

MARTHA LOGAN says to have a picnic in the modern manner. Fried chicken, buttered peas, and rolls are kept hot in an electric roaster until the picnic spot is reached. The chicken, dipped in egg and crumbs, was fried in fat about 40 minutes to cook thoroughly and give the golden-brown covering of which the poets sing.

McNary Host To Nut Tour

Annual Summer Trip Ends on big Farm Owned by Senior Senator

The annual summer tour of the Western Nut Growers association ended in Marion county yesterday afternoon, at the farm home of Senator Charles L. McNary who personally conducted nearly 100 visitors over his extensive acreage of walnuts and filberts.

Oregon's senior senator, filling easily the role of an experienced farmer, showed his fellow nut growers how he rejuvenated an orchard killed in the freeze of 1919. Now he is replacing a large prune acreage with walnuts inter-planted, and how he is developing one of the best filbert orchards in this region.

Farm Held 96 Years
The McNary and Stols nut orchard is located on the old McNary pioneer land claim which the senator said has been in the family for 96 years next October.

showed the comparative results of different sprays for walnut blight. Three applications of bordeaux, 2-1-50, constitutes the standard protection, he said, though copper oxydote either as a spray or dust continues to give good protection without harm to foliage.

Irrigation Value Stressed
On the C. F. Nelbert farm near West Stayton, C. E. Schuster, secretary of the association, pointed out the value of irrigation and plenty of spacing for old walnut orchards.

At the William Blake farm north of Salem the party saw an orchard being "rebuilt" following the freeze of 1935, and then were shown by Mr. Blake how thinning out a walnut orchard first planted in 40-foot squares is increasing the returns. Trees are 60-feet on the diagonal after thinning. Some are already nearly meeting across that distance.

The first day of the tour was held in Washington and Yamhill counties yesterday and was attended by about 200 persons.

SILVERTON — Milton T. Suckow of Scotts Mills reported an automobile collision on the Abiqua road in which his car and one driven by Walter Barhke of Santa Barbara figured late Wednesday afternoon.

Little damage was said to have been done.

Katherine Ellis, Psychic, Responds To Queries Sent in by Salem Folk; Variety of Matters Form Questions

Glimpses into the future are provided for persons who submitted questions to Miss Katherine Ellis, psychic now appearing at the Grand theatre. Some of the questions and answers asked Miss Ellis from the audience will be reprinted in The Oregon Statesman.

Q. Will the trouble my little girl Marietta is having with her stomach turn into appendicitis? Shall my husband keep his job or shall we buy one of the three places we have been looking at. D.H.

A. Your little girl will not have appendicitis, but it is advisable to have a very good doctor make a thorough examination. I believe by proper diet the condition will be overcome. You'll buy the last place you looked at, with success financially.

Q. Where can I find a steady job? Will I be married again and to whom? V.M.

A. You'll marry again—a person you have met just recently. The marriage will prove very satisfactory with much happiness. You'll have steady employment within two weeks, likened to the work you had last year.

Q. I would like to have you tell me where my son is. He left San Francisco, California, a few years ago and I do not know where he is. Is he well and alone. C.T.S.

A. Your son is in San Diego, affiliated with the navy department of aviation. He is well, and I believe if you write the US Navy Department, you'll get direct answer from him.

Q. Before the depression I had some very good friends living in Los Angeles. Since then I have been unable to locate them. Can you tell me what has become of them? N.E.J.

A. They have made a move and a change. They are in Wyoming, affiliated with someone by the name of Bailey. It is useless for you even to write for they would not answer.

Q. Was my daughter really drowned five years ago, or what really happened to her? Will I ever go back to Florida, my home state? Where did my husband lose his one hundred dollar bill. V.E.S.

A. Your daughter was really drowned, and you'll make your home in Florida, as in the past. Someone stole your husband's money.

Q. Will my invalid brother ever be well again and able to walk? Has my husband ever been untrue to me? Does he love me. M.P.A.

A. Your husband has not been untrue to you, but I advise you to quit looking around corners with the thought of someone else. I see recovery for your brother through electric treatments at a hospital in Portland.

Q. My husband died about a year ago. His death was rather mysterious. I would appreciate very much if you could tell me something about it. Will I get the World War Veterans' Widow's pension? L.M.B.

A. You'll get the World War Veterans' Widow's pension. The cause of your husband's death had something to do with reflex of a condition that happened to him while overseas during the war.

Q. How much longer will I have to put up with these fits of anger from my husband and will I ever have a happy home? Discouraged.

A. Your husband's anger is due to a nerve reflex as though he had lost faith in you three years ago. You agitate him through jealousy which makes the condition worse. You could make a change if you wish.

Q. Will we be able to get a good well and where? Should we drill for it, or should we buy a water right? Will we get the loan to pay off the mortgage this fall from a certain party in California? Mrs. L.M.N.

A. You'll get the loan from the party you have in mind. It would be best for you to get the water right, as it is impossible for you to drill in the location you have with any results. Be careful of a condition of your eyes. It is advisable to have them tested for glasses.

Home for Glamor Girls Is Sought

Leo Spitzbart, director of the Oregon state fair, has just about decided he is "stuck" with 15 glamor girls, composing the All-American chorus for the revue to be held at the fair.

It all comes about because his efforts to date to find a lodging place for the girls have been vain. Helene Hughes, who directs the chorus, has written to Manager Spitzbart asking that he find a lodging house large enough to accommodate the entire group during fair week, September 4 to 10. But none can be found.

Miss Hughes wants to keep the girls all under one roof, if at all possible, she writes, and prefers a home or boarding house for sleeping quarters only.
And now the fair manager is passing the problem on to the public, wondering if he has overlooked some Salem resident who can accommodate the troupe. Anyone having quarters for the girls should contact Mr. Spitzbart at the fairgrounds, phone 9163.

Reenlistment Pay Again in Effect

The reenlistment "bonus" for honorably discharged soldiers who reenlist within 90 days from date of discharge will again be paid during the fiscal year 1940, according to information received here by Sergeant Sam Gimpelson, local recruiter, from Major H. D. Bagnall, Portland recruiting officer.
The gratuity, which has been suspended each year by congress since 1933, but which was not suspended during the last session, is provided for in the national defense act of 1920. For a completed three-year enlistment it amounts to $75 for soldiers below the first three grades and $150 for those of the first three grades.

Arany Is Hopeful For Mail Service

Leo Arany, operations manager of Oregon Airways, has returned to Salem after a trip to San Francisco, where he was called to confer with civil aeronautics authority officials, much encouraged that an application to carry air mail between Portland and Marshfield will be granted.
"Constructive suggestions were given by the officials on how to organize our efforts to secure the mail contract," H. E. Stearn, manager of the company, said yesterday. "And Arany is much encouraged."
Stearns was in Salem yesterday to conduct a transportation and general business survey. When he completes similar surveys in Portland, Albany, Eugene and Marshfield, the data will be submitted to civil aeronautic authorities to show the need for the service, he said.

Ostrander Parole Possibility Denied

Denial that the state parole board is considering the release of Dean L. Ostrander, under four years penitentiary sentence from Jackson county for theft of a stock trailer, was made here Thursday by Cecil Edwards, private secretary to Governor Charles A. Sprague and former parole board member.
Edwards' denial followed a recent statement by Circuit Judge H. D. Norton of Jackson county that the new parole law "has made matters worse than ever before and the board was considering Ostrander's release under the new parole law."
"It would not be possible for the board to release Ostrander under the new parole law because he was sentenced before the law went into effect," Edwards declared.
