One, the matter of preserving and continuing at 7:30 and the Piluso-Parks that home court record and, two, match goes on at 8:30. the matter of deciding the current leadership of the No Name league, of which both schools are mem- CI Loop Leaders

Rus Rarey's 'Mooks have won five straight in the loop; Salem has posted four consecutive league wins. Neither has been defeated in league competition. The 'Mooks are the defending No Name champs, and the Vikings are the defending state champs.

Coach Hauk, of the Vikings, credited the all-state member of his crew, Scottie Sebern, with playing the best game of his career against Eugene last week, and the worst games of his career against Medford the following two northend juniors are expected to Dr. Eddie Baker nights. Star of the Medford series, Hauk said, was Medford's Crosby, whose long shots and floor drive was Medford's by the first meeting of Parrish and

Last year, you may remem-ber, Medford played a slow, set game despite having the fastest men in the state tourney. This year, according to Hauk, the Medfords, still boasting three sprinters, have taken to the fast-break, swarm-'emunder style that carried Salem to the title over Medford in the state meet. "They beat us at our own game in Saturday night's game," said Hauk.

Pivoter Sought.

Any chances the Vikings may ington State 27, Montana 20. have of successfully defending their state title depends to a large degree upon the development of a pivoter, it is Mentor Hauk's belief. Of the three candidates who lief. Of the three candidates who have been taking cracks at the though twice in the first half Mt. Angel Bills post, tall Russell Satter is the Montana rallies took the Grizzlies best equipped but to date has to within a point of the hostsbeen a defensive bust.

A fine offensive player, Satter so far has shown little inclination to "get tough" on the backboards and lacks the defensive fire so necessary under the Hank system. His number one understudy, Daryl Mason, has the necessary aggressiveness but doesn't have the ballhandling or scoring ability. Number three, Don Harms, is perhaps the best ball-handler of the three, but isn't rugged enough for backboard duty and hasn't so far shown any offensive drive.

Outside of these three, Hauk has two other possibilities for the position. One is big Bob Boardman, the football pivoter, who has been seeing service with the junior varsity, and the other is lanky Bob McKee, who has been handling one of the forward slots in creditable fashion. McKee, who played outstanding ball at Medford, measures up to all requirements except physical stature. He's aggressive, a good ball hawk and has a nice pivot shot he can get off with either hand.

Should McKee take over the pivot slot, it is probable fiery. Red Kernes will get his for-ward spot, while Eddie Salstrom, perhaps the surest shot on the squad, will move up to first line replacement for either Seor Kernes.
