

Dallas Students Take First Place in Polk Typing Contest

Two Divisions Won by School

Typers Take Individual Honors; Musicians High at Albany

DALLAS—Dallas high school students made excellent showings in two contests held this past weekend. The Dallas high school typing teams won first place in both the amateur and novice divisions of the Polk county typing contest held Friday at Independence and in the northwest district music festival held at Albany the local entries took a number of superior and excellent ratings.

At the county typing contest the Dallas high school team won first place in the amateur division and individual honors including a first place by Jean Plummer of Dallas and a third place by Tyrus Brown of Dallas. In the novice division the Dallas team won first place and individual honors including a second place by Dorothy Ediger of Dallas and a third place by Anne Craven of Dallas.

Kathryn Rowe coached the Dallas team. At the northwest high school district music competition and festival Leeanne Severson of the Dallas high school music department received the highest possible rating in the girls' high voice division when she was rated as superior. Other winners from the local high school included: low voice, girls' division, Mary Margaret Livesey, excellent rating; Elmer Hiebert, excellent rating; girls' chorus, excellent rating and mixed chorus, excellent rating.

The Dallas high school girls' trio of Leeanne Severson, Mary Margaret Livesey and Viola Hiebert, who last year placed first at the festival, could not compete in this division this year because of their last year.

The local entries in the music festival were coached by Raymond Van Dyke, music instructor in the Dallas city schools.

Heirloom Tea Benefits Library at Jefferson

JEFFERSON—About 75 persons attended the heirloom tea and library benefit held in the library rooms Friday afternoon. The girls' chorus from the high school, accompanied at the piano by Josephine Getchell, sang, "I Passed by Your Window" and "Out of the Dusk to You." Old-fashioned dresses, including a number of lovely wedding gowns, were modeled by Mildred Thurston, Beverly Wells, Mattie Lou Picher, Ruth Terhune, Gene Mar Redmond, Patsy Marie Dorothy Lent, Barbara Colgan, Louise Looney, Anna Mae Rehfeld, Constance Martin, Alleen Chilton, and Mrs. H. B. Thurston. The costumes were described by Mrs. Dabert Smith, and Miss Getchell at the piano furnished an accompaniment of old-time melodies.

Proceeding and following the tea hour, Mrs. C. E. Williamson of Albany played two groups of accordion numbers including old-fashioned tunes, an original march composition and an original hymn. Mrs. Williamson sang several numbers also, accompanying herself with the accordion. The tea table was covered with a beautifully embroidered white cloth and centered with white candles and spring flowers arranged in a silver bowl. Fourteen were at the piano furnished an accompaniment of old-time melodies.
