Grain Behaving in War Market Fashion at Chicago

CHICAGO, April 26.-(A)-Be having in what some traders said was typical war market fashion, wheat prices today slumped two cents a bushel to the lowest levels since April 13, showing a reaction of about five cents from the recent three-year highs.

Selling was largely based on receipt of good to heavy rains in the domestic southwest together with prospects of more moisture in some hard wheat localities and elsewhere in the United States grain belt overnight. Heavy receipts at some terminals, particularly in the spring wheat zone, also added to the weakness.

However, today's downturn, as well as the weakness shown earlier this week, came as no particular surprise to many traders whe said the market was entitled to a reaction after the sharp upturn that followed the invasion of Scandinavia. Prices now are about 4 cents above quotations just prior to that war development.

Wheat close 1%-24 cents lower than yesterday, at the lowest of the session, with May $1.07%-1/2 and July $1.96 %-1/4. Corn was off 1/4-%, May 63 %-%, July

The 12 principal terminals received 1.311.000 bushels, more more than double receipts a year ago and at Minneapolis and Du luth-volume totaled 647 cars com pared with 164 a year ago. How ever, trade reports said demand for cash grain at Minneapolis was the best in months, indicating commercial dealers were absorbing supplies readily.

Japanese Beetle Quarantine Holds

The federal bureau of entomology and plant quarantine has advised the state department of agriculture that its quarantine on the Japanese beetle will be continued, and also additional eastern and southern territory brought under it. This quarantine was subject of a hearing in the national capital last February, at which western states urged that the federal quarantine be contin-

The Japanese beetle has not made its way west, and for this reason the Oregon department of agriculture, as well as other western ones, has been hopeful that the federal control would be continued. This hope was based on the feeling that it would be improbable that the several states could reach a uniform method of procedure against the beetle.
