League Leader Defeated 11-3

Yes, Big Bill Anton, the towering Greek from Willamette, who has had but a modicum of experience, signed with Major General Sweeney and his Portland Beavers and is now with them at Seattle.

Anton, who will be looked over throughout the remainder of this season at a $135 per month rate, and whose contract also calls for a trip to the Beavers' training camp next spring, thus probably becomes the most inexperienced rookie to ever get his initial opportunity in organized ball with a class AA club.

For up until this week signed with Portland Anton had pitched or "thrown" less than 20 ball games in his life. When he matriculated at Willamette four years ago Anton had played seven innings of baseball, with a Portland Junior Legion team, and he hadn't hurled a single heat.

As a freshman he confined his diamond activities to pitching for a fraternity softball team, and it wasn't until his sophomore year that he went out for varsity baseball. That year he pitched one game, getting a one-hit shut-out over Albany College. In his junior year Anton faced such competition as George "The Duke" Windsor, Bob White, Walt Weaver, Gaichell, etc., and that year he pitched but one game that year.

Outside of the six or seven games he pitched this last season for Willamette, and the not more than half-dozen bush league tilts he worked last summer, the extent of Anton's mound work, or, for that matter, any other form of baseball activity.

Accidental Introduction.

The galloping Greek, who as such was twice chosen the Northwest conference's all-star basketball center, and who last year led the loop scoring race, received his introduction to the Beavers quite by accident. It all came about through a Portland bootblack who knew both Sweeney (from shining his shoes) and Anton.

Anton pitched to the Beavers in batting practice for two days, during which time he impressed Sweeney by the simple but hard-to-accomplish expedient of striking him out every time he faced him. At that time (some month or two weeks ago) Sweeney had all set to sign Anton for the remainder of the season when Pickrel, who had been released as a free agent by Seattle, walked in and was signed instead.

What probably impressed Sweeney more than the fact Anton struck him out, however, was the size of the guy. That 6-foot-5 altitude and 210 heft, if it can be taught to pitch, will be valuable hunk of ivory on the baseball market.

Anton, who up until the spring of this year knew absolutely nothing about pitching except to rare back and let the acute loose, was taught the semblance of a curve ball by Jerry "The Mule" Gastineau and with his newly acquired hook did a better than fair job for Spec Keene during the spring.

He grabbed the Beaver offer, not through any egoism that he might immediately set the baseball world on fire, but to insure his return to school this fall. The money he can make the remainder of this season will allow him to return to school for the one term it will take him to be graduated with a degree in liberal arts. Then if he can make baseball pay his way through two more years of law school, better yet. Or, if he finds he has what it takes in baseball, still better.

Softball Big Draw.

Portland this year has gone softball crazy, according to Ray Smith, who for as long as we can remember has always had some basketball or baseball team under his wing. Smith, who attended the air circus here yesterday, said better than 5000 turned out for the game between A. F. of L. and the negro Hottentots at Vaughn street Wednesday night and that 2000 and 3000 regularly attend the league games on the playground.

Smith said at least 10,000 would come out if the Hottentots ever played there again, as the softball performance they put on was something really out of the ordinary. "They're far and away the most finished softball performers ever to visit Portland," he said.

The Hottentots are scheduled to play Waits here a week from tonight, according to word from Gurnee Fleisher, manager of the local softball association.

Joe Mann, the team with the whirling dervish windmill chucker, lost out to A. F. of L. for the American league title, but it is understood they will bring Hamlin, the Joe Mann pitcher, to the state tournament.

Have Kids' Team.

It's a great boost to local softball that is being given by the local Papermakers union, through Charlie Davis, the softball-minded president. Right now the Papermakers are sponsoring four local teams, including three from the plant proper and a junior playgrounds club that hasn't lost a game.

Deriving money with which to support the teams from candy vending machines within the mill, and from donations to a "kitty" by the members, Davis and his Papermakers have equipped the juniors with caps and shirts, and next year plan to get them complete uniforms. And maybe you think those kids don't appreciate them? Well, they wouldn't be any prize if those units if they were braided!

