Linen Weaving Expert Starts Loom

Irishman Will Oversee Work

Improvements to Increase Capacity, Patterns of Mt. Angel Guild

MT. ANGEL—Mr. John Kirkwood, former superintendent of a linen weaving school in Belfast, Ireland, and recently assigned to this district as a weaving expert, began building a new improved loom for the Mt. Angel Weaving Guild Wednesday morning in the WPA shops in Portland.

At a meeting in the office of E. J. Griffith, Oregon administrator of WPA, Tuesday Kirkwood explained the improvements he suggested for the hand weaving looms now in operation at Mt. Angel and in several weaving classes conducted by WPA in Portland and Salem.

The new hand loom would have a capacity of at least four times the quantity of the present looms and a far greater variety of patterns would be possible with less effort on the part of the weaver.

Present also at the meeting were W. M. Hurst, representing S. H. McCrory, chief engineer of the US department of agriculture, and Father Alcuin, who represented the Mt. Angel Weaving Guild. It was through the interest of Griffith, McCrory and Father Alcuin that the services of Kirkwood were obtained.

Kirkwood is visiting relatives in Oregon and expects to spend some months in the United States. While building the new loom for the local weaving guild he will also remodel one of the looms now used by the members. It is hoped that the Irish weaver will remain here long enough to build a model of the smaller power-looms now much used in Ireland. These would greatly increase the output of the guild workers.

Present officers of the Mt. Angel Weaving Guild are Mrs. John Begin, president; Mrs. Harry Epping, vice president, and Mrs. R. T. Hisenius, secretary-treasurer. Directors are Miss Clara Duda, Miss Minnie Wels and Mrs. Dave Shepherd.

Kirkwood, like other flax authorities, considers this a most propitious time for the industry to make a fresh start. The war in Europe has shut down on the huge flax output of Russia and on those of Germany and Czechoslovakia, leaving a good part of the market open to the United States. If the chance is not taken the loss may be a lasting one, he believes.

West Salem Will See Business Men in Ballet Skirts

WEST SALEM—A variety show, replete with a vaudeville chorus made up of well-known West Salem business men and a male dancer in ballet skirt and hobnail boots, will be given at the Ford Memorial Methodist church Friday night, beginning at 8 o'clock.

The show, presented by the planning committee of the church, will raise funds for extensive additions to the equipment of the educational program of the church.

Committee planning the show includes Dalton Castle, Lyle Thomas, Kenneth Abbot, Mrs. L. A. Dashiell and Don Huckabee.

Professor Jones To Preach Sunday

HUBBARD—Rev. J. E. Van Winkle, pastor of the Congregational church, who is still ill, secured Professor W. C. Jones to fill the pulpit next Sunday morning.

The same Community Guild of the Congregational church was changed to Ladies' Aid society of the Congregational church at an all-day meeting with Mrs. George Leffler on Wednesday. A dinner and fancy goods sale will be held Thursday, February 22.

Farmers' Union Scio Junior Play Financial Success

Fire Association Meets, Sublimity

DALLAS—At the January 26 meeting of the Luckiamute Farmers Union plans will be made for a discussion of grasses and seed production in Polk county. W. C. Leth, Polk county agent, has been invited to discuss this topic and to assist with a general discussion of it following his part in the program.

The small seed and grass topic is becoming of considerable interest in this county and is being considered by many farmers and therefore is an important subject at this time.

SUBLIMITY—The Sublimity fire department was host to the Central Willamette Fire Fighters association for their regular meeting Wednesday night with over 80 members in attendance.

A short program was rendered by a group of the high school students, also a vocal selection by E. A. Ditter, the fire chief of Sublimity department; Representative George R. Duncan of Stayton, spoke on rural district fire protection. Jack Hayes, from the state fire marshal's office, explained the new law under which rural district fire protection can now be set up.

Chief Fleetwood of Mill City, joined the association and reported on the progress made by his department as to equipment purchased in their company.

Chief Sam Wels of the Aumsville fire department invited the association to hold their next meeting in Aumsville February 21.
