West Salem News

WEST SALEM—Business of the West Salem sub-station of the Salem postoffice is increasing and it is expected that West Salem will soon have a branch postoffice with boxes and mail service starting from here, according to H. R. Crawford, Salem postmaster.

The West Salem branch is now operated by J. H. Wardwell at his 6-10-15 cent store at 1109 Edge-water street. At the present only limited service is offered such as stamps, money orders, parcel post. But with the establishment of a regular branch boxes would be installed and mail carriers would start from this place.

Crawford stated that he was in favor of establishing the branch and if all West Salem people would support the West Salem sub-station by their purchases, its volume would soon increase to a point where the branch would be established.

Developing Ski Area Discussed

LEBANON—The Ski club council, representing seven ski clubs in territory adjacent to Hoodoo Bowl, met Monday with the forest service in Eugene to work on plans for developing the area for public use. The lodge will accommodate 40 or 50 overnight guests, and will include restaurant facilities. A ski tow is being installed at the bowl. The North Santiam highway is expected to be open to the Ski Bowl all during the skiing season, and the South Santiam highway may also be in wider use when the Three-Fingered Jack area is developed. Included in the Ski council is the East Linn club, numbering members from all of eastern Linn county, represented by Harry Miller of Lebanon.

The East Linn Ski club will hold a ski style show next Tuesday night in the K of P hall. Lebanon girls will model the latest styles in ski wear, and a motion picture program of scenes from Sun Valley, Mt. Hood and other winter recreation areas will follow. The proceeds from the style show and program will be used by the club as part of its donation to the development of the ski lodge. W. K. Shepherd of Lebanon, general chairman for the event.
