Hathaway Visits—Gall A. Hathaway of Washington, D.C., the civilian engineer attached to the army engineering corps, was in Salem on Thursday. He was a resident of Salem for several years prior to 1928, being a member of the state engineer's staff. At that time he was a member of the Salem American Legion drum corps which participated in several national contests, and he met a number of Legionnaire friends here Thursday. He left here to engage in flood control work on the Mississippi.

ROA in Parade—Reserve officers of Salem vicinity are requested to report in uniform to Lieutenant Chester L. Fritz, president of the Marion-Polk chapter of the Reserve Officers' association, at Marion square, tonight at 6:30 o'clock. The reservists will be joined in the American Legion convention parade by reserve groups from Portland, Corvallis, Albany and Eugene. Uniform for the parade, Lieutenant Fritz announced, will be OD blouse, cap, boots or slacks, white shirt and Sam Browne belt.

Rifle Match Set For Legionnaires

General Public Invited to Compete in Shoot at Rifle Range

Pistol and rifle competition for Legionnaires and the general public will be held at the Salem range east of town on the Turner road, beginning at 3 p. m. today under direction of Lt. Kenneth Dalton. Opening rifle matches will be at 22 calibre guns, firing 20 shots at 50 yards, using iron sights and an SB target, while at 3:30 the same calibre rifles will compete at 100 yards.

Twenty-two calibre pistol firing will begin at 3 p. m. on the 25-yard range at a standard American target, 20 shots to the competitor. Pistols of .38 calibre or larger will shoot 10 rounds at 50 yards at the same target a half hour later. Slow fire will be the rule for all competition, both pistol and rifle.

First and second places in all matches will be given awards, according to Lieutenant Dalton, and a separate medal given to the aggregate winner of both pistol and rifle competition.
Legionnaires registered here for the convention will be allowed to enter all matches free, while an entrance fee of $1 will be charged others who wish to shoot.

Rossman Reports US Building Dull

A slack in building construction from Chicago west was noted by Justice George Rossman of the Oregon supreme court on a 6000 mile trip recently completed with Mrs. Rossman. Judge Rossman declared that he saw no construction of large units in any of the cities visited.

The Rossmans combined business and pleasure in the 24-day tour which took them east to Chicago by the southern route and back to Salem by a northern route. In San Francisco Judge Rossman participated in a meeting of the nation-wide commission on uniform laws and the American Bar association.

Quaker Evangel

John Butler, known as the "Quaker Evangelist," is one of the speakers at the first annual camp meeting of the Immanuel Missionary church, western region, being held in Salem until August 20.

60 Are Employed By NYA, Chemawa

With the addition of a new project this week to develop a park area at Chemawa Indian school, about 60 young people are now employed in the county on recently approved projects under the national youth administration program, Chester Nelson, director of the Salem office, said yesterday.

The latest project will employ 20 boys to construct a community kitchen, build rustic log tables, drinking fountains, benches and sinks at Chemawa. The work will last three months. Ten are at work at the state tuberculosis hospital building walks and doing landscaping. Twenty are busy at the fairgrounds constructing a goat barn and a three-tier bleacher for a judging ring. Marion county shops employ several others in machine repairing.

Immanuel Church Camp Meet Opens

Speakers, Musicians Are Heard at Services now Being Held

The first annual camp meeting of the western division, Immanuel Missionary church, started here last Sunday and will continue two weeks until August 20 at the location at Fifth and Gaines street.

Among prominent speakers to be heard are John Butler, eastern minister who is appearing in this part of the country for the first time; Gale F. Fitchell, in his seventh season of work, dealing especially with young people, and Mr. and Mrs. Shreve, recently returned missionaries to China, who will tell of their experiences in the field at the Sunday afternoon service at 2 o'clock, August 13.

Ruby Garner and Dorothy Blake, students of the Immanuel Missionary college of Ohio, have been engaged as singers and musicians for the meetings.

Delicate Surgery Planned for Babe

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 10—(AP)—Four-months-old Juanita Mina Carey awaited in Doernbecher children's hospital today an "extremely delicate but not unusual" operation to insert her bladder inside her abdominal wall. The child was born with the organ outside.

Dr. J. B. Biberback, University of Oregon medical school professor of pediatrics, said she would rest for several days before the operation.

Meteor Showers Slated in Skies

Earth Entering Fringe of Perseids Meteor Area so Show Is Due

The next several nights will probably find Salem's amateur star-gazers craning their necks to watch fireballs streak across the sky, as the Perseids meteor shower makes its annual return.

Each year during the last of July the earth enters into the edge of the stream of meteors, which increase in number every night until the middle of August. The maximum number can probably be seen this year on the morning of August 12, according to information received by B. L. "Buck" Bradley, amateur Salem astronomer.

Favorable weather conditions for viewing the fireballs prevails and the moon, nearly at the new phase, will cause little interference. Smoke may, however, obscure the view somewhat. Although many streaking meteors may be seen in the early evening, best observations can be made after midnight. Up to 70 of them have been counted in a single hour in previous years, it is reported.
Often called "shooting stars"

Budget Committee Gets Car Request

Proposed request of the Salem city council that the county court contribute toward the expense of operating the city first aid car will be referred to the county budget committee if presented, Commissioner Roy S. Melson said yesterday. He declared it would be up to the committee whether or not the county should join in operation of the car.

"I guess they do a lot of good, outside of Salem as well as inside," Melson commented. "But, of course, if we appropriated county money, the service would have to be available anywhere in the county."

That particular requirement may mean pigeon-holing of a resolution Alderman S. B. Laughlin has prepared for presentation to the council. It came to interested councilmen's attention before it was raised by the county.
