Committee Named To Study Stamps

Welfare Body Considers Plan for Surplus Distribution

PORTLAND, Oct. 28.-(A)-The state welfare commission appointed a sub-committee yesterday to study possibilities of adapting s statewide food stamp system for distribution of surplus commodities to Oregon needs.

No specific plan will be adopted until the sub-committee has conferred with the Multnomah county public welfare commission, representatives of retail grocers and the Portland chamber of commerce. The plan then must be approved by the commission and the federal surplus commodities corporation.

More markets will be created for state-produced commodities, Chairman Jack Luihn said producers and retailers believe. He added, however, that many commodities are now shipped into the state for distribution by the FSCC, causing criticism by some taxpay-

The commission said the system probably would be started on a limited basis, with distribution only to persons on direct relief. However, it may be explained later to include persons under other agencies, such as the Works Progress administration.

The present surplus commodiities distribution system provides goods for many persons not on di-

Peanuts Can Be Grown in Oregon, Missourian Shows

SILVERTON - Peanuts, home grown, were displayed about Silverton Friday afternoon by M. S. Chandler. Chandler, who originally came from Missouri where peanut growing was no trick, had to be shown whether they could also be grown here. He proceeded to show himself and his friends that "it can be done."

Chandler planted 14 unroasted peanuts on June 15. All of them grew and the vines which he dug Friday show a fair increase. However, Chandler reports this is scarcely a fair test as the tubers should have gone into the ground at least six weeks earlier than they did.

Chandler also grew some sweet potatoes on his place this year. He is just now digging them. He reports that they wouldn't be much for frying as they are six inches long and less than an inch in diameter. Too late planting again is the cause he says. Chandler further reports that he has friends who have grown some very respectably-sized sweet potatoes in the Willamette valley so he knows it can be done.

Assistance Cases Lo win September

PORTLAND, Oct. 28.-(AP)-General assistance cases in September were the lowest since October, 1937, the state welfare commission reported today. Lack of funds and not improved conditions caused the drop, however, the commission said.

All types of assistance in Sep-tember cost $667,646.02, of which $443,839.80 was spent for old age assistance. More than 20,000 persons receive monthly old age pension checks of $21.40.

State Administrator Elmer Goudy said the total relief cost for the first nine months of the year was $3,121,218.42, or 34 per cent of the $9,260,000 allocated for the 1939-40 biennium.
