Olson and Ham and Eggs

They're starting a recall movement against Governor Culbert L. Olson in California, but the sponsors, it's plain to see even at this distance, have only a secondary interest in getting the democratic governor out of the capitol at Sacramento. The main idea is to get the recall issue on the ballot November 7, date of the special "ham and eggs" election the effort to locate the site of the which Governor Olson has called.

In the general election last November the "$30 Every heartily appreciate these courte-Thursday" measure was defeated but not by a really comfort- sies." able margin. Opponents of the bill coming up in November fear that in an election which involves no personalities but merely the screwy pension issue, they would be distinctly at a erous items in this column seekdisadvantage; enthusiasts for "ham and eggs" would turn ing to give assistance to the out, many opponents would stay at home and the outcome would be reversed. So they're trying to inject some personalities into the election so as to "get out the vote."

Opponents of the bill-potentially including everybody in California who can think straight-are really worried at the prospect of a billion-dollars-a-year pension load being saddled upon the commonwealth. The bill has been changed somewhat since a year ago. The age limit now is 50 years instead of 60, making at least half a million persons eligible, though there is a proviso that the recipient shall not be an employer nor an employe. The bill makes an appropriation of $700,000 from the state treasury to get the plan going, and authorizes a $20,000,000 bond issue for working capital. The great bulk of the funds would come from the sale of stamps to be affixed to the warrants as they were expended-and from a 3 per cent tax on gross income. A new state bank is created and it is mandatory that all public funds of the state, counties, cities and other political subdivisions be deposited in this bank. This feature was added to the bill when it became evident that private banks would not accept the "funny money" which was proposed in the first bill-from which the circulation of warrants is only a technical variation adopted made and kept silent for that reato dodge the monetary provisions of the federal constitution. | son.

As in the previous bill, there are provisions designed to protect the setup against court action; state courts are forbidden to consider any form of injunction against the bill. Since the general theory is that a statute, even though enact- with a squaw. This is a remote ed by the people, is subordinate to the state constitution, the courts might be expected to hold this provision unconstitutional and proceed to entertain any suit that might be filedbut certainly, if the bill is enacted, there will be a tangle of litigation.

It doesn't take an economist or even a bookkeeper to figure out that California would be in chaos within a month if the $30 Every Thursday program actually became effective; ground on which the block house the fact that California voters are considering it at all has stood was granted to Dan Oleson harmed the state economically, injured the credit of its bus-

The site of the block 8-5-39 house on Yaquina bay seems to be definitely located; why not mark it? On the letterhead of the "United Spanish War Veterans, Department of Oregon, Farthest West Camp 20: we alternate our meetings between Newport and Toledo third Friday night every month,' came to Governor Charles A Sprague a letter which was re layed to this desk. The part of the letter mean for this columnist's desk reads:

"I have never thanked you for the space given (in your paper) block house Sheridan says he built on Yaquina bay in 1856. I

The letter comes from Will L. Grigsby, box 76, Newport, Oregon, and its reference is to numsearch for the Yaquina bay block house site, and particularly to the series in this column for March 8, 9 and 10, this year. Mr. Grigsby says in the letter referred to

"In the block house research: I think Congressman Mott had every department, that could have a record, searched for any thing bearing on the matter. The records of the Indian department show that he (Sheridan) was on Yaquina bay two months during 1856. An old history of Coos county shows that he was at Port Orford during that year at the same time.

"Captain Augur, his superior officer at Fort Hoskins, made very full reports to the war department, but failed to mention Sheridan in any coast affair. It s very possible that Captain Augur was a little jealous of the reputation Sheridan had already who were well known? Dr. F. M. (Franklin Marion) Carter was a prominent pioneer. Missouri, July 1, 1846, and came with his parents to Oregon in the covered wagon immigration of mas Carter of North Carolina,

Many difficulties and reports of "cholera" on ahead caused some of the 1852 trekkers to turn back. But the mother of Dr. Carvester, who lived in Oregon till she was 92, stoutly insisted that there should be no thought of faltering. (It has been frequently written that among the 350,000 days, while many men became chicken hearted and turned back, no woman of all the great throng ever willingly faced about after making the brave start. So much for the "weaker sex.")

