Spring Extension School to Open March 25; Courses in Education, History and Law to Be Provided

Residents of Salem and vicinity who wish to continue or begin college or university classes will have an opportunity during the coming three months, when the general extension division of the Oregon state system of higher education will hold classes in room 3-H of the old Salem high school.

Each course, meeting two hours on the respective days, is worth two hours of university or college credit, according to information received from W. G. Beattie, assistant director of the division.

The classes will first meet during the week beginning March 25, when registration may be made. Dr. H. W. Bernard, assistant professor of education at the University of Oregon, will teach the course on "Social Education." Meeting each Monday evening from 7:15 to 9:15 o'clock, the course will include lectures on the contribution of sociological principles and findings to the improvement of educational practices. The structure and functioning of society, as a background for the study and evaluation of education in its varied forms will also be discussed.

Meeting on Tuesday evenings at 7:15 will be the course, "Oregon School Law and Oregon System of Education." An analysis of the Oregon school system and of the laws on which the system is based will be given. The course, a prerequisite for which is junior standing, will give attention to the problems of Oregon schools, plans proposed for their solution, the

It Happened Long Time Ago, Anyhow

SEATTLE, March 20—(AP)—Nels Victor Sandberg was in a sore predicament today of many a well-intentioned husband. He couldn't remember his marriage date.

But the difference in the building construction foreman's situation was that he was obtaining a divorce.

First he stumbled on the day of the month. He wasn't certain about the month either, but "I think it was May or June." But he was positive it was in 1913.

The court sent him home for his marriage certificate to ascertain the exact month and day to include in the decree. It was April 4, 1925.
