To make the situation sweeter, one is a southpaw and the other a righthauder. Better yet, the southpaw, Clay Patterson, is essentially a control chucker while the righthander, Ben Gifford, is a quickle with quite a bit of stuff for a youngster.

For Harold Hauk's high school nine, which won 12 of 18 games for the entire season, Patterson pitched two wins and Gifford five. Patterson lost none and Gifford two, one of which was a relief ap-

Chunky Patterson saw service in but two games. He hurled a three-hit in the Viks' first game of the season and then was retired in favor of a cranky appendix, recovering from the operation in time to to s another three-hit win against Forest Grove in Lintield's invitational teurnament. He worked under Grant on last year's Legion team, as well as for the '39 tonight. Vikings, and the experience gained should put him at his Junior peak

Ordinarily, pitching is the biggest problem Legion teams have to meet, but with Patterson and Gifford in a large measure solving that one for the Salem team, Coach Grant can afford to devote more of his time to developing a much needed receiver for the hurlers and in coaching other spots.
