More Changes in Principal Appointive Offices Likely Soon

swept away two entire state boards—game and liquor—and appointed men of his own choosing. In less than a month a democrat had been installed as state purchasing agent, despite the republican majority on the board of control, and before the legislators had gone home a state utilities commissioner who had at least been diligent and vigorous in performing his duties, had walked the plank. Long before the end of the year republicans had been replaced by democrats in the offices of banking superintendent, corporation commissioner and insurance commissioner, and a horde of democrats had moved into lesser jobs around the old capitol.

The appointment of Lloyd B. Smith as corporation commissioner last week to succeed James Hazlett was the first change of the Sprague administration involving an involuntary resignation, aside from members of the governor's "official family." The utilities commissioner change was dictated by the serious illness and voluntary resignation of the incumbent.

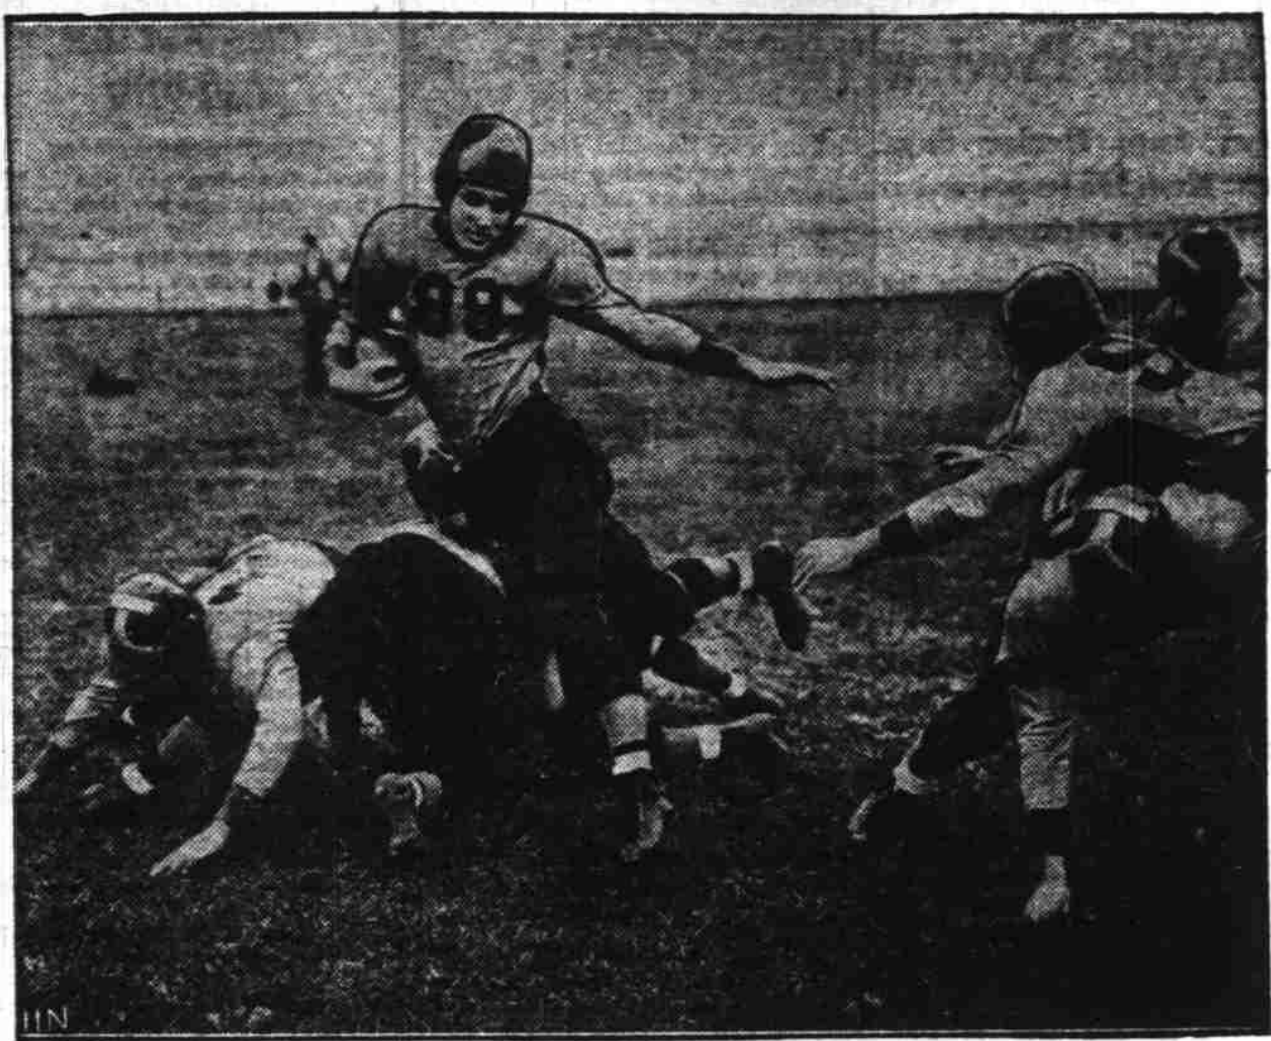

But the chances are that there will be further changes in the near future. The term of Mark Skinner, superintendent of banks, expires October 1 and a change is certain, though this office is under control of the banking board whose personnel is the same as that of the board of control.

