Germans Reported Inside Gates of Paris

Silvertown Has 29,757, Woodburn 1981; Census Shows Valley Cities' Growth

Falls City and Turner Reveal Heaviest Gains

Stayton is up to 1066. Mt. Angel has 1116, McCall reports

Jefferson is only loser in decade; county total due soon

Final results of the 1940 census were announced for 18 Marion and Polk county cities yesterday by District Census Enumerator A. B. McCall.

In all cases but one, towns in the Salem area increased in population during the 10-year period since the last enumeration in 1930. McCall's announcement showed

The only towns which showed a decrease was Jefferson, which dropped from 691 to 471 during the decade.

Others increased rapidly, with West Salem, which grew from 974 to 1410, a total of 45 per cent, among the leaders. Most rapid growth for the area, however, was shown by Turner, which increased by 48 per cent from 283 to 415. Falls City experienced nearly equal increase, having come from 494 to 713 during the period, a 44 per cent growth.

Silvertown, the largest city listed, was up to 29,757 in 1940, as compared with 24,622 in 1930. Woodburn totalled 1981, as against 1975, and Mt. Angel was counted at 1116 compared with 979 a decade ago.

Stayton population was listed at 1066, as compared with 797, and Independence at 1862 against 1248 in 1930. Gervais grew from 254 to 332, Hubbard from 330 to 387, Scotts Mills from 153 to 226, and Sublimity from 214 to 290.

Monmouth, third city in Polk county, was counted out at 944, as compared with 906 in 1930. Aumsville, in Marion county, showed a population of 173 as compared with 153 ten years ago, and Aurora was enumerated at 226 against 215. Donald increased from 114 to 125 in 1940.

McCall indicated yesterday that total count for various counties in this census district will be revealed before scheduled date of closing of the census office on June 30, but did not say exactly when the announcement will be made.

A number of routine details remain to be dealt with before final statements of county population can be revealed, he said, and concluding operations of checking and adding must be completed.

Nazi-Sponsored Magazine Quits

MEXICO CITY, June 13.—(AP)—Jose Vasconcelos, noted Mexican intellectual and publisher of the Nazi-sponsored magazine Timon, announced tonight that because of "existing conditions" the weekly had suspended publication.

His announcement followed by only a few hours the government's official statement that Arthur Dietrich, chief of the German legation's press bureau and director of Nazi propaganda in Mexico, had been asked to leave the country because his activities were "considered prejudicial to our nation."

Two Farmers Die Result of Battle Over Water Rights

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho, June 13.—(AP)—Gunfire that climaxed a potato field quarrel over irrigation rights took its second victim today with the death of Joseph A. Parr, 48, Oregon farmer.

Parr died in an Idaho Falls hospital of an abdominal wound. Nicholas Kosen, 51, who Deputy Sheriff Bryan Ellsworth said fired on his unarmed neighbor Tuesday, following months of dispute, succumbed shortly afterward at what Ellsworth termed a self-inflicted head wound.

BEAUTY AND THE STATE GRANGE MASTERS

Congress May Remain in Session Long as World Crisis Continues

In One Ear . . .

—Paul Hauser's Column

The legions of Bismarck and Von Moltke had crushed the misled troops of a misguided Napoleon in 1870 when Walt Whitman was writing "Leaves of Grass." It was a bitter defeat and Prussian boots tramped under L'Arc de Triomphe.

The legions of Hitler and Von Reichenau are crushing in on Paris and Premier Reynaud is Paul H. Hauser, Jr. as much as admitting "this battle is lost." It is 1940, but the words of Walt Whitman still extend the hopes and feelings of those portions of the world not yet succumbed to hate and power. (Turn to Page 2, Col. 4)

Food Stamp Plan Opening Is Set July 15; Director Here

Prospects for success of the federal surplus commodities corporation's food stamp plan in Marion county appear to be excellent. Jonathan Garst, regional director of the plan, stated yesterday during a brief visit in Salem.

"We introduced the plan into Portland on January 1 as the ninth or tenth city in the western region to receive it," he told a reporter yesterday.

"It has run excellently there with great cooperation not only from the welfare department and food stores, but also from welfare clients themselves."

