Good Word Said For Stamp Plan

Assurance that the federal surplus commodities corporation's stamp plan for distribution of surplus food stuffs has met with general approval in Multnomah county where it has recently been tried was stated in a letter by Multnomah County Commissioner F. L. Shull received yesterday by County Commissioner Roy S. Melson here.

Shull wrote that the plan has provided county welfare recipients with several hundred thousands of dollars' worth of food which they would not otherwise have received, and that it has met with general approval of merchants as well as relief applicants.

Marion county commissioners were recently informed that this county will be proposed as a fruitful field for introducing the stamp plan at the next meeting of the state welfare commission next Monday in Portland.

Water Use Here Soars in March

Water consumption during March showed an increase of 17,431,575 gallons over March, 1939, and active accounts increased 190, a report made to the water commission by Manager Carl Guenther last night shows.

Salem residents and industries used 110,240,925 gallons last month as compared to 92,809,350 gallons in March, 1939. There were 7811 active accounts.

Sales to the Oregon Pulp & Paper company last month were 55,110,525 gallons as compared with 44,182,050 gallons the previous March.

Total revenue billed was $15,981.51 last month as against $15,062.67 a year before.

Centennial Wants Larger Antiques

The Salem Centennial commission is anxious to receive more antiques and early Oregon historical items for the museum which has been started at Centennial headquarters, 260 North High street. Among the items already donated to the display is an iron, an Indian skinning knife and a mixing bowl made from a fallen meteorite.

Two large windows have been arranged to accommodate the display and each item will bear a name plate with the donor's name, and information pertaining to the item displayed.

Iri S. McSherry, manager of the Centennial, stated that he hoped someone would present an early spinning wheel soon, as the museum needs such larger pieces for display.

Credit Men Plan Attendance Party

Moving pictures showing the proper investigative procedure leading up to the granting of credit were shown at the luncheon meeting of the Salem Retail Credit association yesterday. The reel, entitled "Credit, the Life of Business," was obtained through the National Retail Credit association and Associated Credit Bureaus.

Dr. Floyd L. Utter was named to head arrangements for a party at which the women of the association will be entertained as payment for winning an attendance contest conducted the past month.

Churches Unite To Hear Speaker

Rev. Downs Will Address Three Methodist Groups Sunday Night

Special services are being conducted at the Salem Methodist churches under the leadership of Rev. and Mrs. Karl Downs of Pasadena, Calif. Tomorrow night at 7:30 Rev. Downs will speak at the First Methodist church, with the Jason Lee and Leslie churches uniting. His theme will be "Great and Noble Living."

At 11 o'clock Sunday he will speak at the Leslie church on "The Triumph of the Gospel." Methodist youth of the city will cooperate in a meeting at 5 o'clock when Rev. Downs will speak on "Militant Methodist Youth."

Mrs. Downs will sing solos and lead spirituals as these services. Meetings will continue each night through next Wednesday at the Leslie church.

Private Jobs in State Show Gain

Figures from 21 state employment offices for the first three months of 1940 show a 51 per cent increase in private placements when compared with 1939. New public jobs showed a reduction of 55 per cent.

Of the 10,906 placements reported since January 1 this year 8869 were for private industry and 2010 for public work. Last year the comparable figures were 5883 private and 4428 public jobs.

Although second to Portland in total placements Klamath Falls made the best record for March in comparison with new registrations.

17 Penitentiary Inmates Go Before Parole Board

Seventeen inmates of the Oregon state penitentiary appeared before the state parole board at its meeting here yesterday.

In most of the cases the prisoners have served their minimum sentences and are subject to parole.

Valley Plan Gets Farm Union Okeh

Resolution Condemns Talk Against River Project, Expresses Support

Full text was released yesterday on a resolution passed at the county convention of the Farmers Union last Saturday at Liberty, supporting the Willamette valley development project.

Stating that the union believes river drainage and flood control are of great importance to farm land, the resolution expresses support of the project.

The full text follows:

"Be it resolved, that the Marion County Farmers Union, assembled now in convention on April 6, 1940, at Liberty, Oregon, wish to go on record as being solidly behind the program of the Willamette valley development project.

"We believe the matter of river drainage and flood control to be one of the greatest importance to thousands of acres of our finest agricultural lands.

"We wish to express our sincerest support of this program and to condemn such propaganda that has recently been given much publicity to the effect this project has not the support, nor will benefit agricultural people.

"Be it further resolved that this resolution be published in the Oregon Farmer Union, daily and local newspapers."

Viking Debaters Plan Jaunt East

Staging Tag Sale Today to Raise Funds to Defray Journey's Expenses

In an effort to raise money to travel to the national interscholastic debate tournament, to be held in Decatur, Ind., beginning April 29, Salem high school's debate squad will sponsor a tag sale on downtown streets today.

The four-member squad, composed of Emogene Russell, Zeral Brown, Don Burton and Jack Hayes, has won two statewide meets at Linfield college February 2 and 3 and at Willamette university March 8 and 9. The debaters captured the district championship with eight wins and two losses.

They have raised $100 through voluntary contributions from high school clubs and a tag sale among students. A few local service clubs have all contributed. If the needed $500 additional can be raised through the assistance of business men and the public today, the debaters will leave Salem for the tournament April 24. A chaperon would be selected to accompany the group.
