No sooner do we acclaim the Waits club as presenting the best array of talent we ever saw fielded as one softball unit than the masterful Meatmen pin the local pennant to their dugout and Salem Softball Manager Gurnee Flesher starts laying plans for a three-way norhwest tournament.

Flesher, who likes to count dimes so well he's not a bit loathe to count 'em before they're hatched, already has an idea clunking around in his noggin. He'd bring Waits, the Oregon state softball champs of 1939, the Washington champs and Vancouver, B. C. (champs of Canada together here in a three-way round robin tourney for the northwest cham-

Of course Waits have to win the state title yet, but to Flesher that's practically in the poke. Like a lot of us, he has a feeling the Waits crew is the highest caliber kittyball cuties ever tossed together in these parts.

But there is one thing Flesher undoubtedly has not con-sidered. The "things" happens to be that Waits, providing they win their first-round appearance, will go up against Salem's number two team, providing it wins its first-round game, in the quarter-finals of the state tourney. And, unless Schoens deal a pre-tourpesky Square Dealers will be the boys Waits will have to

"Buck" Was Best Ever.

While Waits, man for man and as a club, are a larger load of softball poison than are the Dealers—and both the individual averages and final won and lost columns back up this statement -the fact remains the Dealers did dump the Meatmen each of the three times they met, and there is every reason to believe they could do it again. Even should the Dealers beat 'em again, yours sincerely still thinks Waits team the best softball team he has ever seen. That is, with Bucknum, who was far and away the best first baseman the league has had to our knowledge, in there. He won't be, however, for he's away to Phoenix, Ariz., to up his newly-acquired eaching duties there, and big Ike Eisiminger is to replace

While big Ike is as good an outfielder as there is in the league, and will hit right along with any of 'em, he's not the first baseman that was Bucknum. There will probably be some 13 or 14 initial sack artists inferior to Ike in this upcoming meet, however, and Waits won't suffer any severe blow on that

What the Meatmen must have is another pitcher to help our George Roth, who can't be expected to carry the entire tourney tossing load even though he is a brute for punishment and apparently is at his best the oftener he works. Co-Managers Pete Mc-Caffery and Clay Foreman know this, and yesterday were doing everything they could to get the name of one Percy "Pinwheel" Crofoot on the dotted line.

May Get Crofoot. Should Crofoot, who it is said has been keeping that windmill wrinkle of his well-oiled throughout the season, agree to don the black and white, about the only thing that could stop Waits from wrapping everything in this coming 1939 meet would be a major catastrophe.

With Crofoot in the fold even McCaffery and Foreman could see but one possible defect in the dream team. It is rumored they are worried about the third base They fear the man who been endeavoring to hold down the torrid corner is slip-
