until 1913, when he moved to Idaho. A brother, Thomas T. Crozier, lives here.

Death came after a stroke while he was visiting a daughter, Mrs. Irwin in Lakeview, Iowa. Funeral services will be held in Greenleaf, Idaho, Friday, July 21.

Besides his brother here, he is survived by another brother, Fred Crozer of Whittier, Calif., three daughters, Mrs. Ross Irwin of Lakeview, Iowa, Mrs. Orrill Rice and Ruth Crozer, both of Greenleaf, and a son, Donald Crozer of Honolulu.

Chief of Yakimas Dies, Rites Today

TOPPENISH, July 19—(AP)—Jim Wallehee, picturesque chief of the Yakima Indian tribe whose father, then ruling chief, signed a treaty of peace with Isaac Stevens, territorial governor of Washington, in 1855, died today.

Wallehee was born near Ellensburg about 1866, coming here later. For many years he raised race horses, and his most famous animal, Red Bird, was widely known on the northwest fair circuit.

The chief planned his funeral before he died, requesting a white man's coffin but Indian rites. The ceremony will be tomorrow.

Bridges' Alleged Statement Aired

Defense Attorney Aubrey Grossman read into the record a federal decree of United States Judge John C. Knox of New York barring Sapiro from federal court practice after his acquittal two years ago on charges of attempting to influence a juror.

Bridges' attorneys also questioned Sapiro as to several suits he had filed in which the labor leader had been included as a defendant. One was a libel suit Sapiro filed against Bridges over an allegedly defamatory letter. Sapiro said that case still was pending.

Sapiro testified he "laughed at" Bridges and said the communist party was not running the Sailors Union of the Pacific, and that Bridges replied, "That's what you think."

On cross-examination Sapiro admitted he had been indicted in Chicago with Al Capone and 31 other defendants, including several laundry and dry cleaning associations and unions, on conspiracy charges that included the stifling of trade by "bombing, acid throwing, slugging and strike-touting."

Service Station Open Day, Night

Twenty-four hour service at his service station was announced yesterday by Bob Kitchen, manager of the Union station on the corner of State and Church streets. Mr. Kitchen has recently returned to work after being gone eight months recovering from an accident in which he was involved last November.

The station, previously open during the day only, will now be open during the night and will do night lubrication jobs besides other regular service work.

State Is Praised On Its Wage Law

PORTLAND, Ore., July 19—(AP)—Oregon's minimum wage law was termed a "newer Oregon trail" today by Major A. L. Fletcher, assistant administrator of the federal wage-hour law, at the Northwest Affairs institute.

"It is no misstatement," he declared, "to credit Oregon with blazing the trail to national wage and hour legislation."

He declared western packers should support national wage-hour legislation because they maintain high wage scales while competing with sections where wages are low.

Start Remodeling Of Court Building

Remodeling of the state supreme court building here at a cost of approximately $22,000 got under way Wednesday.

Upon completion, the entire lower floor will be used by the attorney general and the clerk of the state supreme court. Part of this space previously was used by the state library.

Bids for the remodeling operations were opened at a recent meeting of the state board of control. Funds to cover the cost were appropriated by the 1939 legislature.

Widows Pensioned

SPOKANE, July 19—(AP)—E. J. Rattis, investigator for the state department of labor and industries, said today the widows of two carpenters who fell 130 feet Monday while working at the new Centennial mill will be paid state industrial pensions for life, or until they remarry.
