The address followed an anxious day of reading dispatches telling of the nazi invasion of Holland and Belgium, and conferring with his advisors on how best to shield America from the impact of the broadening war

At a press conference during the historic day, he applauded a proclamation in which Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands summoned her soldiers to fight the invasion and voiced a "flaming

LONDON, May 10-(AP)-Aggressive Winston Churchill, England's new prime minister, is the one man to whom the British public has looked for inspiration and encouragement since the war began. Called back to his world war job as supreme dictator of His Majesty's navy on the day Britain declared war on Germany, the 65year-old politician has become a national hero.

People like the forthright way he always says what he thinks and feels, the frequent surprises he springs, and his "bulldog determination" to defeat nazi Germany.

In six months the navy has lost around 3000 officers and men and over 30 ships, yet so great is the nation's confidence in Churchill that this conduct of the war at sea seldom has been critfcized by the man in the street.

A tireless, enthusiastic worker who always has poured his abundant energy into whatever job he had, Churchill seldom has spent more than a few hours away from his office in Whitehall since he took over the nerve enter of the navy.

The day Churchill assumed office an official handed him a government pass so he wouldn't be stopped by admiralty door keepers possibly unaware of his identity. He tore the pass into shreds. "My face is my fortune." he said.
