American Art Week to Be Celebrated by Local Artists

American art week is being celebrated, beginning today in every city in the United States, and Salem artists are doing their share to make this city art minded, for a week at least.

Salem, like other small cities, has far more talent among her population than one generally knows about and it takes something like art week to bring the work to public notice.

Mrs. S. B. Laughlin is state chairman of American Art week, and has arranged for the hanging of several exhibits during the week, notably at the Salem Art Center, on Willamette campus and in several of the school buildings.

Among the Salem artists who will display work during the week are: Arthur Selander, Glenn Stevens, Ralph Gilbert, Bob Volght, Prof. R. I. Lovell, Menalaks Selander, Ed Olson, Ida M. Andrews, Merrill Ames, E. J. Rennings, Ann Zinsley, Emily Cromley, Constance Fowler, Evelyn Erickson, Lola Shrode, Ella C. Hathaway, L. C. Laughlin, M. Landahl, George Moorhead, Frances Jensen, Beth Widener, Henry Jacquet, Joseph Portal, Della Shaw, Howard Sewell, Mrs. Homer Carl, Mrs. Harold Nicholson, Mrs. E. S. Richards, Mrs. Monroe Gilbert, Nina Coffey, Mrs. H. C. Fulton, Mrs. J. M. Shaw, Mae Gingrich and Rose Wallace of West Salem.

Open house will be held at the art center today from 2:30 to 6 o'clock, and all contributing artists will act as hosts.

Those who are taking the week's art tour should be sure to visit the Hillside shop of the Monroe Gilchrist on the south river road to Schurman road. New prints, reproductions of old masters, moderns, etchings, old fashioned prints and rotary prints from Sweden, Finland and Italy is also to be seen. It's a pleasant place to get one's art education because there's a hearthfire and plenty of atmosphere, and the whole countryside to park in.

Don't Look now...

But... did you see Purr-Purr, the cat in our picture? Where he came from, we don't know, but there he was in the print, when the photographer brought it out of the dark room. Except for his complexion, he looks like the traditional Halloween variety.

Expects 'most anything'...

Mrs. Henry R. Crawford is almost sure when her name appears in print it's going to be wrong. As a guest of the National Association of Letter Carriers auxiliary last week, it was Mrs. Jack Crawford. Saturday, as hostess to the same group, she was Mrs. Harry Crawford.

Sense of humor...

pupils of the Blind school, giving a masquerade party, admit they see the humor in the situation but say they enjoy a good dress-up party like the rest of us.

Smart girl...

Prelude to art week...

was the visit from two well-known commercial photographers from California last week. Roger Sturdevant and David Stover are both known for their work in such magazines as American Home. They visited with the Monroe Gilberts while here.

Three R's...

Mrs. William Pulley of North Bend, who visited her daughter, Mrs. Gerald Gullion, this week, was a student at Little Central school 61 years ago. With her here is Mrs. Nettie Fitch, both are descendants of D. S. Sebastian, a pioneer of 1852.

Wrong number...

such cheering as went on during the eclipse of the moon on Friday night was never before heard, we were gratified at youth's enthusiasm for the phenomena of nature. Then we remembered the football game over across the park at Sweetland field. They're going to have to speed up their eclipses a bit if they expect to run in competition to the ball games.

Task, task...

it can't be true that they are having afternoon dancing at Willamette. Rumor has it a hundred couples danced in the gym, from 4 to 5 on Wednesday. Furthermore, rumor says that this took place right next to the graduate manager's office.

Just a line to let you know...
