

Mickey Rooney Appears In Two Bills for Week

"Andy Hardy Gets Spring Fever" Is at the State; "Babs in Arms" With Mickey and Judy Garland at Elsinore

It looks like "Mickey Rooney week" in the Salem cinema markets with the boy who made the Hardy family famous starring in two features.

At the Elsinore the irrepressible Mr. Rooney and Judy Garland make up the starring team in "Babs in Arms," the screen version of the Rodgers and Hart Broadway hit of a few years ago. There are a lot of talented kids in this one and they put on their own show after their elders have faded as performers.

Andy Hardy has another attack of love in "Andy Hardy Gets Spring Fever" at the State. The Hardy family is still going strong and this is the seventh of their productions.

Richard Greene, the young Englishman who has been fluttering feminine hearts of late, appears in the starring role in "Here I Am a Stranger" at the Elsinore.

Elsinore
"Babs in Arms"
FEATURED PLAYERS—Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland.

STORY—Based on a Rodgers and Hart revue which swept Broadway several years ago, the story is that of the passing of vaudeville, the attempt of a group of former headliners to refurbish their tarnished fame and of the rescue of the old troupers by their talented children. The youngsters stage a show of their own when they are faced with being committed to the state farm because they are not cared for properly. Mickey Rooney is the son of a famous vaudeville team and the leading light of the young element. He is the central figure in a puppy love story involving Judy Garland and June Frettsler, who is cast as an ex-screen baby star who "sings" the show.

SONGS—"Good Morning," sung by Betty Jaines and Douglas McPhail. "Where or When" by Betty Jaines and D. McPhail. "I Cried for You," sung by Judy Garland.

SUPPORTING CAST—Charles Winninger, Guy Kibbee, June Frettsler and others.

State
"Andy Hardy Gets Spring Fever"
FEATURED PLAYERS—Lewis Stone, Mickey Rooney, Cecilia Parker, Fay Holden.

STORY—It's another in the ever amusing and ever growing list of Andy Hardy's bouts with romance, this time revolving about his infatuation for his high school dramatics teacher. During the course of the story Andy writes the school play and stars in it with Ann Rutherford. Finally the school teacher makes him realize that marriage is hardly the thing for a mere boy and a girl 23 years old. Judge Hardy, in the meanwhile, gets himself enmeshed with a swindling plot, extricates himself by a clever legal trick. And it all works out when Mickey and Ann Rutherford kiss and make up.

Grand
"Here I Am a Stranger"
FEATURED PLAYERS—Richard Greene, Richard Dix and Brenda Joyce.

STORY—When Gladys George divorced her improvident husband, Richard Dix, to provide for the future welfare of their infant son it started all sorts of trouble which ended with Richard Greene, the son, a stranger in the world he has grown up in. As a student at an exclusive college, where a friend of his step-father's has introduced him into a snobbish clique, he is bewildered by the contrast between the world of wealth and a new world of things that are real. His growing love for Brenda Joyce, tomboy daughter of a college professor, helps him to break with the old world when a tragic circumstance makes it necessary.

Hollywood
"The Beachcomber"
FEATURED PLAYERS—Charles Laughton and Elsa Lanchester (Mrs. Charles Laughton).

STORY—This is the reformer reformed in a south sea layout and is about one of the best little pieces for entertainment value that has come out these last years. Laughton is a reprobate Englishman, a remittance man on a South Sea island. Elsa, as a missionary, sets out to reform him, but, after some sequences tops in amusement, ends up by marrying him and running a respectable pub in England.

COMPANION FEATURE—"Never Say Die" with Martha Raye and Bob Hope.

Capitol
"Calling All Marines"
FEATURED PLAYERS—Donald Barry, Helen Mack, Warren Hymer, Robert Kent.

STORY—A strictly action piece with a Marine corps background. The plot has to do with a young hoodlum who enlists in the Marines with some vague kind of idea of stealing government plans of battleships and tanks and such easily procurable items right and left, but who is finally convinced that the Marines are a nice bunch of boys and that he couldn't double cross them or Uncle Sam. Donald Barry, who is the hoodlum, is a new one.