Expansion of the Portland stamp operation is now beginning, he said, with introduction of the plan into Clatsop and Marion counties, where it will be handled through state welfare agencies.

Raver Thanks Grange for Aid To Bonneville

Fairmount Grange Wins in Drill Contest at Olinger

Consideration of Bulk of Resolutions Remains for Today

The drill team from Fairmount grange in Benton county placed first in the state grange convention's drill contest yesterday afternoon on Olinger field, winning the $400 first prize and the right to lead the march in the exemplification of the sixth degree ceremonies last night.

Second place was awarded Sunnydale grange in Douglas county, and third place went to the young grangers' drill team from Silvertown Hills grange.

Turkey Reaffirms Pact With Allies

But Signs Trade Treaty With Germany; Egypt Prepared to Aid

(By The Associated Press)

Turkey reaffirmed Thursday her mutual assistance pledge with Britain and France, waving aside as worthless Italy's offer to respect her neutrality, while Egypt put all her air and naval bases and ports at Britain's disposal, promising the "greatest possible assistance."

Most of Officers of Music Teacher Group Reelected

At the 25th annual convention of the Oregon Music Teachers' association yesterday afternoon at Waller hall, Mrs. Jean Williams of Portland was reelected president of the association and Francis Virginia Melton was retained as vice-president.

Our Senators Won 9-0 Home Tonight!

The convention closed last night with a formal banquet at the Marion hotel, and a party at Robert's studio afterwards.

"In that way relief clients receiving stamps may use them at retail food stores of their own choice in their own communities and thus avoid dealing with a central relief commissary near welfare headquarters."

The regional director indicated that about $50,000 worth of orange stamps, which may be used for staple food commodities, and

House Passes Bill to Deport Harry Bridges

Vote Is 329 to 42 Upon Bill Declaring Him Dangerous Alien

Angell Votes Aye, Walt Pierce no; Legality of Act Affirmed

WASHINGTON, June 13.—(AP)—The house approved 329 to 42 today a bill directing the attorney general to deport Harry Bridges, CIO west coast maritime leader, to Australia, immediately. The measure now goes to the senate.

As originally introduced by Representative Allen, the bill was aimed at possible deportation of Bridges as an undesirable alien, but provided for a hearing and trial.

At the last minute, however, Representative Van Zandt (R-Pa) secured a revision providing for mandatory deportation of the Australian-born labor leader "whose presence in this country congress deems harmful."

When Van Zandt proposed the revision, Rep. Michener (R-Mich) arose to inquire what would happen if Australia refused to accept Bridges. Van Zandt replied: "That would be a problem for the justice department," but a moment later he added that the United States had not encountered difficulty in deporting Great Britain or any of its dominions to accept deported aliens.

Rep. O'Connor (D-Mont) said that under the procedure proposed, "you could keep (Bridges) in jail till he rots."

Rep. White (R-Iowa) Johnson (D-Okla) retorted from his seat: "He needs to rot."

Rep. Leland Ford (R-Call) told the house that Bridges was a "fifth columnist," "a law breaker," and was guilty of "moral turpitude."

A little earlier, Rep. Marcantonio (AL-NY) read to the house a letter Bridges had sent several members denying charges that his citizenship application papers were irregular.

Beards of Salem Guardsmen Won't Have to Come off

CAMP CLATSOP, June 13.—(AP)—Guardians of the stringent military code put aside the shears and shaving brush today as concession to Salem beards.

Bushy-faced national guardsmen of the 249th Coast artillery—walking advertisements for Salem's Centennial—got by under a legal-minded sergeant's interpretation of army regulations.

The sergeant asserted the national guard should fit into civilian life as much as possible. It would be an intrusion into normal conditions, he decided, to demand removal of the capillary whisks.

Demand for Paris Surrender To Be Issued, Berlin Report

(By The Associated Press)

Under the laws of war an "open" city, such as Paris was declared by the French, cannot be attacked or bombed.

This regulation was adopted at The Hague conference in 1907.