Capitol gossip is to the effect that Hugh Earle, insurance commissioner, is slated to go soon and that Earl Tully of Medford is likely to be his successor. Speculation continues as to the possibility of a change in the office of state forester, which is controlled by the board of forestry.

There is a great deal of chuckling over the indignant public letter of resignation submitted by Allan D. Greenwood, aeronautics inspector, for not only was his appointment political but the $4200 job itself is a creature of politics and the best guess is that it will be abolished. Federal inspectors perform virtually the same function, and a low-salaried clerk would be able to do what essential work is connected with the office.

State leaders of both parties are active at present. There was to be a gathering this weekend at the home of Howard F. Latourette, democratic national committee man, near Estacada, at which all county chairmen and state committee men were to be guests. Latourette's candidacy to succeed himself was expected to be a major topic. E. G. Neal of Stayton, Marion county democratic central committee chairman, and D. J. Richards of Salem, state committeemen, were among those present.

Navy Mobilizes for Grid Wars

The Oregon Republican club annual convention is set for October 6 and 7 at The Dalles, with delegates from 37 active chapters scheduled to attend. David Eccles of Salem is chairman of the resolutions committee and Dr. P. O. Riley is vice-chairman of the committee on nominations.

Five men were jailed last night by city police on charges of drunkenness. They were: Howard Huntington, Portland; Jerry Simpson, Salem; Frank Wheeler, Portland; Patrick White San Francisco; Henry Nehling, 109 South Commercial; and Ralph Dugan, 237 South Church.

Mayor Designates DAV's Sale Days

Mayor W. W. Chadwick of Salem yesterday issued a proclamation setting September 29 and 30 as Forget-me-not days on behalf of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War. The proclamation read: "I, W. W. Chadwick, mayor of the city of Salem, Oregon, do hereby designate September 29 and 30 as Forget-me-not days for the benefit of all disabled veterans of the World War. It is my hearty wish that the city officials and the public in general render all possible assistance for this worthy cause, as these men gave up their health and are still suffering from their disabilities incurred in defence of their and our country.

"To the people of Salem, I wish that these two days be made a real forget-me-not to show these boys that we are still with them the same as they were for us in 1917-1918."

Mrs. J. P. Finley, 90, Early Pioneer Dead

PORTLAND, Sept. 23—(AP)—Mrs. J. P. Finley, 90, mother of William L. Finley, well-known Oregon naturalist, died here today at the home of her daughter, Mrs. F. A. Kenny.

Mrs. Finley crossed the plains with her parents at the age of four, in 1852. In the same party was John Finley, then five, her future husband.

Surviving children include William, Mrs. Kenny and Arthur L. Finley, all of Portland.

When Hitler Shouted Defi to France and England

Adolf Hitler is seen here during his speech at Danzig in the medieval Artushof. He was given a frenzied welcome by Danzigers. During his defiant radio broadcast he served notice on France and England that he was ready to wage a seven-year war if necessary. Picture radioed from Berlin to New York. (AP photo).

Tommies Are Jovial as They Head for Front

These British Tommies, starting for the western front, were in high spirits as they said farewell to London. This radiophoto from London shows them packed in a troop train, on which they have chalked slogans such as: "Hitler, we're on our way," and "Here we come, Adolf." (AP photo).

Safety Factor In New Buick

'Unisteel' Top Combines Strength, Beauty in Line for 1940

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 23—That a new high in motor car safety, strength, styling and comfort has been reached with the development of the new "unisteel" turret top bodies for the Buick Super and Roadmaster was declared today by officials of the Fisher Body division of General Motors simultaneously with the announcement of the Buick line for 1940.

Approaching the long-sought compromise between the theoretically desirable and the practical application of streamlining to motor car design, the new bodies show a further improvement in aerodynamic form, besides offering added vision, roominess and protection for the occupants.

From the sloping V-type windshield, set at an angle of 44 degrees, to the tapered back of the trunk, the body presents a practically unbroken, gently curving surface designed to offer a minimum of wind resistance. Hinges are fully concealed, while such necessary protruberances as the door handles are faired into the structure. Even the safety plate glass in the enlarged back window is curved to conform to the flowing contour.

The new bodies are seven inches longer, and lack only a fraction of an inch of being five feet across at the center pillar. As might be expected, the doors are wider, making it possible to incorporate in them the front and rear ventilations of the Fisher no-draft ventilation system.

Interior safety catch handles are provided on the rear doors. When the rotary locking lever is depressed, the inside door handle can be turned through a 90 degree arc, but will not operate the latch. This eliminates the possibility of opening the door accidentally, as might be the case if a child in losing his balance were to grasp the remote control handle.

Smart Lines Feature Buick for 1940

Completely new design, embodying style and utility features not heretofore accomplished in the industry, features new models announced today by the Buick division of General Motors. Shown above is the Series 50 Super four door sedan, one of two ultra-modern lines added by Buick for 1940.