Walnut Market Growing Weaker
PORTLAND, Oct. 23—(P)—Harry Larsen, nut specialist, said today the walnut market was growing weaker but fibert prices were firm to higher and offerings scarce.

The weakness in the market he attributed to carryovers from the 1938 crop. He said the 1939 price had been lowered for intrastate transactions, but there was little desire to buy until the 1938 carryovers were exhausted.

Intrastate prices on the 1938 crop have been cut as much as a cent and a half a pound, Hansen concluded.

Screen Extras Wouldn't Trade They Love Work, Although It Is Not Best Way To Become Rich

By HUBBARD KEAVY
HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 23—(P)—Movie extras are acutely conscious of their rating in the Hollywood social scale. They love their work and wouldn't trade jobs with anyone. Most of them are conscientious. All of them philosophic.

When they sit around between scenes, some knit or read or write letters, but mostly they talk about themselves, even as you and I.

The cast of this little bit of off-stage frankness includes Mary Jane Hodge, formerly of Seattle; Claire James, formerly of Indianapolis; and Miss California in the 1938 Atlantic City beauty pageant; Alice Koerner, born right here, and Bob, a personable intelligent fellow who didn't say where he was formerly of and who shrugged his shoulders when asked his full name.

Mary Jane said she was sure she was better off than if she worked in an office or a store. "Standing on my feet all day," Alice said she was, too. "I worked in an office for two weeks last summer and, boy, was it ever monotonous!" Alice added.

Average $200 Monthly
Mary Jane, one of Hollywood's few high-earning extras, said she has averaged $200 a month this year. Claire said she earns about the same. Alice said thank goodness she was doing better this year than last, when she averaged $30 a month.

"That's the way it goes," said Bob. "Sometimes you're 'way up' and sometimes you don't know where the next meal is coming from."

"I never heard of anyone starving in Hollywood," countered Mary Jane, the most talkative of the quartet. "Just about the time you think they've forgotten you exist, along comes a call."

"I've only been at it about five years, Mary Jane went on. "I know lots of people who support families and build homes on what they earn as extras."

"Some of the boys and girls," Bob explained, "are extra because it justifies their odd ambition to wear nice clothes all the time. Others are in it because they like to rub elbows with glamour. I read that some place, I guess, but it's true. Many of us are extra because we like the theatre and this is as close as we can get to it these days."

Have to Be Good
"To really make money, you have to be good," said Mary Jane. And how does one do that, Mary Jane?

"By minding your own business, being on time, being around when the assistant calls you and dressing carefully. Oh, yes, you have to have a fair amount of intelligence."

"I wonder why so many people are ashamed of being extras?" Alice wondered. "I'm not."

"Nor am I," said Mary Jane. "But I can tell you why they're ashamed—extras are made to feel inferior. They work with people who earn thousands a week and they all speak the same language—pictures—but they can't meet the stars on the same social footing."

"We're on the defensive," said Bob.

"There's always a reason," said Mary Jane.

"You know the one about the bad apple. We get a bad name in guild meetings because some moron is always going up and shouting at a star 'What do you know about our problems?' and then everybody calls him a red and so we're all reds and trouble makers."

"Oh, well, what the heck," laughed Alice. "It's a good living."

"Who's complaining?" asked Claire. "I love it."

Gable Gets Gray Over Egg Record In Pheasant Biz

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 23—(P)—When Clark Gable started raising ring-tailed and Monocle pheasants on his Encino ranch he thought it was a worry.

Now, with the state's help, he finds it's a business.

First, he was informed the fish and game commission required him to obtain a license. He did.

Now he learns he must keep a record of each bird and chick, whether he eats it, sells it or gives it to a friend.

And each egg, even if he tosses it at a hecker.

Rearmament Air Program Conflicts

Moral Rearmament adherents in the Salem vicinity are interested in two radio broadcasts scheduled for today. The Mutual network will carry from 11:30 to noon a program from San Francisco but because of a conflict in schedules, it will not be on KSLM.

Dr. Frank N. D. Buchman, founder of the movement, will speak on a program from 2 to 3 p. m. which will be broadcast over the world-wide short wave stations WRUL and WRUW, and which may be heard over some Pacific coast stations.
