Teamsters Union Records Returned

Documents Lie in Sheriff's Office Year and Half for Rosser Trial

DALLAS—The records of the teamsters union, AFL, were returned to Portland Thursday night from the Polk county sheriff's office.

The records were seized in Portland following the arrest of Al Rosser. According to Sheriff T. B. Hooker the records had been in his office for 18 months to a day, having been brought here February 10, 1938, and being returned to the teamsters' union on August 10, 1939.

The records were released by Sheriff Hooker on instruction from District Attorney Bruce Spaulding.

The records were set for examination preceding the trial of Al Rosser. Rosser was convicted of implication in the burning of the West Salem Box factory and is now serving in the state penitentiary.

To Carrier Convention
Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Schweizer will attend the national convention of rural mail carriers in Portland next week. Schweizer is secretary-treasurer of the state association. He made two trips east as delegate in recent years to the national conventions at Indianapolis and in New Orleans, and was instrumental in influencing the delegation to decide on Portland as the 1939 convention city.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Nusom, Sr. were married in Ness City, Kan., August 9, 1885. They moved to Oregon 46 years ago and lived on the William Egan and Ellen Massey farms here for several years before moving to their home on the Wheatland Ferry road where they have resided the past 34 years.

Garrisons Hold Annual Conclave

Descendants of Pioneer Methodist Preacher Meet at Amity

AMITY—The Garrison clan met in its second annual conclave in Amity grove Sunday, August 6.

The clan is composed of the descendants of Abraham E. and Margaret Garrison, pioneer Methodist preacher, who crossed the plains from Missouri in 1849, successfully sought gold in California and later developed a donation land claim a few miles west of Amity. The clan cherishes one descendant in the second generation in the person of Mrs. Matilda Jones of Monmouth, youngest daughter of Abraham Garrison who, at 85, enjoys good health and holds the honor seat.

Sixty-odd were in attendance comprising four generations of descendants including wives and husbands.

Chester Mulkey, Yamhill county farmer of the third generation of the clan, was chosen to succeed himself as leader. He will be assisted by Mrs. Isabel Garrison of McMinnville, widow of another of the third generation, who was re-elected secretary.

At its next conclave on the first Sunday in August, 1940, the clan will consider the suggestion of publishing the Garrison memoirs and family tree in book form.

Sunday Schools Asked to Create Fair Notebooks

PRATUM—The Marion county council of Christian education wishes to have every Sunday school in this and adjoining counties prepare a loose-leaf notebook for exhibit at the Oregon state fair, September 4 to 10, according to Fred DeVries, president of the council.

Notebooks should contain pictures and names of school superintendents, pastors, teachers and the classes and writeups of picnics and other events as well as any other information. Neatness should be sought, Mr. DeVries said.

Woodburn Rotary Plans Projects

WOODBURN — Winton Hunt, secretary of the Rotary club, was the speaker at the weekly meeting of the club Thursday noon at the Woodburn hotel. He gave a report on the district Rotary assembly which was held early in the week in Olympia, Wash. Winton Hunt and Ray Glatt were the only local Rotarians present at this assembly.

The board of directors of the Rotary club met in the offices of John P. Hunt & Son immediately following the baseball banquet Thursday night. The projects outlined by the aims and objects committee for the ensuing year were discussed and approved. The board of directors also voted to have the club sponsor the completion of the second tennis court in the new city park.

Life of a Rolling Stone Has Points, Says Lyra Ferguson Who Isn't One To Get in a Rut at the Same Task

Take it from Lyra Ferguson of Reeds, Mo., a rolling stone gathers no moss, but has a lot of fun just rolling. Miss Ferguson has held but one job of 22 more than a week (she held the exception 12 days) since January 1. Before another New Year's day she expects to have held and quit 52 jobs. She's America's rolling stone No. 1.

Miss Ferguson was in Salem last week on her way to another job. This is her week to work in Oregon in a self-imposed campaign to work in every state, the District of Columbia and Alaska before the year is out.

It was the Jantzen mills in Portland that's charming, white-haired Lyra wanted to work in here, but it's ebbed now for the swimming suit business and she thought perhaps she would work at the Hirsch-Weis manufactory of winter sport togs.

