Aztec and Eskimo Declared Cousins

WASHINGTON, April 23 .- (AP)-Dr. Alex Hrdlicka, famous American anthropoligist, told the National Academy of Sciences Monday that Aztec Indians of Mexico and South America and the Eskimoes of Siberia were cousins, 3000 years ago.

The 71-year old scientist, who tracing the apparent migrations of ancient races from the old worlds to the new across Bering strait, declared that his recent investigations of old skulls and other bones in Russia and Siberia showed that they bore striking similarities to those of the Indians of the western hemisphere.

Anthropologists believe that ancient men migrated in successive waves from Siberia to what is now Alaska more than 10,000 years ago. It is believed they spread as far east as Greenland and as far south as Peru, where they established a highly developed culture.. Dr. Hrdlicks added new evidence to support his theory in his report today.
