That's the description given of Arch Hamlin, softball slinger with the Joe Mann outfit of Portland, No Possibility of Salem and who will undoubtedly be seen in action in the state tourney beginning here Aug. 21 . . But, thanks to a "seeding" of Portland and Salem teams in opposite brackets, the only time either Salem team will have to face Hamlin will be in the final game-if either club gets that far. Hamlin's team cinched the championship of the second half of Portland's American league, and is therefore definitely in the play-off. Should it win the playoff, the club will be Portland's No. 1 representative to the tourney, but stands a chance of getting

-0-Waits Get Nod.

It's a long way to stick a neck out, but if Waits (who haven't yet won the Salem city championship) had one more little item on the tournament roster, yours sincerely would take them, even money against the field, to win the 1939 state tourney . . .

They need, however, another good pitcher. And from whence is that important cog to come? . . As early as yesterday Manager Pete McCaffery didn't know. He'd like to have young Don Cutler. but if Square Deal is in the meet he'll have to just keep on

This year I'm just in reverse to the opinion I held, and for which I was severely criticized, last year . . . Along about this time a year ago I wrote that Square Deal, despite being behind Waits in the percentage column, was really a better ball club . . . My contention was proved, with Square Deal not only beating out Waits for Salem's No. 2 tourney spot, but finishing second only to the Papermakers in the state tour-

With Squee Kitchen, the only man to be five tims chosen allstate, on second base; Scales playing his best season at third; Garnum, who has now found his bat ting eye and is without peer at the initial sack in this loop, at first; with Phil Salstrom, Jimmy Nicholson and Tommy Drynan presenting what perhaps is the best outfield trio ever fielded in the local loop: with pitcher George Roth getting better from that 40-foot mark each time out; and with McCaffery, though a dud on the hitting market, mechanically leaving little to ask as a receiver: with all this, Waits presents as astute a club, considering both offensive and defensive abilities, as has ever been fielded here . . .

Anton Gets Bid.

"Offer you $135 per month. Guarantee to keep you balance of season," read a wire of yesterday afternoon, from R. A. Schefter, owner of the Portland Beavers, to big Bill Anton, Willamette pitcher . . . And so it is very probable that the "Greek" will be wearing a Beaver uni from now on until the Pacific Coast league season winds up in September . . . I say "probable" because Anton couldn't be reached yesterday . . Hadn't, in fact, yet seen the telegram . . . But not long back he confided that he believed he'd accept if tendered such an offer.

Anton worked out with the Beavers for a couple of days better than a month ago, and Manager Bill Sweeney was all set to take him on then when Pickrel walked in from Seattle to fill the club roster. . . . Now that Bernie Brewer has been released, Sweeney evidently want to give Anton a further look-see . Harold Hauk will have two be-hemoth tackle prospects this fall, it now develops . . . Besides Bob Boardman, who is expected to return from the Iowa farm on which he has summered weighing well over 200 pounds and standing about 6-feet, 4-inches, there is of Salem, County of Marion, State even larger Norman Sholseth . . .

Sholseth, who played on the sophomore "Reds" of the city intramural loop last season, along with Boardman, strips at 216 right now and has 61feet-4 bested for altitude . . . They should be a welcome pair to Hauk, who like all football coaches, likes his tackles big and tough . . .

GAMES TONIGHT Waits vg. Kennedys. Pade-Barrick vs. Lind-Pomeroy

It was a couple of romps for the Bakers and Radiosters last night at Sweetland, Schoens scuttling the Papermakers, 11 to 0, behind the two-hit hurling of capable Kenny Larson, and the Dealers downing the Pheasants, 11 to 4, despite being out-hit and despite the game bein, played under protest from the last of the initial inning on.

The games wound up the regular season for the Dealers, who are assured of at least a tie for second place, and for the 'Makers, who are assured of nothing worse than a tie for the cellar. Larson is Hot

Kenny Larson narrowly missed the flingers' hall of fame, as he allowed but three Papermakers to reach base and then no further than the initial sack. Both hits registered off him were barely in there. One by Claggett, Shortsop Pillette barely put his hands on, and the other, by Kelley, Left Fielder Fowler nearly pulled in on his shoestrings. The third man reached base by dint of an error. Brotherns Bernie and Kenny arson, and Fred Fowler accounted for six of the 11 runs, driving home two each. However, Mickey Mickenham was responsible for but three of the total tallied. The Pheasants lodged a protest when Umpire Johnny Oravec ruled Hal Pangle's first - frame blow to center had bounced into the stands, and sent the husky catcher back to second base after Barricks were seeded he had made the circuit, driving at the top of the upper six-team one ahead.