That falling, Lyra will put on her sea boots and go in search of the albacore tuna off Oregon's coasts. Pretty brave of her, too, for she admits that the last time she ventured into deep sea fishing she got very ill. That was off Cape Cod in a Gloucesterman's boat.

So far Miss Ferguson has totted in 22 of the 27 states she's visited. She'll pick up the ones she missed on the way back. One of them is New York where she couldn't get a job at the World's fair in spite of all her efforts.

The plot behind the whole thing is that Lyra wants to be a vocational consultant and figures the best way to learn the business is to hold a lot of jobs in a lot of places. She's been planning and preparing for her year's tour for over five years. She drives her own car (and has been having motor trouble, lately) between states and pays her own traveling expenses. If she can't get a job without pay, though most of them do pay, she'll work a week for nothing just to keep her record straight.

She gets a lot of variety at the sacrifice of permanency. The first week out Miss Ferguson was booking agent for a dance group and Gen. Smedley Butler in Nebraska. After that she worked in the office of a dog food packing company in Topeka and then appeared as an entertainer in a hotel.

Other jobs were held in a pen company plant at Fort Madison, Ia., at a wax figure manufacturing plant in Chicago, at a chocolate company at Hershey, Pa., and at a peanut packing plant in Suffolk, Va.

The most isolated job and the most fascinating Miss Ferguson held was as gardener for a week (she built a rock garden) at Matineus Rock light station, 25

Silverton's Ill, Injured Improve

SILVERTON — J. H. Riches, Silverton pioneer who has been at the hospital gravely ill for the past week, is reported considerably improved. Riches observed his 81st birthday anniversary at the hospital during the week.

John H. Porter, who has been gravely ill for the past six weeks, was reported Saturday morning as holding his own and perhaps a little improved. Mr. Porter was at Salem early this week for an operation but was removed to his home here by the middle of the week. Mr. Porter has been active in county and city politics for the past 50 years. He is at present a member of the city council.

Mrs. Gertrude Moon and her daughter, Miss Eleanor Moon, are spending a vacation time at the San Francisco exposition as guests of their son and brother, Alvin Moon.

Former Resident Visits, Bethany

BETHANY — Rev. and Mrs. S. J. Lindseth of Bovup, Minn., are guests at the C. E. Jorgenson home during their stay at Silverton. The Lindseths were residents of the Silverton country 12 years ago when Rev. Lindseth was pastor of the Immanuel Lutheran church.

A full basement is being dug under the Oscar Overlund home on their farm here.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Satern and family have been spending the week at the Oregon beaches. Ole Wage of Minneapolis has been spending several days at the Ben Wage home. This is his first western trip. Leslie Swanson of Seattle, on the way home from San Francisco, was also a visitor at the Wage home this week.

Chrisman Is Clan Officer

Hobsons Purchase Store in Portland, Have Farm at Shelburn

SHELBURN—At the annual reunion of the Trask-Chrisman clan at Stayton Sunday, Harry E. Chrisman of this community was elected vice president and Clifford Trask was named secretary. Eighty seven attended.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hobson, former merchants of Castle Rock, Wash., have purchased a store in Portland. The Hobsons own a farm near Shelburn and are spending a vacation here. They plan to spend a part of their time on the farm after the first of the year.

Leffler & Beard are busy combining grain in this section. Most of the crops in this community are now stored for the winter. The crops in general have been far above average.

Ralph Shilling and family and Reta and Lillian Mollett were in Albany Saturday attending the funeral of their mother, Mrs. Irene Mollett, 47.

J. A. Clayton, who underwent major surgery at the Lebanon hospital, is able to be at his Shelburn home.

Man Hurt When Car Hits Cow

SCOTTS MILLS — A man was sent to the hospital and a cow killed as a result of an accident here Friday morning when a car driven by Harry Newton struck one of Worth Couson's cows being driven to pasture.

Henry Goodman, an occupant of the car, was taken to the Silverton hospital to be treated for lacerations about the face. The driver and Mr. Tate, who was also in the car, escaped serious injuries.
