

Ideas Aplenty In Markets For Menu

Let's look to the markets. Just because there aren't many vegetables or fruits on the shops is no sign that we can't have just as much fun preparing them as we could a month or so ago.

There are carrots for instance, try them Flemish way, cooked in boiling salted water to which a little sugar has been added. After they are peeled, add a dressing of thick cream with yolk added. Sprinkle chopped parsley over all.

Cauliflower might be cooked in boiling water, put in a casserole with 1 cup white sauce, a cup of juice from the vegetable cauliflower, dotted with cheese and butter. Sprinkle with paprika and baked for about half an hour.

Spinach might be cooked like this. Dice bacon and cook it, remove from skillet and add flour and water, a dash of vinegar and a little sugar. Add a beaten yolk and combine with bacon and chopped cooked spinach. Garnish with hard cooked eggs and serve hot.

Now for red cabbage; try browning butter, adding shredded red cabbage that has been boiled and drained, sliced apples that have been cooked until tender. Add a little vinegar, sugar and flour to thicken, salt and pepper and a little more liquid if necessary. Cook about 10 minutes.

Investigate the possibilities of French onion soup, beefs with sour cream and caraway seeds, apples and onions, zucchini cooked in sour cream, celery and potato croquettes and many others.

Look over the list of winter fruits in the market, plan to use bananas as a vegetable, to garnish meats, mixed with canned fruits for frozen desserts.

Use the bright green limes for salad dressing, grated orange peel into the boiled icing to go over chocolate cake. Mix the juice into sauce for morning hotcakes or combine grapefruit with almonds in lime gelatin for a ring to surround chicken salad.

Cut fresh pineapple into long fingers and serve with powdered sugar for an elegant breakfast when company comes, or grind coarsely and let stand with powdered sugar and use for short-cake.

Look at apples, then plan to bake some with raisins and orange rind in the center, with honey and nut fillings, or in deep dish pie with cheese crust.

Consider avocados, spreading bread with the salted, mashed pulp for dainty sandwiches, serving on the half shell for breakfast or supper, filling with cream-chicken and heating through before serving.

"There's something wrong. It says we refuse to make any predictions."

She looks like a gal who could take it in her stride. Her straight-line, casual coat is of natural colored fleece. It's grand for sports, travel and general knockabout wear. Her companion wears a black and white checked sports coat. Its shirred back fullness, starting from the bias yoke, gives it a youthful swing.

though foods do remain about the same for a month or two during deep winter. No one has ever exhausted the possibilities of food from a modern winter market, and no one ever will.

Soften Rubber With Glycerine

Practically all rubber articles which have grown hard and lost their elasticity may be softened by a simple process utilizing glycerine. First cleanse the article by scrubbing thoroughly with a brush dipped in warm water and place in a solution of one part of ammonia to two parts of water allowing it to remain an hour or so until the ammonia has evaporated. Then rinse with a dilute solution of glycerine and water, wipe off and dry.

This handy idea is borrowed from the rubber industry where glycerine is used extensively in various points of processing.

Pattern

No, it's not done with mirrors... though your mirror will tell you that you've never looked so slim! The most expert designing by Anne Adams makes every inch of Pattern 4283 a miracle of slenderness. The panel of the bodice ends in a low, waist-diminishing point, with the skirt panel below cut on the bias. A soft sash comes from the sides to crisply tie behind and the back waistline is neatly darted. You'll like the wide, "dandy" look of the collar, which may be self-fabric or in refreshing contrast with cuffs to match and perhaps ric-rac or ruffle edging. The front bodice panel is smart in contrast too. Make the sleeves puffed or flared.

Pattern 4283 is available in misses' and women's sizes 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32 and 34. Size 16 takes 4 1/2 yards 35 inch fabric and 2 3/4 yards ric-rac.

Child Welfare Speaker Coming

Bishop Marston to Speak at Presbyterian Church Tuesday Night

Bishop Leslie Ray Marston, child welfare authority and author of books about it, will speak Tuesday night at 7:30 at the First Presbyterian church. His appearance here is being sponsored by the Salem Ministerial association and the committee on week-day religious instruction in the public schools.

Dr. Marston has served on the faculties of the Universities of Illinois, Iowa and Michigan. He was president of Greenville college before being elected to the Bishopric of the Free Methodist church. He is the author of the books, "The Emotions of Young Children," published in 1925, and "Youth Speaks," published in 1939, and served as compiler-editor of "Selected Child Development Abstracts" in 1927.

Active in child welfare work, Bishop Marston was executive secretary to the child development committee of the national research council in Washington, D.C., from 1926 to 1928. He is a member of the national nursery school committee of Washington Child Research center in 1926 and 1927 and member of the White House conference on child health and protection in 1930. He is now serving as a member of the committee on the situation of youth in Illinois.

In addition to his appearance Monday night, he will speak over KSLM Tuesday morning at 11:30 on the Willamette chapel hour.

Civic Club Again Discusses PUD

MT. ANGEL—After ratifying several articles of the new constitution, which is being worked out by a special committee, the Civic club will discuss the PUD question. A lengthy and detailed newspaper write-up maintaining that through the intervention of the RFC the defaulting PUDs might soon become government-owned, furnished a new basis of discussion. The conclusion already arrived at during the preceding meeting, was again firmly established. PUD is scheduled for another rough ride in the Civic club next Tuesday night at the home of Ed Welp. A motion was carried, to approach Mayor Berchold regarding the use of the city hall for subsequent meetings, since the constantly growing membership calls for a larger meeting place.

Record Receipts Taken for 1939

Liquor, Gas Revenues Aid in $73,439,602 Sum in State Collections

Liquor and gasoline revenues helped set an all-time high for Oregon treasury receipts amounting to $73,439,602 in 1939, State Treasurer Walter E. Pearson reported yesterday.

Receipts for 1938 totaled $71,880,270. Liquor revenues alone, including a state profits on sales and taxes, climbed to $13,241,937 in 1939 as compared with $11,633,636 in 1938.

The state collected $12,030,385 in gasoline taxes last year, an increase of approximately $800,000 over 1938. Pearson reported increases for nearly all other items with the exception of income taxes, which totaled $4,615,000. This was a decrease of $1,100,000 from the previous year.

Receipts from motor vehicle registration and license fees increased to $3,473,019, while inheritance and gift taxes dropped to $635,702. The treasury department's motor carrier account including fees paid by motor freight and passenger carriers, set a new record of $1,246,020, Pearson said.

Fees received by the state insurance and corporation departments totaled $857,668 and $314,445, respectively, which represented a slight decrease from 1938. Game commission fees and fines totaled $645,313.

The unemployment compensation commission's administration fund, most of which is contributed by the federal government, aggregated $685,788. Employers' contributions to the commission's trust fund were $5,713,934.

Other federal funds received by the state in 1939 included $2,846,524 for old age assistance, dependent children, blind persons, crippled children and child welfare. An additional $2,312,067 was received for the highways.

Repayments of principal and interest on loans to World War veterans and sales and rentals of property acquired by the veterans aggregated $2,364,017, while contributions of employers and employees to the industrial accident fund totaled $4,282,836.
