Dishing up dabs of dissa and data, and wondering whatever became of the famous question: "Is It True What They Say About Dixie?" . . . Perhaps Salem high's accordion-like fold-up against Albany wasn't fatal, but it leaves a lingering sickness of the stomach.

The only time the local preppers hit hard enough to jar the gizzard of a geranium in that Albany massacre was the time Fullback Freddie Andrews plowed into Bill Thompson, his own blocking back, to knock him frosty . . . Thompson, at that point, looked to be mimicking the manner in which his own linemen played that game—just standing up, looking around. Thursday night Big Chief Jerry Gastineau was in this office, crying his eyes out at the lack of football talent out at Chemawa . . . Wailed Gastineau: "I've lost three blocking backs since the season opened. One left school and went back to Montana because he was elected president of his home room. The two others left for no reason at all. Altogether, six of my original first team left school. The other five are in sick bay. Of my present team, which averages only 140 pounds to the man, only Dan Pablo wasn't a member of the very mediocre Bee team of last year" . . . That was Thursday night. Friday afternoon Gastineau's Braves beat

Boys Built Fire Under Bulldogs

Some time ago we warned to look for a new spirit in Albany high school athletics, what with Messrs. Tommy Swanson and Dwight "Smokey" Adams taking over the Bulldog kennel . . . But even we didn't expect 'em to build a bonfire under that central Willamette valley outfit in the first month!

It isn't spirit alone they've created. They've also given the 'Dogs some mighty sweet football drilling . . . Without reservation we name the line they sent against the Vikings Friday night to be the fastest charging high school forward wall we've seen since away back in 1926, when Medford moved into Milton to massacre Mc-Loughlin high, Merle Hufford and all, by a 40-0 score for the mythical satate title . . . Swanson, who started Milwaukie on its way last year, told us early this season he had to completely rebuild the Albany line. The job he's done should qualify him for the grid carpenters' union, local No. 11-111.

Playing the ends and tackles wide, Albany stopped Salem's famed reverses cold. The Bulldogs were especially primed for Waller's reverse at their left end . . . Fake reverses, with Fullback Freddie Andrews carrying through the Albany tackle, never failed to gain, however . . . And yet Salem's signal caller never did wake up to that fact . . . We actually believe the Vikings could have marched into the next county every time they got the ball if they'd given it to Andrews through the tackles on every play.

Armstrong, Louis May Appear Here

'Tis possible the fight game may go big, big time hereabouts . . Tex Salkeld, who puts on a Turner-Hibbard state middleweight championship bout here October 25, has tentatively scheduled Henry Armstrong for a 10-round bout for some time after the first of the year, and the veteran promoter advised us yesterday he had a "slim, slim chance" of billing Joe Louis here the middle of November . . . Louis is tentatively scheduled for an exhibition in Portland November 15 and another in San Francisco November 20 . . . It's Salkeld's hope he can bill the world champion into Salem and Eugene between the Portland and San Francisco exhibitions.

And the amateurs, too, are set for a busy season. Clyle Grewell, coach of the local simon pures, has scheduled the first card, which he vows will be the best ever staged here, for November 2 . . . Heading that card, according to Grewell, will be a heavyweight mix between Keller Wagner, runner-up for Oregon AAU honors last year, and the Montana state champ of '38, a 240-pound giant.

Number two scrap on the amateur card will be a rematch of the boys who last year fought the final bout of the light heavyweight division in the Oregon AAU tourney in Portland . . . That'll pit Salem's Zeb Smith, runner-up, against Wayne Dillingham of Eugene, champion . . . Other local lads who will appear include Sammy Shoulderblade, Gordon Harrold and John Cobell.

Full of smiles, were Molalla's Mike Deller and Walt Fallon Friday night after their Buckaroos had bucked to a surprise WVI footnanon . . . It looks like a hot race in that circuit, with Silverton at present holding the favorite's edge.

"Galloping Gal" Still Galloping

LaVergne Carpentier, the galloping gal who began "running for fun and health" on Salem's Sweetland and Olinger fields, has been "running for fame" in the nation's newspapers for the past three months . . . Miss Carpentier, who was down right reticent at allowing us to "write up" her first 10-mile canter against a stop watch on Olinger oval last spring, is now in the east, handing out interviews and photos by the dozen.

Her latest publicity fling, in the name of the state of Oregon, was in Washington, D. C., where Senator McNary fixed her up with a box in the senate chamber and arranged an interview for her with Mrs. Roosevelt . . . "The grandest man I ever saw," was her appraisal of Senator McNary, despite the fact she professes to be a democrat . . . She's also had an interview with Bernarr McFadden. the muscle man of the Physical Culture mag and others, and is scheduled to run for the benefit of all and sundry in Chicago, New

Never did we think, when last May we discovered lithe LaVergne. that in the space of five months she would have exhibited her amazing endurance at two world's fairs and in the principal cities of the nation . . . Probably the next we hear of her she'll be shagging back and forth between London and Berlin, a currier for peace negotiation messages between Mr. Chamberlain and Herr Hitler . . . Anyone else