The Carter family settled in Lane county. There young Frank was a school mate of Joaquin Miller, "poet of the Sierras," and for 10 years the two had much companionship.

Later young Carter attended Wilbur academy; graduated from that institution in 1865. Wilbur was a daughter of Willamette university.

Thereafter he served in the Indian wars as a volunteer, receiving his discharge at Fort Vancouver in 1866.

Then he taught school in Lane and Douglas counties until 1868, when he entered the medical department of Willamette university, Salem; graduated with the degree of M. D. in 1872, after which he took a post graduate 11:00—Variety. course in surgery at the Toland

Week's Presbyterian Meet At Silver Creek Camp Has Famed Speakers

Opening this Sunday afternoon at the Silver creek recreational area will be the week's conference of youth, sponsored by the First Presbyterian church of Sa-

Sixty young people from Salem and other valley churches have registered to leave the local church for camp at 3 p.m. Sunday. While the natural advantages of the Silver creek area will make possible an unusually fine recreation program, the greatest satisfaction, as stated by the church office, arises from the quality of leadership secured.

Leaders Outstanding Dr. Monroe G. Everett, outstanding university pastor at the University of Pennsylvania will be the vesper speaker. Miss Irene Forsythe who returned this month from China will be one of the special speakers. Other well known leaders include Dr. Daniel Schulze, dean of men at Willamette university, Dr. John S. Burns, pastor of the Federated churches at Corvallis, and Dr. James A. Smith, prominent in Christian Endeavor work.

Mary Elizabeth Kells is also on the faculty, and Mrs. J. S. Burns and Mrs. Bert Hulst are leaders for the girls. Phil Barrett will assist in the recreation program. Miss Edith C. Brookmiller, young people's counselor, and William H. Wright, minister of music, both of the local church, are listed on the faculty, and the pastor, Rev. W. Irvin Williams, will act as dean of the conference.

CHICAGO, Aug. 4 - (AP) 'Where's Elmer?"

Someone, who subsequently developed a passion for anonymity, uttered that query at a national convention of the American Legion some years ago. He was, it seems, inquiring frankly and fervently as to the whereabouts of a man whose given name was Elmer but whose family name has been lost to posterity.

But somebody else-you know how things go-thought it was funny. He took up the ce. The duet presently became a quartet and the quartet quickly became a chorus.

At that and later conventions the Legionnaires, singly and in groups, day and night, went about calling: "Where's Elmer?"

Now, the organization thinks it's about time the boys were informed not only where Elmer is but who he is also. So Fred Boissy, chairman of trophies, issued a written promise today to study conflicting claims to establish the identity of the elusive Elmer during the Legion's national convention here next month. And then what?

"Why," said Mr. Boissy, who learned the lesson of preparedness in the army, "we'll award him a trophy for remaining undiscovered so many years."

NEW YORK, Aug. 4-(P)-A dance to solve the problem of the wall-flower was introduced today at the convention of the dancing masters of America. It enables two girls and a man to dance together.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. -(AP)-Patrolman Joseph Dolinski saw his duty and he did it. The officer tagged the official automobile used by Fire Chief Lawrence E. Reif for-of all things-being parked in front of a fire hydrant.

BLOOMBURG, Pa., Aug. 4-(AP)-The director of a museum spoiled the suspense of the firemen's carnival by naming the "whatsis" that had the town agog for days.

It's a coeloetnys paca, familiarly known as paca, relative of the guinea pig, on its South American range. And the director said he would take the firemen upon the "name it and you can have it proposition." The firemen admitted they had imported the animal and had not captured

Calvary Speaker

"The Devil in Church" and "A Great Man, But-?" are the morning and evening sermon subjects to be taken by Dr. Russell M. Brougher, noted New York churchman, as he starts his second Sunday in the pulpit of the Salem Calvary Baptist church.

Large congregations greeted Dr. Brougher's appearances last Sunday. The vested choir will offer special music at both services. The "Three Broughers" who vacation each year at Gearhart are supplying Baptist churches this year in Eugene, Portland and Salem. Rev. James W. Brougher, jr., Glendale, Calif., will follow Dr. Russell M. and Dr. J. W. Brougher, sr., will close the engagement