A bottle of pop or a milk shake after the games helps to keep the kids contented, and each one of 'em is probably a Papermaker from now on until he grows day grows into the major leagues.

League Leader Defeated 11-3

Second Largest Crowd Is in Stands to Watch Portland Win

SEATTLE, Aug. 10.—(AP)—Portland routed the league leading Seattle Rainiers, 11 to 3, tonight before an official paid attendance of 15,492. The defeat cut the Seattle lead to four and a half games as Los Angeles defeated Oakland, 1 to 0.

Les Webber, Seattle pitcher who had won five straight games and hurled his last 19 innings without the opposition scoring, was pounded out of the box in the fourth and subsequently was followed by two more pitchers.

The Beavers tallied three unearned runs in the first inning, was pounded out of the box in the fourth and subsequently was followed by two more pitchers.

Right-hander Bill Thomas was in continual trouble, with Seattle men on base in every inning except the first. Despite giving up 12 hits he worked himself out of one hole after another.

The Beavers tallied three unearned runs in the first inning, aided by Seattle errors, and led all the way.

Eddie Wilson's homer in the fourth proved to be Webber's downfall. Irvine Jeffries, Portland second baseman, collected four hits and a walk in six times at bat, and Eddie Fernandez hit two singles and walked three times in five times up.

The crowd, second largest of the year, turned out to observe a 100th anniversary of baseball celebration.

Sacs Win 2-2

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Aug. 10.—(AP)—Tom Seats was out-pitched by Al Olsen in their left-handed duel tonight but Sacramento won a 3 to 2 game from San Diego.

Two home runs, one by Art Garibaldi with a runner on base and another by Buster Adams, did the trick as Olsen hurled five-hit ball. Seats gave up seven bingles.

Angels Victors

OAKLAND, Calif., Aug. 10.—(AP)—Limiting Oakland to a pair of hits, Julio Bonetti pitched Los Angeles to a 1-0 victory tonight in a coast league game. It was the Angels' first win in the three games already played in the present series.

Bonetti held the Acorns hitless until the seventh, when Hugh Luby singled. Marvin Gudat's double in the eighth was the only other Oakland blow.

Los Angeles 1 9 1

Salmon Rack Held Harmless to Fish

PORTLAND, Aug. 10.—(AP)—Salmon racks in the North Umpqua river, below the Rock Creek hatchery, are not preventing downstream migration of steelheads, the state fish commission said today.

In response to charges by sportsmen that the racks were battering steelhead to death, Dexter Rice, former game commission chairman, telegraphed Governor Sprague a report that only 200 fish remained above the racks, 3000 others had passed and the rest would as soon as water rose.

Hugh C. Mitchell, superintendent of hatcheries, also proposed a by-pass to prevent future pile-ups of steelhead at low water.

Hazel Dell Will Battle Schoens

Tourney Spot Is on Scales

Hazel Dell dairy, on the strength of a 9 to 2 shellacking of Postoffice last night, will be the minor softball leagues' representative that will Saturday night face Schoens' Bakers, of the major loop, for the right to meet Square Deal of Salem's number two state tournament position.

The Dairyemen, bombed Jim Shedeck for 12 blows while Leon Moravitz was holding the Postmen to four. Moravitz was not responsible for either run scored off him.

Soland Big Gun

Big gun of the Hazel Dell attack was Bjarne Soland, who hit two homers and a single in three trips to drive home three runners. His single, along with bingles by Lenaburg, Miller and Moravitz, and a walk and an error, accounted for four tallies in the second. Circuit blows by Soland and Lenaburg scored two in the fourth. Kay's single and Soland's second homer put two more on the board in the sixth and singles by Gallagher, Gamble and Kay put the final tally across in the seventh.

Postoffice's scores came in the fifth and sixth, with Shedeck's double and an error getting one and Barnett's triple and an error accounting for the other.

Hazel Dell will play Schoens on the same bill that contains a second appearance of the Branch Tommie's of Stockton, Calif., against the local Paide-Barrick lassies.