Italy Gift Statue Smashed; Will Be Made Into Shells

TORONTO, June 13.—(AP)—A large bronze statue presented by the Italian government to the city on the occasion of Toronto's centenary was smashed today by Mayor Ralph Day and sent to a munitions factory to be converted into shells.

The statue is one of Romulus and Remus, legendary founders of Rome, and had been in a closet.

"I never did like the thing anyway," Day said. "Anyone who has ever seen the statue will agree that it was no work of art that I destroyed."

Impassioned Appeal For American Help Voiced by Reynaud

Message From Bullitt of Nazis' Entry to Capital not Confirmed; Tired Defenders Pushed Farther Back

"All Legal Aid" Requested of US by French Premier; Decision Made to Fight on; British Aiding

WASHINGTON, June 14.—(Friday)—(AP)—The German army is "inside the gates of Paris," Ambassador William C. Bullitt informed the state department early today.

"The city was quiet," Bullitt's message said. He had telephoned Ambassador Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, United States envoy to the Polish government now at Tours, France.

Bullitt, who has remained at his post in Paris, sent the notification at 7 p.m. Paris time but it was nearly 7 p.m. Pacific standard time before Biddle got word to the state department.

Bullitt gave no indication of what he meant by "inside the gates."

LONDON, June 14.—(AP)—A spokesman at the French embassy said at 8 a.m. (2 a.m. EST) today that he had no confirmation of United States Ambassador Bullitt's report that the German army had reached a point inside the gates of Paris.

Telephone communication to Paris was said by telephone officials to be "not closed," but it was added that "there is an indefinite delay and no calls are being accepted."

(By The Associated Press)

Crying out that "the life of France is at stake" Premier Paul Reynaud declared Thursday night he had sent a "new and final appeal" to President Roosevelt for help.

France needs "clouds of airplanes" from across the Atlantic, he said, in a radio speech to his people.

Reynaud spoke as Nazi armies pressed in from three directions on beleaguered Paris and even started down toward the grand route of the Loire river toward central France, where the government is in refuge at Tours.

He told his people he had pleaded anew today with the United States president "for all legal aid" to "crush the evil power" that has descended over Europe.

But Reynaud declared with defiance, the soul of France "is not broken," and he appealed to the ideals of the American people, asking "will they yet hesitate to declare themselves against Nazi Germany?"

His speech was made at the end of a hard day for the French armies, a day in which masses of Nazi troops had streamed through three bridgeheads on the Seine river.

The French defenders, fighting without rest against forces constantly relieved by fresh troops, were in dire need in every fighting sector.

Also to the north and east of Paris, as well as on other active sectors, the battle for France raged more violently than before, and the dogged French were failing back.

But in the face of great reverses, and with their beloved, beautiful capital in the hands of the invader, the defenders got the word from their government that French resistance would be carried out to the bitter end.

The decision was made by the French cabinet in the Seine mansion, having fled Paris, met at the temporary French capital, Tours, together with British Prime Minister Winston Churchill and Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax.

Britain Straining All Efforts to Aid

Britain strained every sinew to send all possible help to her hard pressed ally.

The British ministry of information said the army was sending "all available troops and materials" to be thrown into the fight against the Nazi army of nearly 2,000,000 men, storming ever closer to Paris and pressing ever onward through the Weygand line.

Fierce air warfare spread into the near east and Ethiopia where the British royal air force struck at its new enemy, Italy.

The British had a powerhouse, gasoline dump and barracks at

Threat to Blow Up Postoffice Is Cause of Arrest

HUBBARD, June 13.—John Thompson, a 20-year old transient who threatened to blow up the Hubbard postoffice if he was not given a dollar, was turned over to state police here today after he was captured by Rural Carrier Murrell.

Thompson entered the postoffice about 1:15 p.m., and laid a note demanding a dollar on the counter before Postmaster Blanche Bram and left. The note said, "Have money ready for me by 5 o'clock. If not I will blow up the office."

Murrell followed the man and brought him back to the office. Three pocket knives and a bunch of cotton was all that was found in his pockets.

State police were called and took Thompson to Salem where he is held in the county jail on a vagrancy charge. State police said they would notify federal authorities.

With German forces on three sides, Germany were certain that
