With Salem Folk at OSC

By ISABEL MCGILCHRIST
A singular honor was conferred upon Doug Chambers of Salem Thursday when he emerged from the political fracas as president of the Associated Students of Oregon State college.

Alice Cunningham has just been selected to become a member of Omicron Nu, home economics honor society. This is the highest award that can come to any girl in this membership being granted upon the basis of scholarship and interest shown in home economics.

Numbering among active sports participants this week were Milton Hartwell in the annual boxing tournament; Gene Hollstein, who left for Seattle as a member of the Oregon State varsity crew and Bert Glazey, pitching a winning game for the Phi Delta's intramural baseball team.

With election of officers for next year still in order, the Associated men's halls elected new leaders this week. Jimmy Cole gained the post of social chairman and was installed Wednesday.

Playing host at their house social functions last weekend were Virginia Steed, Mary Jane Conmy and Mary Ellen Bywater at the Phi Delta formal dinner dance; Dorothy Kibbee, Alice Urub and Barbara Forest at the Alpha Chi's house dance; Shirley Chadwick and Marjorie Ann Johnson at the Kappa Kappa Gamma formal; and Ed Bishop, Gene Hollstein, Bert Glazey and Harry Carson at the Phi Delta Theta bachelorette.

Mu Beta Beta, national 4H club honor society, at a special meeting last weekend, elected officers for the ensuing year. Selected to the position of treasurer of the organization was Quentin Zielski.

Odds and ends... Marion Hess helping with festivities in the celebration of the Alpha Gamma Delta society's fifth annual international reunion day... Parker Gies added to the list of lucky Oregon States accepted by the air corps training boys into the unit... Natalie Near in Portland and Hillsboro last weekend attending the home economics field trip... Henry Pavelak appointed on the senior alumni membership committee... Wally Reed, a Salem visitor this weekend.
