Guests are to be Wheeler R. English, Mrs. Louise Thompson, Miss Esther Baird, Mrs. Jesse Thompson, Miss Viola Crossier, Miss Mary Elizabeth Ward, Mrs. Andrew H. Iverson, Mrs. Jane Thomas, and Mrs. Harold Busick.

Hugh Morrow Speaker at Meeting

Mr. Hugh Morrow, librarian of the Salem public library, reviewed several books during the meeting of the Salem Women's club yesterday afternoon. Among the books he discussed briefly were: "April Was When It Began," by Benefield; "Children of God," by Fisher; "Rain Upon God's Hill," by Priestly; and "Country Lawyer," by Partridge and "Factories in the Field," by McWilliams.

Miss Harriet Long introduced the speaker. The musical program included several piano numbers by Miss Rosemary Gaiser.

During the tea hour, Mrs. Helen Southwick and Mrs. Ronald Glover poured at a beautifully appointed table centered with an arrangement of bronze chrysanthemums, guarded by gold tapers. Tallman roses and autumn leaves were arranged around the rooms.

Mrs. Henry Morris was tea chairman.

Byron Randall Finds Success in East

The Art Center's star pupil, Byron Randall, again hits the headlines with an exhibit of his paintings which are hung at the Whyte gallery in Washington, DC.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Randall, received a folder listing the paintings on exhibition and telling the prices which those who want them are expected to pay.

Encouragingly enough, several are loaned by the owners—one from Hollywood and the other from New York—which shows that "Oregon Court House" was painted by Randall while jail's cook, is listed among those already sold. Another, "Salem Street" (priced at $100) is a view from the window of the court house.

Subjects evidently painted while in the east, at least those with names such as "From the El," "City Counterpoint" and "The Termagant" are priced highest.

You can even buy paintings on time, the program says "extended payments may be arranged."

The exhibition of paintings by Mexican school children displaced by the industrial art show, has been divided and is now on view in three of the branch art galleries in local public schools.

These branch art galleries, at Bush, Washington and McKinley schools, have special exhibits on view all the time. School children and residents in the community are welcome to view those shows.

Posters seen around town, inviting visitors to the art center, are part of the commercial art class at the center. This class is under the direction of the teacher, Earl Bairy, the same man who has contributed to the commercial exhibit now on display.

The always popular "open houses" and demonstration nights at the center are being continued during the next two weeks. On Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights there will be special demonstrations in the studios of the center, and on Monday night additional entertainment will be given under a program of Scotch and Irish music by William McGillchrist, Sr., Robert Hutcheon and William Dunville will be featured. They also will give a program on Thursday, October 26.

An informal social was enjoyed by the Business and Professional Young People's class of the First Christian church Thursday. Those attending were Misses Marion Mahany, Mrs. Ellen Douglas, Mr. Chester Douglas, Miss Lottie Apple, Mrs. Letha Peley, Miss Lucille Gilliam, Mrs. George Gilliam, Mrs. Bernice Caplinger, Miss Frances Struckmeier, Mr. Kenneth Fowler, Mrs. Ruth Fowler, Mr. F. Crecedo club's first concert on Thursday featured a graduate of Salem high school, Delbert Anderson who is now a senior student in music at University of Washington.

The youngsters found a real thrill in hearing a man who had been an athlete, president of the student body and of the "G" club in their own school, singing as they never heard a graduate sing before.

It hit pretty close home to see one of their own acquaintances, appearing on the stage with perfect poise to sing with an excellent voice, numbers they knew and liked, yet were classical and therefore acceptable to even the music teachers.

Young Mr. Anderson not only was active in student affairs while going to Salem high, he worked hard in the markets and other stores to earn his way through school. He lived with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Byron Lileallen, although his parents live in Seattle.

On Thursday he presented his mother and the accompanist, Mrs. W. H. East, with a gardenia each.

The committee for the frolic included Dr. O. A. Olson, Mr. Roy Elliott and Dr. Estill L. Brunk, decorations: Mrs. Glenn Hoar, music: Mrs. E. O.
