

Memorial Service Will Be Repeated

Setting for Legion Rites Duplicated for Sunday Program at Church

Repeated because of popular interest, the impressive memorial services which opened the state American Legion convention here last August, will be given Sunday night at the First Methodist church, starting at 7:30.

The setting used in the original presentation, including a replica of the tomb of the Unknown Soldier in front of a backdrop of the skyline of Washington, DC, with the Washington monument, will be moved to the church. The backdrop was painted by Merrill Ames, under supervision of Charles Val Clear at the Salem Art center.

The program will include pipe or organ selections by Prof. T. S. Roberts, vocal numbers by Dick Barton and the American Legion auxiliary trio and a brief talk by Rev. James Osborne, past department chaplain. Wreaths will be placed by Art Johnson, post commander, and Mrs. O. E. Palmateer for the auxiliary. The national guard will furnish the honor guard.

C. V. Richardson is in charge of arrangements and is being assisted by Arthur Johnson, Mem Pearce, Brazier Small, Barkley A. Newman, Lloyd A. Lee, Paul Acton, James Turnbull, Robert Budrow, Don Madison, Herman Brown and E. D. Woodrow.

Marion County Tax Near Level of 1939

Marion county will spend $1,060,864.40 during 1940, and to do so will tax itself to the extent of $589,874.40, $2101 more than last year, according to official computation of the county budget for the next fiscal year made yesterday by Henry Matison, county court deputy, following final approval of the list of expenditures by the county court budget committee Wednesday afternoon.

Total budget appropriations, according to the official figures, amount to $952,574.40, which, when combined with an allowance of $108,290 for estimated delinquencies, makes the grand total for expenditures.

Total receipts are estimated at $273,490, $65,930 above last year, and surplus is shown at $97,500, a fall of $47,500 above 1938. The tax increase above last year's tax of $587,773.40 is expected to be absorbed in the county's gain in appraisal, with the result that the tax bill per individual is not expected to differ materially from 1938.

The budget committee at its final meeting passed the list of expenditures exactly as it had been drawn up at the body's preliminary meeting on November 2, with the exception of three minor changes which resulted in a total increase of $230. It took cognizance, however, of a decrease of over $13,000 in the general state and elementary school taxes of which brought the estimate in that category down from $121,000 to $108,654.42.

Breakdown of the new budget shows total expenditures in the general fund reaching $357,001, of which $302,001 is total required and $55,000 included to cover estimated delinquency. Deducting revenues and surplus, the remaining tax levy for the fund is $156,751.

The roads and highways fund is set at $260,000, for which estimated revenues of $171,200 and surplus of $52,500 in large part account, leaving only $36,300 for the levy. Market road improvement requirement and tax are both set at $97,500, and the county school fund remains at $198,340 in accordance with final school census figures submitted to the final budgets meeting by County Superintendent Agnes C. Booth. The library fund is a hundredth of this amount, $1983.40.

The old age pension fund, to which are added state moneys for payment of old age benefits will require a tax of $99,000. The dog fund remains stable at $7750.

of their desire in the matter and their funds on hand.

The district attorney held that the law is mandatory, and that a tax will have to be levied in 17 districts to bring total income for 1940 to the level required by law of $620. Districts affected and the amounts involved are as follows: District 12, $51.08; 16, $16.29; 30, $37.99; 33, $118.33; 50, $70.51; 75, $280.98; 81, $214.23; 86, $79.55; 100, $120.57; 105, $64.33; 106, $115.07; 107, $52.34; 112, $29.68; 114, $45.82; 115, $36.72; 119, $201.82; and 137, $79.09.

Revetment Work Completed Early

Flood Control Project Is Finished Month Ahead of Deadline

Completion of the Gray Eagle bar revetment project, largest in Marion county on the Willamette river, was announced Thursday, a full month ahead of the scheduled date. Speed in completing the task was credited partly to the lack of expected rains.

The project, designed to protect lowlands along the "old river bed" east of the present river channel from a point approximately opposite Eola, was built under a contract awarded to the Kuckenberg construction company of Portland. The task involved 24,000 man-hours of work and the placing of 24,000 tons of rock. The revetment extends a distance of 4062 feet. One danger which the presence
