Keene's 'Cats Did Okeh.

No one has yet, but if you'd happen to ask us, we'd vouchsafe the opinion Keene's 'Cats didn't do at all bad against San Jose's teams . . . They held the first, second, third and fourth teams in check nicely, but when the first team came back, after an hour of rest, it was just too much for 'em . . . Best running back on the field was George "Glycerine" McGlinn, no less.

Mr. McGlinn, with but little in the way of assistance, personally accounted for three of Willamette's four first downs . . . The 'Cat passing attack was about as effective as would be an ice cube in hell . . . But even though the local collegians didn't offer any more of a threat than would be a BB shot on the Maginot line, they had wily Warner up off the bench.

Would like to see those Spartans go on a fast turf gridiron, not against our Willamettes . . . "Give 'Pop' Warner a fullback he'll give you champions" has long been a standard statement. And it is true, for where would the Spartan attack have gone if it had not have been for those center smashes off fake reverses to the wingbacks? . . . The biggest trouble Friday night, however, was not Warner's fullback but his three fullbacks.

How smartly DeGroot used his abundance of man power? . Within the first three minutes of the ball game he had fresh guards and tackles going in to work on the center of Willamette's line and fresh wingbacks going in to keep threatening off those reverses through the tackles . . . Then, with the Bearcat forwards froway with fatigue, Mr. Fullback-be he either Zimmerman, Peregoy or Hubbell-would fake to the dashing wingbacks and ram center for DeGroot the Last 'Thin Man'?

Yes, Warner's fullback (ahem! that is-fullbacks) hung up 101 of the 172 yards the Spartans gained from scrimmage, and three-fourths of it was in the latter stages of the game . . . All Wilmette hung up was a zero . . . And the local lads are still tryin to figure out whether it was against San Jose's white team or col-

It might behoove Hollywood to look around San Jose for its lost "Thin Man" . . . If Dud BeGreet isn't the original he'll do as the number one stand-in . . . Willamette's offensive ability wasn't helped any by the non-appearance of injured Pete Williams. The 'Cat backs missed him out ahead of that interference, Getting really serious for a moment, we wish to state Willamette did darned well against the Spartan team-all four of it . . . The 'Cats held three of 'em scoreless for better than half the game, a neat accomplishment when you stop to realize the Spartans are leading the national scoring race (now with 208 points), and have local armory. knocked over such teams as San Francisco U and College of Pacific.

No one seems to know how to stop Milwaukie's Ingvard "Inky" but Salem's Vikings are hoping . . . Providing they can get the fishbones and axes out of their craws by the time they meet the . . . Frank Gianelli, The Oregonian's prep patterer, who saw Milwaukie against Corvallis, says it is honest and unbiased opinion not even the Maroons are in the same class as the Portland prep teams . .
